PROPOSAL: The Conferring of an Honorary Degree for Mr. Michel Legrand

The Honorary Degree Committee recommends that the Doctor of Humane Letters, honoria causa, be conferred upon Mr. Michel Legrand at a private reception to be held on May 11, 2016 in Kalamazoo. President John M. Dunn concurs with the committee’s recommendation.

Mr. Legrand is a highly-acclaimed pianist, arranger, composer and conductor whose lifetime works have bridged the musical styles of European classical, American jazz and popular music. His diverse, collaborative, and international life work aligns well with the mission of this University, as well as that of the School of Music. The committee believes Mr. Legrand’s scholarly and artistic achievements are significant and serve as an exceptional model of Western Michigan University ideals and aspirations for students, faculty and alumni.

Mr. Legrand is unable to attend commencement in April or June 2016, but will be in Kalamazoo in May, performing with the Kalamazoo Symphony Orchestra as a part of the renowned Gilmore Keyboard Festival. A reception in his honor will serve as the venue for conferring the honorary degree. The ceremony will be videotaped and replayed during the June 2016 commencement exercises.

Recommended Motion

The approval of the honorary Doctor of Humane Letters for Mr. Michel Legrand, to be conferred on May 11, 2016, and shared publicly via videotape at the June 2016 commencement.
October 16, 2015

Dear President Dunn,

It gives me the greatest satisfaction to write in support of a Doctor Honoris Causa for Michel Legrand, one of the greatest artists for more than the last half century. Legrand is an internationally beloved pianist, composer and arranger. His music became the soundtrack for more than two generations of Americans through film scores including The Summer Of ’42; The Thomas Crowne Affair, The Umbrellas Of Cherbourg, Lady Sings The Blues, Yentl, and many more. Songs from these, including The Windmills Of Your Mind, I Will Wait For You, and What Are You Doing The Rest Of Your Life, became standards in both popular and jazz repertoire.

From my perspective, Michel Legrand’s aesthetic, endless well of creativity and career trajectory particularly deserve this recognition from Western Michigan University. He is the product of the highest standards in musical training, and a life long connection with European classical, American jazz, and popular music. His life’s opus reflects in many ways the efforts and ultimate unique recognition that the WMU School of Music receives for bridging, embracing and successfully merging these styles of music.

Beyond his highly recognized orchestral works, film scores and songs, Michel Legrand has a beautiful legacy of collaborative works with many of the greatest jazz artists of the past 50 years, including Miles Davis, Frank Sinatra, Tony Bennett, Louis Armstrong and Bill Evans.

Michel Legrand’s presence on the WMU campus for the Gilmore International Keyboard Festival, as a composer and pianist, provides an incredible opportunity. Legrand’s collaboration with The Kalamazoo Symphony in concert at Miller Auditorium, and his jazz trio performance with myself and Tim Froncek at our Gilmore Theater Complex, is a perfect example of the collaborative efforts that make our community an arts and education magnet and model. It also provides a unique and timely opportunity to connect Western Michigan University to a gentleman who will be remembered internationally for his contributions for many generations to come.

Respectfully,

Tom Knific
Professor of Music
Director of Jazz Studies
Kalamazoo, October 16, 2015.

Re: Michel Legrand – Letter of Recommendation for a Doctor Honoris Causa

Mr. President,
Dear Dr. Dunn,

It is with tremendous pleasure and honor that I am submitting this letter of recommendation in regard to a Doctor Honoris Causa for international renowned and acclaimed composer, orchestrator, arranger, pianist and three-time Oscar winner, Michel Legrand.

Michel Legrand is known as the musical ‘wunderkind’ of the 20th century; not only encompasses his talent multiple musical disciplines but he’s also known as one of the very first cross-over artists, performing, composing, arranging and orchestrating as well the genres of classical, jazz, variety, pop and musical. Michel is also worldwide known as the ‘protégé d’excellence’ of renowned French music pedagogue Nadia Boulanger, with whom he studied in Paris in 1940’s, graduating when he was only 17 years old, and who was responsible for his very successful career. Please see attached to this letter Michel Legrand’s full biography for more detailed information and visit his website on www.michellegrandofficial.com.

