WELCOMING REMARKS AND INTRODUCTIONS

President Dunn:

“Commencement is a very special occasion - a time for celebration, a time for reflection, a time for closure, and a time for new beginnings.

Graduates, I applaud and thank you for choosing to participate in today’s event. Your presence allows us to recognize you and, equally important, to permit expressions of happiness, pride, and love which is so evident in the faces of those gathered here to observe you graduate.

This is YOUR day! You have only two responsibilities: 1) to allow us to honor you and; 2) to reflect and say thanks to those---and you know best who they are---who have contributed to your academic, professional and personal development.

The latter first---the THANKS part. Graduates, please stand and those in front of me, turn and face the audience and remain standing. Would the Moms and Dads in the audience please stand? (PAUSE) How about the Grandparents? And Great Grandparents? (PAUSE) Spouses, those special partners, and children? (PAUSE) Brothers and Sisters? (PAUSE) Aunts, Uncles and other Relatives? (PAUSE) And, Friends? (PAUSE)

This day is a very special day for you, our graduates, and it is my privilege and honor to preside at your commencement ceremony.

You will join more than 165,000 WMU alumni from all over Michigan and from around the world.

We shall award over 2000 degrees today.

More than 1500 of you will receive bachelor's degrees.
Almost 450 will receive master's degrees.

And 44 of you will be receiving doctoral degrees today.

The next group that deserves recognition is our faculty. They are the very heart of this University. Their intellect, creativity and passion for teaching inspire each of us. Their faith and confidence in your abilities throughout your college years has built the foundation for your professional future. Without them this institution would not exist. Therefore, it is to our faculty that we express special appreciation today. I ask the faculty members to stand and all of you to please join me in applauding them for the fine education they have provided to you! (PAUSE)

Let me now turn to my other colleagues on the stage and I ask each of them to rise as I mention them by category.

They are the executive officers, deans and chairs of the University, and representatives of the Faculty Senate, the University Chapter of the American Association of University Professors, the Administrative Professional Association, the Professional Support Staff Organization, and the Alumni Association. (PAUSE)

Our University is governed by an autonomous Board of Trustees, appointed by the governor of the State of Michigan. The trustees are private citizens who serve the University without remuneration and who set policy direction for the campus. The University is very grateful to these men and women. Representing the Board of Trustees are Vice Chair Ken Miller, Trustee Sarah DeNooyer, Trustee Bill Johnston, Trustee Bill Martin and Trustee Larry Tolbert.

At this time, I would like to recognize those of you who are graduating with honors. Will those with honor cords, McNair Scholars and all honorary society members, please rise so that we can recognize the special distinctions you have earned. (PAUSE)
We also wish to acknowledge participants of our "Study Abroad Programs." These graduates participated in study programs around the globe. (PAUSE)

All of our graduates have their own stories of the determination, commitment and sacrifice that go into achieving what we celebrate today. I now ask Provost Bassam Harik to share a few stories that reflect the spirit each of you and your families have brought to today's commencement and to remind you of how special the class of 2007 truly is.”

(President Dunn to his seat and Provost Harik to the podium.)

Provost Harik: STUDENT STORIES

“All of our graduates have inspiring stories to tell about the dedication, hard work and support that it took for them to get here for this important occasion. There isn't time to tell everyone's story, so I'll just share a little information about a few of the wonderful people we're graduating today.

But before I do, I'd like to mention that WMU enrolls about 300 military veterans, and 29 of them are receiving their degrees today. Many of these students have served in Afghanistan or Iraq, and some will be redeployed once they graduate.

In addition, five of the students graduating today have been participating in the Army ROTC program offered through our Department of Military Science and are slated to be commissioned as second lieutenants.

They include Scott Long of West Bloomfield, Michigan, Mac Walker of Jerome, Michigan, both of whom are earning bachelor's degrees in management through the Haworth College of Business. Scott will serve on active duty in the aviation branch and Mac will serve on active duty in the transportation branch.
Also graduating today is Erik Rastello of Calumet, Michigan, who is earning a bachelor's degree in political science through the College of Arts and Sciences and will serve on active duty in the Corps of Engineers.

We're immensely proud of these cadets, as we are of everyone who participates in ROTC and everyone who has served in the military. We're enormously grateful for your dedication and the sacrifices you've made on our behalf.

Among the other students graduating today through the Haworth College of Business is Christine Berry of South Lyon, Mich., who earned her bachelor's degree here and is now earning an MBA in management. Christy is one of three Berry daughters to have left their mark on WMU recently. Her older sister, Beth, graduated in 2005 and her younger sister, Katie, is in her sophomore year. As an undergraduate, Christy obtained an internship with PricewaterhouseCoopers through WMU's Career and Student Employment Services and so impressed the firm that she was offered a job in its Chicago office upon completing her MBA. Although Christy is graduating, the Berry family legacy won't necessarily end. We hear there are two more siblings in high school who are poised to uphold the WMU tradition.

