Archers to present business college talk

Dennis W. Archer, chair of the WMU Board of Trustees, will be featured in the next Haworth College of Business Distinguished Speaker Series talk.

Archers, chairman and CEO of Dennis W. Archer PLLC in Detroit, will speak on “Education and Leadership = Respect for Ethics and Diversity = A Successful Global Competitor” at 5 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 17, in Schneider Hall. Those planning to attend should register by Friday, Nov. 11, at shawna.cassada@wmich.edu or (269) 387-6059.

Archer was a resident fellow at the Institute of Politics at the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University in 2010. He has served as mayor of Detroit, a Michigan Supreme Court justice, and associate professor of law.

PSSO holding annual fundraiser

The Professional Support Staff Organization is again holding its annual poinsettia sale fundraiser. Orders for 2011 are being accepted through Wednesday, Nov. 23.

Poinsettias are $10 each and are available in seven colors: red, white, pink, burgundy, marble, jingle bells and Monet. Visit www.wmich.edu/pssostore to download an order form.

Payment must accompany all orders. Checks should be made payable to PSSO. Poinsettias will be available for pick up between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 1, in 105 Bernhard Center. Plants not picked up by the 3 p.m. deadline will be donated.

Send completed order forms with payment to Paige Warner, First-Year Experience Program, Mail Stop 5263. Questions may be directed to Warner.

Financial planners visiting campus

TIAA-CREF representatives will be on campus Nov. 15-17 and Dec. 13 and 15-16. To schedule investment or retirement planning consultations, visit www.tiaa-cref.org and click Consultations and Seminars under Services. If you are unable to register online, call the scheduling group at (800) 732-8353.

$30,000 fellowships open to professionals, new grads

WMU will host two West Michigan informational meetings Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 9-10, for technical professionals interested in earning a $30,000 stipend to return to school for a master’s degree and a chance to launch a new career as a mathematician or science teacher.

The University is one of six Michigan schools now seeking its second class in the W.K. Kellogg Foundation’s Woodrow Wilson Michigan Teaching Fellowship Program. Part of a national education reform effort, the graduate fellowship program offers a stipend and a chance to spend a transformative year earning a master’s degree and teaching in a high-need middle or high school classroom.

The fellowship program is aimed at mid-career professionals and new graduates who hold bachelor’s degrees in science, technology, engineering or mathematics.

Representatives from the Woodrow Wilson Foundation will be on hand to answer questions about the program and application process during informational meetings slated for:

• Wednesday, Nov. 9, at 6:30 p.m. in 203 of the Kendall Center (the WMU-Battle Creek facility), 50 W. Jackson St. in Battle Creek, Mich., and

• Thursday, Nov. 10, at 6:30 p.m. in 203 of the Fetzer Center on the main campus.

Now in its second year, the program this year will offer up to 15 fellowships at WMU and a similar number at each of five other Michigan universities. Jan. 10 is the deadline to apply to begin the program in late spring 2012. Visit www.wwteachingfellowship.org/faq/michigan.php for more information.

Registrar candidates to make presentations

Two finalists for the position of registrar will be on campus this month to meet with members of the WMU community and make public presentations.

Susan O’Flaherty, senior advisor to the U.S. Department of Education, will be on campus Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 7-8. Her presentation is set for 2 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 7. Jerry Montag, registrar at the Bad Valley State University, will be on campus Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 16-17. His presentation is set for 2 p.m. Nov. 16. Both candidates will make their presentations in the Fetzer Center’s Putney Auditorium.

O’Flaherty has worked since 2004 at the Department of Education, where she oversees the Direct Loan Division, disbursing about $400 billion in student loans annually. Previously, she served WMU for eight years as director of financial aid and scholarships and as executive director of student services. The latter position included oversight of the Registrar’s Office.

Her background also includes financial aid positions at the University of Colorado—Boulder, California Polytechnic State University, Adelphi University and the University of Bridgeport.

Montag has served in his present position at GVUS since late 2006. Prior to that, he served two years as the registrar at Oklahoma State University and four years as registrar at Rice University.

His background also includes positions as director of admissions and records at the University of Arkansas—Little Rock and Metropolitan Community College in Omaha, Neb., as well as registrar at Florida International University and the Florida Institute of Technology. Visit www.wmich.edu/provost/registrar to review both candidates’ vitae.