Personally, I’ve known Michel Legrand for many years and have collaborated with him on many musical projects, including several CD productions, a DVD, a Harp commission for the Chamber Orchestra of Philadelphia, and most recently a joint commission from the Kalamazoo Symphony...
Orchestra and The Gilmore for a Piano Concerto, to be premiered at the Gilmore Festival Finale on Saturday, May 14, 2016.

We in Kalamazoo are blessed to have this amazing Artist visit us next year; although nearly 84 years of age, Michel Legrand remains extremely active and will spend 10 full days with us, not only to personally create and performing his brand new classical piano concerto with the Kalamazoo Symphony Orchestra, but also to perform 2 jazz concerts with a trio consisting of WMU professors for The Gilmore.

It goes without saying that having this wonderful talent with us, combined with his specific commitment to music education and music performance in general, would be an ideal opportunity to honor him for his contributions to the world of music. Therefore and for many more reasons, I sincerely hope that you would be willing to consider this amazing man for a Doctor Honoris Causa of your renowned University.

Looking forward to your reply, I remain,

Respectfully Submitted.

Sincerely,

RE: Nomination for Michel Legrand

This is a letter of nomination for the Doctor of Letters, honoris causa, for internationally acclaimed musician Michel Legrand. Supporting letters by Peter Giselinck, President and CEO of the Kalamazoo Symphony and Tom Knific, Professor of Music, detail Mr. Legrand's distinguished career, but I will highlight the following:

- graduated from the Paris Conservatory, receiving top honors in both composition and piano performance
- studied with Nadia Boulanger, an important lineage, as she was one of the most significant musical pedagogues of the 20th century
- has composed more than 200 film and television scores, and has won three Oscars, having been nominated 13 times; 5 Grammy Awards; and one Golden Globe, with 13 nominations
- as a pianist and arranger, Mr. Legrand recorded with such musicians as Miles Davis, John Coltrane, Stan Getz, Barbra Streisand, Kiri Te Kanawa, and James Galway
- has released over 100 recordings as a pianist, including jazz, classical and pop
- as an orchestral conductor, he has worked with major orchestras throughout the world, including the symphony orchestras in Atlanta, Pittsburgh, Minnesota, Montreal and Vancouver

The diverse, collaborative, and international scope of his career aligns perfectly with the mission of the School of Music and the University, and Mr. Legrand's sustained and lasting contributions to the arts make him a worthy nominee for an Honorary Degree from WMU.

At the age of 84, Mr. Legrand remains a vibrant and active performer, but his age and schedule does allow him little flexibility to travel, and he would not be able to attend a WMU Commencement Ceremony. He will be in Kalamazoo in May, 2016 for a ten-day period, as part of the Gilmore Keyboard Festival. He will be performing with the Kalamazoo Symphony and also Professor Tom Knific. This collaboration would provide an ideal setting at which to confer an Honorary Degree.

I hope the committee will give full consideration to this nomination of Michel Legrand for the Doctor of Letters, honoris causa, and we would be happy to provide any further information necessary to support this process.
MICHEL LEGRAND

Biography

“Ever since I was a boy, my ambition has been to live completely surrounded by music. My dream is not to miss out anything. That’s why I’ve never settled on one musical discipline. I love playing, conducting, singing and writing, and in all styles. So I turn my hand to everything – not just a bit of everything. Quite the opposite. I do all these activities at once, seriously, sincerely and with deep commitment.”

This is how Michel Legrand describes his status as an atypical, compulsive musician who cannot be pigeonholed; or rather, his many statuses as a composer, conductor, pianist, singer, writer and producer. Tearing down the barriers between jazz, classical music and easy listening, he is at home in any musical situation. Born in 1932, Michel Legrand came from a family with a musical tradition represented by his father, Raymond Legrand and his uncle Jacques Hélian. When he was ten, he entered the Paris Conservatory, which proved to be an unexpected revelation. “Until then, my childhood had been flat and unhappy,” he relates. “My life revolved around an old piano and I was very bored. I was very lonely. Suddenly, when I joined Lucette Descaves’ music theory class, I discovered a world that belonged to me, people who spoke my language. From then on, I felt that life had something exciting and motivating to offer.”

