Whenever we pack for trips the one thing that always goes through our mind is that we can't forget this one thing. We repeat it over and over in our heads that we absolutely cannot leave behind this one item, whether it is a prescription or a favorite personal item. In the end we either fail to bring it or end up forgetting something else. I found this happened to me quite a lot while I was packing for Italy. Along with a long list of required material my program, SACI, required, I had a long list of items I needed myself such as prescriptions, contacts, retainers, glasses, etc.
