Western State High School
Addressing the election assembly yesterday was Dr. Willis Dunbar, Director of public affairs at WKZO. The major portion of his speech was based on the difficult choice made on November 4th.

He pointed out that the views of the two candidates were similar in many respects and their differences had been magnified in the campaigning. About 75% of the voters, Dr. Dunbar said, generally voted in the same way yesterday morning. At this time, the General's views and plans were presented at the election assembly held by ingrained tradition. Also, professional politicians affect the vote along this line. Dr. Dunbar stated a brief picture about 11 million of the American voters are interdependent and are like qualifications.

The speaker brought out the fact that the General and his party felt that the present administration has appeased Communism too much and thus put our country in a dangerous position both in Europe and the Far East.

Charles ended his speech on Eisenhower's behalf by presenting Ike's feelings on corruption in government. He feels that he and his party can clean up the mess in Washington more effectively than could his rival, Governor Stevenson.

Ann Frey presented a glimpse of Eisenhower's character, experience, and qualifications. She stressed the fact that Eisenhower has had years of experience in organizing and leading the countries of Europe and that he has all the necessary qualifications of leadership as well as high moral and personal integrity. She pointed out that during the time that he was the head of NATO, he gained years of experience.

Dick Named Vice President by CUBS

Senator Richard Nixon, the Republican vice presidential candidate, won the mock election along with General Eisenhower yesterday. The junior senator from California, first got into political life six years ago, when he was elected to the United States Congress.

As a senator, Mr. Nixon, helped break the Alger Hiss case after most people had entirely forgotten about it. This brought him to public attention for the first time on a national basis.

In July, after General Eisenhower had or unluckily, this election on the ticket for nothing in the national picture. By the time Nixon was added to the this little edition ticket as the vice was printed, no national presidential nominee. All returns were deformed. Only a short time etc. So, although the after the campaign had S.H. Republicans will begun, charges were be shouting "Yeh" for hurled at Senator Nixalke, look out because about a political fund Adlai could easily win set up for him in Cal without the support of ifornia. These charges State High. resulted in Senator No matter how it ends Nixon, for the first up, still the hilltop time in American life, his Democrats may be proud tory, baring his financial because it really was ses to the American a great fight.

With this turbulent beginning, Senator Nixon embarked on the most important political campaign of his life to be elected vice president of the United States.

There are many people and groups who deserve a hearty round of applause for their fine work in planning and organizing the interesting and educational mock election.

This brought him to the Social Studies Dept. and a steering committee made up of representatives from every social studies class were in charge of the whole program. The following people made up this committee: Tim Oros, Bob Johnson, Gary Forsleff, Darlene Chapin, Barb Borne, Pat Ryan, Red Gemrich, Charles Maloney, Bob Britigan, Fritz LaCrone, Norm Harvey, Ann Frey, Nanette Slavin, Skip Miller, Joan Biljum, Kay Peelen, and John Weber.

The registration of the whole school was handled by the 12:30 U.S. History class. The World History classes are taking care of the voting places and the ballot counting. The senior government group gave election information to all the home-rooms through their whistle stop tours.

Mrs. Roger's 11th grade combined class was in charge of the election day assembly. The stage for the assembly was arranged by the 9th grade combined class, and the skit about balloting was presented by the 2:00 U.S. history class.