After studying under the iron rule of Nadia Boulanger, Henri Challan and Noël Gallon for several years, Legrand left the Conservatory with top honors in harmony, piano, fugue and counterpoint. He immediately gravitated to the world of song, working as an accompanist musical director to Maurice Chevalier. He traveled with the famous French singer on his international tours. This gave him the opportunity to visit the United States for the first time. His instrumental LP, I Love Paris, did extremely well in that country, topping the US album charts in 1954. His first hit record also had great symbolic significance, revealing his international potential: the talented 22 year old did not look back and continued to go from strength to strength in France and abroad.

In the 1950s, Michel Legrand also started composing for some of the artists he was accompanying. His first great song La Valse des Lilas, displayed an individual style of melodic writing which soon became his hallmark. “I put a great deal of faith in melody”, he admits. “Nadia Boulanger always said: ‘Put whatever you want above and below the melody but, whatever happens, it’s the melody that counts.’ For example, modern music tends to bore me now. It does of course contain innovative rhythmic and contrapuntal devices but, without melody, its lifeblood, it is lifeless and this helps to dehumanize it. For my part, melody is a mistress to whom I’ll always be faithful.”
In 1955, Michel Legrand turned his hand to another mode of expression when he wrote the film score Les Amants du Tage by Henri Verneuil. Four years later, with the advent of the French New Wave, he became one of the architects of the revival of French cinema. He began collaborating with Jean-Luc Godard, Agnès Varda, François Reichenbach and, of course, Jacques Demy, his creative alter ego, with whom he invented a new genre of film musical. As well as being awarded the Palme d’Or at the Cannes festival and the Prix Louis Delluc, The Umbrellas of Cherbourg achieved massive world-wide success – despite the pessimistic predictions of many industry professionals. “Jacques and I had to work really hard to get this project off the ground,” remembers Legrand, “The producers showed us the door saying: “You’re a couple of nice young guys, but do you really think that people will spend an hour-and-a-half listening to characters singing life’s little platitudes!” They were afraid to finance a film that substituted singing for dialogue and that had a realist slant, much the same as everyday life. After a year of uncertainty, things began moving again, thanks to Pierre Lazareff (who introduced us to Mag Bodard, a young producer) and my friend Francis Lennarque, with whom I recorded the music. In other words, The Umbrellas of Cherbourg is a work that was made against everybody’s better judgement!”

The parting lovers’ theme song, Je ne pourrai jamais vivre sans toi, initially covered by Nana Mouskouri, became a popular standard, largely owing to the English adaptation by Norman Gimbel (I Will Wait for You) as well as versions by Frank Sinatra, Tony Bennett, Louis Armstrong and Liza Minelli. Legrand continued to set Jacques Demy’s imaginative lyrics to music (Les Demoiselles de Rochefort, Peau d’âne, Trois places pour le 26), although he moved to Los Angeles in 1968 for what he called “a change of scene”.

After the success of the Thomas Crown Affair and his song The Windmills of Your Mind, Legrand decided to divide his time between Paris and Hollywood, working on anything that appealed to him: Un été 42, Lady Sings the Blues, Jamais plus Jamais, Yentl, Prêt-à-porter. Regarding film music as another form of dialogue, Michel Legrand is the only European composer with a filmography that includes names like Orson Welles, Marcel Carné, Clint Eastwood, Norman Jewison, Louis Malle, Andrzej Wajda, Richard Lester, Claude Lelouch, to name just a few. Nonetheless, his prestigious awards in the field of screen music (three Oscars) have had no impact on his creativity. “An Oscar”, he stresses with conviction, “is a gold star, a piece of flattery, the sweet taste of success but, deep down, it doesn’t make you any better or worse as a composer, your strengths or weaknesses remain unchanged. When I was a boy, I imagined that I had a pot of grease with special powers: If I dipped my fingers in it, I would have the technique of a Horowitz. Unfortunately, Oscar statuettes aren’t covered in grease! (Laughter). In any case, that’s not what counts: I wrote all that music for and because of the cinema without films, none of it would exist.”