Just like Christy, thousands of other job-minded students have used our Career and Student Employment Services to get ahead of the competition. They include Jeremy Sikkema of Kalamazoo, who is earning a bachelor's degree in accountancy with highest honors. With WMU's help, Jeremy secured internships with EMM Group, Dana Corp., Plante & Moran, and PricewaterhouseCoopers. He also has studied abroad in the Netherlands, and held various leadership positions while being an active campus and community volunteer. In addition, Jeremy was selected by the economics department this year as a Presidential Scholar.

Many of today's other graduates have also become career-ready by dovetailing their individual talent and perseverance with the opportunities offered here at WMU. Among them is Ricky Robbins II of Portage, Michigan, who is earning a bachelor's degree in human resource management. After being injured in a car accident some years ago, Ricky underwent months of rehabilitation. He came to WMU determined to prevail and worked hard to distinguish himself. He has maintained an excellent grade point average and capitalized on WMU's many academic and professional resources. Not only has Ricky's dedication and persistence paid off, but it's also inspired his peers, professors and others to overcome adversity in their own lives.

Our College of Fine Arts students, such as Sara Garcia of Elyria, Ohio, are equally impressive. Sara transferred here in 2005 and is earning a bachelor's degree in theatre performance with high honors. She chose WMU after competing in the American College Theatre Festival and seeing firsthand what students in our theatre performance program can do. WMU was in full force at the festival with its production of "Othello" and a finals-winning performance by student Larry Herring. Sara decided to audition for admission to WMU, was accepted and has proven to be an outstanding student. Now she's come full circle. Faculty members have honored her with another chance to compete at the same festival where she first learned about WMU, only this time she'll be competing as a Bronco.

Lastly, I'd like to mention two of our many noteworthy College of Engineering and Applied Sciences students. Kate Blout of Holland, Michigan, and Mark Humiecki (Hoo-my-EHT-skee) of Warren, Michigan, have both been named by their departments as 2007 Presidential Scholars. Anyone subscribing to the old stereotype about engineers being focused solely on technology needs to meet this duo to get a more accurate picture of the multitalented, multitasking graduates who are part of the Class of 2007.

Kate is graduating today with high honors as well as a major in imaging and minors in Russian and communication. She's the Presidential Scholar in paper engineering, chemical engineering and imaging and she's a member of our Lee Honors College, National Slavic Honor Society, Russian Club and Graphic Arts Society. While on campus, Kate has been an intern with Career and Student Employment Services, directing publicity for that unit, and she's been a prepress technician in the University's print lab and editor. of her departmental newsletter. She was a volunteer soccer coach for Unified Sports/Special Olympics and other community groups. Kate also completed an internship with a digital label printing company in Denver.

Meanwhile, Mark is graduating today with honors after being selected as the Presidential Scholar in Civil and Construction Engineering. Mark, who majored in civil engineering and minored in Spanish, will be heading to Spain where he has a six-month internship lined up. When he returns, he plans to begin work on a master’s degree in structural engineering. Ultimately, Mark wants to work in the international business arena of a U.S. company and focus on the use of alternative structural materials. One of his projects in that area has already attracted the attention of the Discovery Channel.

“Congratulations and the best of luck to all of you.”

(Provost Harik to his seat and President Dunn to the podium.)

President Dunn: “There are many more stories that could be told. Many of you held down jobs working long hours while being full- or part-time students.

Some finished your studies in record time while others enjoyed the University so much that you extended your stay and became what has become affectionately known as "super seniors."(PAUSE)

A great number of you are international students who have studied far away from your home and family for many years. Some of your parents have traveled half way around the world to be here with you today. As you journey back to your home countries, you have our best wishes and the hope that you take fond memories of Michigan and your University with you. (PAUSE)
And many of our graduates are non-traditional students who have family and job obligations and for whom being a student came after family and work. We have great admiration for your achievements. (PAUSE)

While you have worked hard we hope that you have also enjoyed your time here at the University. For many of you, this has been your first experience away from home and family. So while you have learned much from your course work, we are sure that you have also learned much about life and living. (PAUSE)

We hope that the many friendships you have formed will stand the test of time and that you will include among them associations that you have made with our faculty and staff. For just as we have been an important part of your life, you too have become a part of ours. (PAUSE)

Vice Chair Ken Miller will now extend a welcome to you on behalf of the Board.”

(President Dunn to his seat and Trustee Miller to podium)

Trustee Miller: “Good morning!

This is a great day for all of us because Western Michigan University--its governing board, faculty and staff--and your families, friends and peers are all very proud of your academic achievements. Congratulations to the members of the Class of 2007. Please accept our best wishes for your continued success. We hope that you will keep in contact with our alma mater and that you will come back to visit us from time to time. Again, congratulations, and good luck!”