SUCCESSFUL PARTNERSHIP—President John M. Dunn recently had a chance to renew his friendship with Prof. Lijiang Wang, chair of the University Council of Beijing Language and Culture University. Wang was at WMU for its Confucius Institute grand opening two years ago, and she and Dunn reconnected at the 2011 World University Confucius Institute conference Oct. 20-21 in Milan, Italy. Dunn represented WMU at the international meeting along with Timothy Light, emeritus in comparative religion.

Both took part in conference panels, and Dunn made a presentation on WMU’s Confucius Institute accomplishments to date. The Beijing Language and Culture Institute is WMU’s formal partner in that initiative. (Photo courtesy of Confucius Institute Conference.)

Emeritus returns to present reading

The Emeriti Council will feature Arnie Johnston, chair and professor emeritus in English, and Debby Percy during its next Wednesday II program at 2 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 9, in Walwood Hall's Emeriti Lounge. In “Reading, Writing and Love,” the duo will read prose, poetry and plays from their latest publications, and include a few songs for good measure.

Scholar to address 'health care mess'

A visiting scholar in mathematics, hospital administration and economics will offer a unique perspective of what went wrong with health care reform when he speaks at 3 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 9, in 2028 Brown Hall. The talk, “Our Own Worst Enemies: How We and Our Government Created, Extended and Exacerbated the Health Care Mess,” will be presented by Charles Phelps, formerly with the University of Rochester.

Religious tolerance focus of talk

A presentation titled, “Towards Tolerance: Religion as Public Arena in America,” is being offered from 6 to 8 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 16-17, in the Trimpe Building's Multicultural Center. The presentation is part of the Real Talk Diversity Series as well as the Comparative Religion Lecture Series.

Social worker co-writes new book

Susan Weinger, social work, has co-written a new book that looks at the double horror of the Holocaust and sexual abuse of children. Weinger wrote the book, “Hell within Hell: Sexually Abused Child Holocaust Survivors,” with Rachel Lev-Wiesel, professor and chair of the Graduate School of Creative Art Therapies at the University of Haifa.

Deafening silence generally surrounds the sexual abuse perpetrated against child survivors of the Holocaust by their saviors and captors. In the book, child Holocaust survivors, who endured both traumas, bravely tell their stories to prevent this crucial aspect of the Holocaust from being buried and left virtually unknown to the world.

Weinger joined the WMU faculty in 1993. A Fulbright Scholar Award winner, she focuses her teaching, research and service activities on gender issues, poverty and multicultural sensitivity.
Events set for International Education Week, Russian Festival

Numerous countries and cultures will be highlighted during WMU’s International Education Week, set for Monday through Saturday, Nov. 14-19.

“International Education: Inspiring Students Locally to Succeed Globally” is this year’s theme for the week, which precedes the 2011 Kalamazoo Russian Festival from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 19, in the Fetzer Center. More than 1,000 guests, performers and vendors from Russia, the Russian Embassy in Washington D.C., and throughout the Midwest are expected to attend. Along with crafts, food and children’s activities, the festival will feature artistic and cultural exhibits; lectures; readings and performances by WMU faculty members as well as guest speakers and artists; a silent auction; and two exhibition halls full of vendors.

Two on-campus events will lead up to the festival: a recital at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 15, in the Dalton Center Recital Hall by renowned baritone Carl Ratner and pianist Vera Danchenko-Stern, and a poetry reading incorporating photos of Russia at 7 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 17, in Brown Hall by Judith Rypma, English. Visit www.russianfestival.org for details.

Wolpe was named Presidential Special Envoy to Africa’s Great Lakes Region under President Bill Clinton, and later served in the U.S. Department of State as Special Advisor to the Secretary for Africa’s Great Lakes Region. He also served as director for the Africa Program of the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars.

‘Dancing’ fundraiser scheduled

The University’s annual fundraiser Dancing with the WMU/Kazoos Stars returns to Miller Auditorium at 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 4, with a Latin dance focus.

The WMU dance department and Partners in Dance hope to raise $15,000 for dance scholarships. The event features local celebrities competing to see who is the best ballroom dancer and includes live music, dance instruction, entertainment and refreshments.

This year’s celebrity dancers include Susan B. Anthony, WMU alumna and international opera diva; Andy Dominiani, news anchor at WWMT TV3; Lori Moore, morning host at AM 590 WKZO; and WMU’s Nick Andreadis, dean of the Lee Honors College, and Greg Rosine, vice president of government affairs and university relations.