In 1964, Michel Legrand decided to perform his songs himself, adding yet another string to his bow. His voice became an additional instrument that he could put to unaccustomed use. “My idea”, he admits, “was simply to give it a try, to see what it was all about. I also did it to overcome my shyness. After years of being on stage with my back to the audience, I made up my mind to do the opposite, to turn round and face the spectators. Actually, I started to be tempted by the idea after Jacques Brel asked me to do the first half of his show at the Olympia. I was very surprised. Just as surprised as Claude Nougaro was when I encouraged him to perform the songs we’d written together (Les Don Juan, Le cinema). These things show how connected we all are, like interlocking wheels. With Jacques Brel’s encouragement, I took the plunge…” Michel Legrand worked on his voice and focused in particular on building up a repertoire with two writers of his choice: Eddy Marnay (Les Moulins de mon coeur, Quand on s’aime, Les enfants qui pleurent) and Jean Dréjac (Comme elle est longue à mourir majeuness, Oum le Dauphin, L’été ‘42). He subsequently had the chance to put music to lyrics by Jean-Loup Dubadie, Boris Bergman, Françoise Sagan and Jean Guidoni and, in 1981, he himself wrote the words for his album Attendre... which he also performed and composed.

In America, Michel Legrand’s loyalty to Alan and Marilyn Bergman has given rise to scores of great numbers, usually theme songs (The Summer Knows, How Do You Keep The Music Playing? and The Way He Makes Me Feel).

After more than 45 years of composing, Michel Legrand is more versatile than ever. Constantly on the lookout for new encounters and collaborations, he is an indefatigable inventor, refusing to establish a hierarchy between musical genres (“To my mind, a beautiful tango is worth more than some works by Wagner…”). He believes that composition is also an original means of introspection. “The way to make progress”, he declares, “is to be the only one who can create things that no one has ever thought of before. It’s also a way of finding out more about oneself. I want to be more aware of what I can do, even if it means going too far. If I want my ship to continue sailing the waves, I must try out new sails and see where they take me. Having said that, I am highly organized mentally, because of my classical education. I often work on several projects simultaneously. I spend three hours composing for a film, I play the piano for two hours, I finish a song. In fact, every job is a version of the previous one. Even so, music is still a never-ending set of equations that have to be solved. Sometimes, you think of an idea, you can picture it, you can already hear it. You rush over to the score to write it down, thinking a priori that it’ll be simple and easy. Wrong! Umpteen obstacles suddenly appear: form, content, small details. This is because, if you want to be original, every bar poses a problem.”

Also typical of Michel Legrand’s character is that he rejects the concept of a career: “I hate the idea of goals, results, limits. I’m an artist, not a politician. I’m motivated by life and by the richness and diversity of all kinds of music. Without forgetting that what’s really important is to remain a beginner. One of the most stimulating periods of your life is the time when you’re discovering things, when you’re learning. When you become too skillful, your spontaneity disappears, you’re no longer afraid of anything. I hope I never become someone whom people coolly describe as “very professional”! Throughout my life, I’ve always wanted to vary my musical pleasures, and to remain an eternal beginner, without ever rationalizing things in terms of a “career”. Stravinsky once said: “We insomniacs are always trying to find a cool spot on the pillow.” I’ve been searching endlessly for that spot for years!”

