Allison vs. the typewriter

I still think about the first girl I kissed.
(Not all the time, just a few sparsely lit moments)
Sometimes I can't remember her name
Or what she wore that day,
The color of her eyes, the shape of her face
Yet I still hear about her, through weak connections and old friends
(Truthfully I always seem to ask, out of pure wonder, really)
She only exists for those brief seconds of conversation,
Then fades again into the poetry of daily life.
