KALAMAZOO, Mich. — A clothing company focused on sustainable fashion won first place at Western Michigan University's seventh annual K.C. O'Shaughnessy Business Pitch Competition and Showcase. Rose Soma, a junior from Traverse City, majoring in fashion design and development, claimed the top spot after making a pitch for her company Rose Soma: Up-Cycled Shirts.

The WMU Office for Sustainability selected a permaculture project, part of the 2019 spring break study abroad program to Guatemala, as a recipient of a sustainability grant. Dr. Lee Penyak, director of Study Abroad, and Marshall Kim, a Study Abroad peer adviser, applied for the $1,750 sustainability grant.

Only two weeks left to the WMU International Festival on Sunday, March 24 beginning at 4 p.m.