It is impossible to say everything there is to say about Michel Legrand in just a few lines – to describe his love of jazz, his historic sessions with Miles Davis, Stan Getz, Phil Woods or Stéphane Grappelli, his meetings with the big names in classical music (Kiri Te Kanawa, Jessye Norman, Maurice André) or easy listening (Yves Montand, Barbra Streisand, Charles Aznavour), to explain how he became a film producer (Cinq jours en juin) or chart the remarkable history of Passe-muraille, an opera buffa written with Didier Van Cauwelaert, which was on the bill at the Bouffes-Parisiens for a year, between 1997 and 1998. In any case, although he may still have some wonderful projects in store, Michel Legrand has already succeeded in meeting one singular challenge – that of living several lives in one lifetime.

PROPOSAL: Environmental and Sustainable Studies Program (unit only)

Background

The Executive Board of the Faculty Senate has approved the elimination of the Environmental Institute and the changing of the name of the Environmental and Sustainability Studies Program (unit) to the Institute of the Environment and Sustainability. This proposal will establish the Institute of the Environment and Sustainability as the administrative unit for the undergraduate major and minor in Environmental and Sustainability Studies and the undergraduate major in Freshwater Science and Sustainability (programs). The College of Arts and Sciences utilized a task force to examine possible organizational structures for the program. The recommendation in this proposal is the result of those discussions.

Recommended Motion

Eliminate the Environmental Institute and change the name of the Environmental and Sustainable Studies Program (administrative unit only) to the Institute of the Environment and Sustainability.
PROPOSAL: Accelerated Graduate Degree Program for the Master of Science in Engineering: Aerospace Engineering

Background

The Undergraduate and Graduate Studies Council of the Faculty Senate have approved the creation of the Accelerated Graduate Studies Program (AGDP) for the Master of Science in Engineering: Aerospace Engineering. This program will allow exceptional students to count up to 9 credit hours of graduate level courses for both the bachelor’s and master’s degrees, thus reducing the time needed to complete the advanced degree. The program will be available for students in either the Bachelor’s of Science in Engineering: Aerospace Engineering or the Bachelor’s of Science in Engineering: Mechanical Engineering. This AGDP program will hopefully provide the incentive for the best undergraduate students here at WMU to continue in the master’s program.

Recommended Motion

Create the Accelerated Graduate Degree Program for the Master of Science in Engineering: Aerospace Engineering.
PROPOSAL: Accelerated Graduate Degree Program for the Master of Science in Engineering: Chemical Engineering

Background

The Undergraduate and Graduate Studies Council of the Faculty Senate have approved the creation of the Accelerated Graduate Degree Program (AGDP) for the Master of Science in Engineering: Chemical Engineering. This program will allow exceptional students to count up to 12 credit hours of graduate level courses for both the bachelor’s and master’s degrees, thus reducing the time needed to complete the advanced degree. The undergraduate program in chemical engineering has seen a steady increase in enrollment in recent years and this AGDP program will hopefully help the department keep the best students here at WMU for the master’s program.

Recommended Motion

Create the Accelerated Graduate Degree Program for the Master of Science in Engineering: Chemical Engineering.
PROPOSAL: Accelerated Graduate Degree Program for the Master of Arts in Family and Consumer Sciences (Child Life and Family Life Education Emphases Only)

Background

The Undergraduate and Graduate Studies Council of the Faculty Senate have approved the creation of the Accelerated Graduate Degree Program (AGDP) for the Master of Arts in Family and Consumer Sciences. This proposal is only to establish the accelerated degree in the Child Life and Family Life Education emphases of the master’s program and not the Dietetics or Textile and Apparel Studies emphases. This proposal will allow exceptional students to count up to 12 credit hours of graduate level courses for either the Bachelor of Science in Child and Family Development or the Bachelor of Science in Family Studies and the master’s degree, thus reducing the time needed to complete the advanced degree. This AGDP program will make the completion of a graduate degree more financially possible for WMU students.

