THREE POEMS

1. Sometimes I get the feeling that my finger would turn an expensive ring green.

2. On Seeing You From A Distance—
I've melted into so many little puddles
on sidewalks,
that the whole neighborhood has to wear galoshes.

3. Hey, bird—
You're not supposed to be here you know.
You're supposed to go south in winter
With the flower-shirted tourists.
Oh. . .
excuse me,
I didn't know there were radical birds.
Well, speak right into the mike here.
How does it feel to be a disillusioned young rebel?
"Cold."
