"Friday was probably my favorite day so far because we got to see Buckingham Palace and the London Eye. When exploring the city I actually prefer to walk because you are able to see more than if you took the tube. The nice thing is, if you don't want to walk, there are quite a few discounts you can get when you show your student ID."

The new Global Classrooms Curriculum Development Grant offers $2,000 to support the collaboration of WMU faculty with a faculty member abroad to offer on-campus, globally networked learning opportunities. Grant applications are due March 30.

Each year over 1,000 U.S. American Scholars and professionals lecture and research through Fulbright U.S. Scholar Program. In 2017, Western Michigan University was recognized as a top producer of U.S. Fulbright Scholars. There are several opportunities this semester to learn more!

Mark your calendars for the 2019 International Festival on Sunday, March 24. A popular event since 1989, the Festival features cultural display tables, performances, and a fashion show presenting apparel from the students' home countries. Admission is free, and for a nominal fee, attendees may sample traditional cuisine from around the world prepared by international students in campus kitchens under the supervision of WMU Dining Services employees.