Recommended Motion

Create the Accelerated Graduate Degree Program for the Master of Arts in Family and Consumer Sciences (Child Life and Family Life Education emphases only).
PROPOSAL: Graduate Certificate in Health Care Administration

Background

The Graduate Studies Council of the Faculty Senate has approved the deletion of the Graduate Certificate in Health Care Administration. Enrollment in this certificate has declined over the past five years. At the same time, the healthcare administration concentration within the Masters in Public Administration program has increased enrollment and become the degree of choice among employers. Finally, graduate certificate programs, such as the one in this proposal, have minimal to no recognition by employers in the health care sector unless they are affiliated with an external accreditation body. This graduate certificate program has no such affiliation.

Recommended Motion

Delete the Graduate Certificate in Health Care Administration.
PROPOSAL: Graduate Certificate in Nonprofit Leadership and Administration

Background

The Graduate Studies Council of the Faculty Senate has approved the deletion of the Graduate Certificate in Nonprofit Leadership and Administration. Enrollment in this certificate has declined over the past five years. At the same time, the nonprofit leadership and administration concentration within the Masters in Public Administration program has increased enrollment and become the degree of choice among employers. Finally, graduate certificate programs, such as the one in this proposal, have minimal to no recognition by employers in the nonprofit sector unless they are affiliated with an external accreditation body. This graduate certificate program has no such affiliation.

Recommended Motion

Delete the Graduate Certificate in Nonprofit Leadership and Administration.
PROPOSAL: Graduate Certificate Program in Learning for Sustainability

Background

The Graduate Studies Council of the Faculty Senate has approved the creation of the Graduate Certificate Program in Learning for Sustainability. This certificate would consist of 16 credit hours and be open to all WMU graduate students who wish to augment their graduate experience with expertise in sustainability studies. The program is designed to dovetail with existing graduate programs and will be housed in the Graduate College. The program also strengthens the university’s commitment to sustainability, is designed to contribute to the growth and renewal of vital connections between academic and wider communities and draws on best practice research of leading sustainability graduate programs.

Recommended Motion

Create the Graduate Certificate Program in Learning for Sustainability.
PROPOSAL: Move the Integrative Holistic Health and Wellness Graduate Certificate and the Integrative Holistic Health and Wellness Undergraduate Minor from the College of Health and Human Services Interdisciplinary Programs to the School of Interdisciplinary Health Programs

Background

The Executive Board of the Faculty Senate has approved moving the Integrative Holistic Health and Wellness graduate certificate program and the Integrative Holistic Health and Wellness undergraduate minor from the College of Health and Human Services Interdisciplinary Programs to the School of Interdisciplinary Health Programs. Organizationally, this move makes sense. The generic interdisciplinary unit for the College of Health and Human Services has no administrative framework (no chair or director for example). Faculty in the two programs mentioned in the proposal have reported to the chair of the Department of Physician Assistant in the past. The recently formed School of Interdisciplinary Health Programs has a director and the administrative framework to better administer the program. This proposal would align all programs and faculty within a single school.

Recommended Motion
Move the Integrative Holistic Health and Wellness graduate certificate and the Integrative Holistic Health and Wellness undergraduate minor from the College of Health and Human Services Interdisciplinary Programs to the School of Interdisciplinary Health Programs.
PROPOSAL: Bachelors of Science in Physics with Electrical Engineering Option

Background

The Executive Board of the Faculty Senate has approved the deletion of the Bachelor of Science in Physics with Electrical Engineering option. This deletion is a result of the 2014 – 2015 Academic Program Review and Planning process.

Recommended Motion

Delete the Bachelor of Science in Physics with Electrical Engineering option.
PROPOSAL: Business Analytics Major

Background

The Undergraduate Studies Council of the Faculty Senate has approved the creation of the Business Analytics major. Today’s business data come in many different formats and from many different sources. Major business program accrediting bodies, such as the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB), have noted that analytics, data mining, storage and reporting are key areas of focus for business programs. Data-savvy functional specialists are in high demand and analytical skills provide a foundation of success in many business disciplines. Currently, WMU does not have a program that focuses on business analytics and this program will fill that gap.