To make a reservation to attend, contact the Department of Dance at (269) 387-5830. The cost is $75, of which $50 is tax-deductible.
On Campus with Mindi Bagnall

Mindi Bagnall, registrar of art exhibitions in the Frostic School of Art and curator of the WMU University Art Collection, is responsible for keeping WMU’s artwork updated and maintained. Bagnall handles everything from paintings in Waldo library and the Seibert Administration Building to the outdoor sculptures installed around campus. Her experience and eye as an artist helps her match the right art for workspaces and common areas, not only beautifying these areas but also providing interesting and educational displays.

Another part of Bagnall’s job is working with students in the DeVries Student Art Gallery and making sure they have a positive exhibition experience. “The best part of my job is the variety and that I get to work with the students,” she says. “My work day is always different from one day to the next, and I enjoy being a part of the students’ professional development.”

Bagnall earned both her bachelor of fine arts and master of fine arts degrees from WMU. She attended the University as an art student in the early 1980s before moving to California and then Pennsylvania. She returned to Kalamazoo in 2000 to complete her bachelor’s degree and then stayed to earn her master’s in painting.

In 2007, Bagnall was hired to teach foundation art classes at WMU and to be the curator of the University Art Collection. She also began teaching classes at Kalamazoo Valley Community College. She moved into her current job as coordinator of art exhibitions in 2009 and still teaches one class at KVCC.

Bagnall spends her free time working on her own artwork at her studio in the Park Trades Center in downtown Kalamazoo. It is open during the Kalamazoo Art Hop, the first Friday of the month, from 5 to 9 p.m.

This year, Bagnall participated in the Grand Rapids ArtPrize. Her installation, titled “World Wide Web,” consisted of five small wooden houses trapped in large spider webs built from a variety of electrical cords. The webs are a commentary on our increasing dependence on technology in our daily lives.

Bagnall lives in Portage and has two teenage daughters who she frequently uses as models for her artwork.

Deadline for MLK activity proposals is Nov. 18

Those interested in staging an event as part of activities celebrating Martin Luther King Jr.’s life and legacy are asked to submit an application to have their event become a sponsored MLK program. The deadline to apply for funding grants as well as publicity assistance to support projects honoring King is 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 18. Programs can be funded up to $500, but proposals must contain a detailed budget. Faculty, staff, students and other program organizers are expected to volunteer their services.

This year’s Martin Luther King Jr. Celebration is being held throughout the spring semester beginning Friday, Jan. 13. The annual celebration is held in cooperation with the Northside Ministerial Alliance, Kalamazoo College and the city of Kalamazoo.

Previous activities have included lecture, film presentations, panel discussions, book readings, a brown bag lunch series and a poetry slam. Members of the WMU community seeking funding will be notified if their proposal has been approved for assistance. Whether seeking funding or not, those planning to hold MLK-related events during the spring semester are asked to submit proposals for each of their events so that they can be included in the University’s publicity for the 2012 celebration.

Visit the MLK website at www.wmich.edu/mlk for an application form for proposals, along with submission guidelines.

For more information, call the Office of Diversity and Inclusion at (269) 387-6313.

Campus Aerobathon event to benefit local United Way

Spend a day pumping your abdominals, getting your kicks or just climbing the walls to benefit the United Way. Any or all of those activities await at the WMU Aerobathon from 12:30 to 5 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 5, in the first floor gym of the Student Recreation Center. Tickets are available at the SRC service desk and cost $5 in advance or $7 on the day of the event, which is the aerobic marathon. All proceeds will go to the WMU United Way Giving Campaign.

The workout schedule includes: 12:30 to 1:15 p.m., TurboSport; 1:15 to 2:15 p.m., Amazing Abs; 2:15 to 3:15 p.m., Zumba; 3:15 to 4:15 p.m., TurboKick; and 4:15 to 5 p.m., Cyclefit or Butts and Guts. The climbing wall will also be open from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m.

To date, WMU’s campus drive has generated more than $242,100 of its $300,000 goal. On-campus fundraising will continue through Friday, Nov. 11. Contact www.wmich.edu/unitedway for information on making a gift. Contributions can be made as one-time donations by cash, check or credit card, or as pledges, payable by payroll deduction, credit card or direct billing from United Way.