(President Dunn goes to podium)

CONCLUDING REMARKS

President Dunn: “Congratulations, Class of 2007!

We are at the end of our ceremony. Please permit me a few minutes to share a final thought or two. I intend to heed the words of Franklin Roosevelt who, in giving advice about speech making, quipped “Be sincere, be brief, be seated.

Graduates, we are proud of you. The receiving of this degree is a significant accomplishment; an honor of which you should be justifiably proud. You are the recipient of a first-class education at a world class university, provided by an outstanding faculty and made possible through the support and affection of family and friends---many of whom are gathered here.
You join an elite group of men and women who have successfully achieved an undergraduate or graduate degree. You have accomplished this in a challenging time in the history of the world. Domestic and international crises consume much of our media attention and thought.

Yet, we see positive signs that inspire and motivate us to even greater heights. As you make your way in the world, I promise you will be struck by how often you learn about or meet a fellow WMU alum. They are literally everywhere and playing significant roles in their professions and world affairs.

You'll find our nearly 165,000 alumni in some surprising places.
- You might meet or hear of James Leisenring (LIE-zen-ring), a 1964 alumnus who is in London as part of the International Accounting Standards Board that is developing a single set of understandable and enforceable global accounting standards.
- If accounting is your field, you might also want to know about 1974 alumnus Dennis Nally, who is the chairman and senior partner of the US firm of PricewaterhouseCoopers.
- As you watch news reports next year about the U.S.S. Kitty Hawk, one of America's 11 aircraft carriers, and learn of its final journey home from the Middle East for decommissioning, take note of the commander in charge of that warship and its 5,000-sailor crew and full complement of aircraft. He's Capt. Todd Zecchin, a 1980 WMU alumnus.
- Should you head to the University of Minnesota for graduate school, you might want to know that the Big Ten university's president, Dr. Robert Bruininks, is a fellow alum. He graduated from WMU in 1964.
- If you're a radio fan and fond of listening to ABC Radio's national news correspondent Jim Hickey, please know, he's a 1969 alumnus.
- If you're addicted to the wonderfully successful Television Food Network--the Food Channel--it will interest you to know it was founded by 1956 alumnus Jack Clifford.
- And the opera fans in the audience, will enjoy knowing that internationally known Susan B. Anthony, a 1975 WMU alumna, is a favorite in the leading opera houses of Paris, Tokyo, Madrid and Vienna.
That's just a snapshot--information about a few WMU alumni who, like you, left WMU determined to do great things. Doing great things requires dedication of one's chosen profession. It also means committing to serve others--your family, friends and those less fortunate. Be generous with your time, talent and resources, and if you do, the rewards--extrinsically and intrinsically--will be plentiful. Albert Schweitzer, a brilliant philosopher, theologian, musician and physician, in addressing a gathering similar to this one said, "I don't know what your destiny will be, but one thing I know: the only ones among you who will be really happy are those who will have sought and found how to serve."

Your faculty and all of our honored guests join with me in wishing you a life filled with service, success and happiness.

Finally, although you have graduated from this University, we invite you to stay connected to us. We need your help in preparing the next generation of professionals. You are partners in this endeavor and we, the faculty and I want you to know that you will always be a part of us. Stay connected, stay tuned and stay in touch. We wish you the very best.

As Capt. Zecchin (ZECK-in), said a few weeks ago during an ESPN interview from the U.S.S Kitty Hawk on the other side of the world, "Go Broncos!"

And now, please enjoy the slide presentation prepared for you and remember the good times, the people, places and things from your years here at Western Michigan University."

(Slide Show - Music by Professor Steve Zegree)

President Dunn: “In closing, there are many people who work very hard to make this commencement ceremony meaningful and memorable for you.

Thank you to Nicholas Michiels and the brothers of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, Professor Steve Wolfinbarger and the Western Brass Ensemble, Professor Steve Zegree, pianist for the slide production, the commencement committee, and the many people who work behind the scenes and contribute so much to our commencement. (PAUSE)

And finally graduates, thank you for all that you have given to us and for all that you will be giving to society in the years to come. Make your mark on this world, fulfill your dreams and always remember those who helped to make this all possible for you!

May you enjoy happiness, peace, and health.

At this time the Brothers of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia will present the Alma Mater of Western Michigan University. After their performance, the Alma Mater will be repeated, at which time, all of you are invited to sing. Please rise for the Alma Mater and remain standing until the platform party leaves the stage.”

ALMA MATER
Western, we sing to you Brown and Gold
Western, we bring to you faith untold,
You challenge and inspire,
Your hope is our desire,
We sing to you our Alma Mater, Brown and Gold