Recommended Motion

Create the Business Analytics major.
PROPOSAL: Business Law Major

Background

The Undergraduate Studies Council of the Faculty Senate has approved the creation of the Business Law major. This would be a thirty credit hour major administered through the Department of Finance and Commercial Law in the Haworth College of Business. In addition to completing the required courses of the B.B.A. degree, students would take 12 credit hours from law-related courses currently offered in the Haworth College of Business, six credits from “Perspectives” courses offered by the College of Arts and Sciences and complete the degree with twelve credits from first year law courses offered by the Western Michigan University Thomas M. Cooley Law School. This will allow students graduating with a business degree to have a strong foundation in general business law. This program is similar to many other programs in business schools around the country.

Recommended Motion

Create the Business Law major.
PROPOSAL: Department of Speech Pathology and Audiology

Background

The Executive Board of the Faculty Senate has approved changing the name of the Department of Speech Pathology and Audiology to the Department of Speech, Language and Hearing Sciences. This change is recommended in order to make the department name more accurately reflect the nature of the profession. By using a more updated title, it will also make it easier for prospective students to find the programs offered by the department.

Recommended Motion

Change the name of the Department of Speech Pathology and Audiology to the Department of Speech, Language and Hearing Sciences.
PROPOSAL: Environmental Studies Secondary Education Minor

Background

The Executive Board of the Faculty Senate has approved the deletion of the Environmental Studies Secondary Education minor. This deletion is a result of the 2014 – 2015 Academic Program Review and Planning process.

Recommended Motion

Delete the Environmental Studies Secondary Education minor.
PROPOSAL: Master of Arts in Socio-Cultural Studies in Education

Background

The Graduate Studies Council of the Faculty Senate has approved changing the name of the Master of Arts in Socio-Cultural Studies in Education to the Master of Arts in Educational Foundations. This change is due to the fact that the current program name does not effectively communicate the nature of the program to prospective students, especially international students. Educational Foundations is more commonly used throughout the world to describe programs such as this one.

Recommended Motion

Change the name of the Master of Arts in Socio-Cultural Studies in Education to the Master of Arts in Educational Foundations.
PROPOSAL: Master of Fine Arts in Art

Background

The Executive Board of the Faculty Senate has approved the deletion of the Master of Fine Arts in Art. This deletion is a result of the 2014 – 2015 Academic Program Review and Planning process.

Recommended Motion

Delete the Master of Fine Arts in Art.
PROPOSAL: House all Interdisciplinary Health Services Program Concentrations in the School for Interdisciplinary Health Programs

Background

The Executive Board of the Faculty Senate has approved moving all of the following programs from their current home department to the School of Interdisciplinary Health Programs.

- Interdisciplinary Health Services: Audiology
- Pre-Interdisciplinary Health Services: Occupational Therapy
- Interdisciplinary Health Services: Occupational Therapy
- Pre-Interdisciplinary Health Services
- Interdisciplinary Health Services

This was the intent when the new school was recently proposed and approved. This proposal simply completes the reorganization within the College of Health and Human Services that began a few years ago.

Recommended Motion

Move all the existing Interdisciplinary Health Services program concentrations into the new School of Interdisciplinary Health Programs.
PROPOSAL: Russian Secondary Education Minor

Background

The Executive Board of the Faculty Senate has approved the deletion of the Russian Secondary Education minor. This deletion is a result of the 2014 – 2015 Academic Program Review and Planning process.

Recommended Motion

Delete the Russian Secondary Education minor.
PROPOSAL: Bachelor of Science in Sustainable Brewing

Background

The Undergraduate Studies Council of the Faculty Senate has approved changing the name of the Bachelor of Science in Sustainable Craft Brewing to the Bachelor of Science in Sustainable Brewing. Feedback has been obtained from the advisory board of the program, as well as from perspective students, that the current title is seen as limiting in terms of potential career options for students. Eliminating the word “Craft” from the title of the degree makes it clear that this program will prepare students for careers beyond the craft-brewing sector.

Recommended Motion

Change the name of the Bachelor of Science in Sustainable Craft Brewing to the Bachelor of Science in Sustainable Brewing.
