Abstract

Governance and Economic Development

By

Daniel Teferra*

This study defines the concept of governance from the standpoint of property relationship between state and people. This relationship is crucial in determining the nature of a state and its capacity to conduct the business of economic development. The Author will provide historical experiences of different countries to support the thesis.

*Emeritus Professor of Economics at Ferris State University
& University of Wisconsin-Whitewater

teferrad@uw.edu
262-274-1747