Western Michigan University
Good morning, welcome, and thank you for being here with us today. A lot of exciting things have been happening on campus since we last met, and I'd like to highlight just a few.

Post-Graduate Success
A couple of years ago, this board enjoyed a presentation by Dr. Ewa (EHvah) Urban on this campus's massive effort to track our recent graduates and determine how they are doing in the job and graduate college market. What was impressive to us then is now even more amazing. The new data covering the 2016-17 year has just been released by Career and Student Employment Services. We can track where our students are just three month after graduation and the WMU data includes an astounding 77 response rate. Many of our sister institutions do studies that are six months out and include significantly smaller response rates. We can confidently say:

- 91 percent of our grads are either employed or in grad school within three months of graduation.
- The median starting salaries for those with bachelor's degrees was in the $40-$45K range.
- For those with graduate degrees, the median starting salary was in the $50K-$55K range.
- Some 77 percent of our grads have jobs in Michigan
- 85 percent of those working are in jobs related to their major, and 88 percent are happy with their jobs.

The data further show the success metrics for each of our more than 250 graduate and undergraduate programs. On behalf of the board, I'd like to thank the team doing this work and acknowledge it as an incredibly valuable tool for any student and family making their college choice. Great job!

Innovation nurtured at WMU
Many of you know I have a personal and professional dedication to the fields of innovation and entrepreneurship. That's why I so enjoy watching how innovation is nurtured here at WMU. Several developments caught my eye this fall.
MEDC funding

The first involved two WMU engineering faculty members who are among just five innovators around the state who recently received a total of $333,000 in funding from the Michigan Economic Development Corp. for their early-stage work in developing new technical products.

- Electrical and computer engineering professor Dr. Massood Atashbar won his support for a football helmet that can sense, assess and report to those on the sidelines, the danger levels of concussive impact for blows to a player's head.
- Engineering design and manufacturing professor Dr. Pavel Ikonomov (EYE kohn oh mahv) received his support for his work in 3-D printing of complex machined parts.

Student pitch win

Faculty work like that tends to set an example that students can model. One of our mechanical engineering students, Chris Messecar, was 3rd runner-up and received a $2,000 check last month in the Accelerate Michigan competition, one of the biggest business competitions in North America. This is the second time WMU students have won a prize at this competitive event. Chris and his teammate Jonathon Penrod are participants in WMU's Starting Gate business accelerator this year and pitched their idea for an "Interlocking Electrical Box" that results in more efficient drywall installation for builders.

Innovation Day

And finally, on the innovation front, the University began December with a celebration of innovation and invention by hosting its annual Innovation Day Dec. 1. The event showcased student entrepreneurs in grades K-12 and in college. Future entrepreneurs presented their ideas, prototypes and models for new products or services to engineering professionals, professors, the media and the general public. Attendees were given "Innovation Dollars" upon arriving, and "invested" their dollars in the most innovative products and services.

Holiday reception

Finally, I would like to remind you all that the Board of Trustees and President and Mrs. Montgomery will be hosting a holiday reception for faculty and staff from 1:30 to 3 p.m. today in the Bernhard Center ballroom. Please take a few moments to stop by and say hello. We are all looking forward to seeing you.
Good morning, and thank you all for being with us this morning. As unbelievable as it seems, we are at the end of the fall semester. We're about to celebrate the ultimate sign of student success--the graduation of more than 1,700 students who made Western Michigan University their school of choice. They're about to reap the benefits of their choice and fulfill their life goals and we are so ready to celebrate with them and their families and friends on Saturday during three ceremonies.

Among those we'll be celebrating with will be mother and son, Raquel and Nicoe Welch of Buchanan, Michigan. She'll be receiving her master's of social work degree and he'll be receiving a bachelor's degree in computer engineering. With those two degrees added to the family's tally, their total will stand at five WMU degrees--a great illustration of how that "school of choice" goal plays out for more and more Michigan families.

Fall athletics/academics success
The semester end also means the close of fall athletic seasons. We not only celebrate the success found on the playing field, but also the success our student athletes have in the classroom. Our men's soccer team, for instance, had its most successful season in University history. They made it into the NCAA "sweet 16" round and two weeks ago, we learned the team led the MAC with a record nine Broncos named to the Academic All-Mac team. And last week, we learned two team members--Zack Bock and Brandon Bye--have been named Academic All-Americans, the first ever for Bronco soccer.

APLU award Seita finalist status
In November, several of us were in Washington, D.C. In November for the annual meeting of APLU--the Association of Public and Land-grant Universities. Our Seita Scholars program was a finalist for one of APLU's major awards at the event. Our program was recognized as one of the nation's top five programs for promoting degree completion. Anyone who doubted the transformational power of WMU and the caliber of the students the Seita program serves had their doubts transformed by Alexis Lenderman, a WMU Seita Scholar and entrepreneurship major. She gave an eloquent speech about the Seita Scholars program and what it has done for her and other Seita Scholars.
Engineering management honors
Our Engineering Management program in the College of Engineering and Applied Sciences just received notification that it is now one of just six programs in the world certified by the American Society of Engineering Management. Drs. David Lyth and Larry Mallak have led the effort for this certification. Our engineering management program combines math, chemistry, physics, electronics, computing and accounting, with communication, team building and the importance of the human dimension in the workplace. And they do it spectacularly well.

Military Times lauds WMU as one of nation’s best
Western Michigan University has again been named one of the nation’s top colleges for veterans by Military Times magazine. This is the publication’s eighth annual set of rankings it calls the most comprehensive school-by-school assessment of veteran and military student services. Not coincidentally, this is the eighth year WMU has made that publication’s list—the only Michigan public university to appear on all eight lists. With more than 800 military-affiliated students, we have the largest number of veterans enrolled at a university in Michigan. And on Saturday, 49 veterans will be awarded the degrees they’ve earned here at WMU.

Accolades
I’d like to close with some news about a couple of student and faculty accomplishments.

Spanish educator honored by statewide group
The Michigan World Languages Association on Oct. 12 named a WMU faculty this year’s winner of the MIWLA Barbara Ort-Smith Award—the state’s most prestigious award for a foreign languages educator. Michael Brown of our Department of Spanish is WMU’s first recipient of the award. He’s been a WMU faculty member since 2004, and he has 25 years’ teaching experience at the secondary and postsecondary levels.

Accountancy professor to lead North American Accounting Society
One of our colleagues, Dr. James Penner, associate professor of accountancy, has just been named the new program chair and president-elect of the North American Accounting Society. He will serve as president during the 2018-19 academic year.

WMU Political Science and Capital Internship program hits the 1,000 mark
I’d like to acknowledge not just one student, but a group of students who have taken advantage of a unique experience here at WMU—our Political Science and Capital Internship Program, mentored by longtime political science professor David Houghton. The number of students who have participated in the program hit a longtime goal this fall and now stands at more than 1,000. The list of program alumni is filled with the names of prominent figures in government, law and business.

It began 40 years ago with two interns placed in Kalamazoo County government offices. The program now places interns in local government offices and organizations, as well as in Lansing and Washington. Nearly half of the interns have served in Lansing, and this fall, the entire effort accepted its 1000th participant. Congratulations to Dr. Houghton and all of the alumni who are part of a Bronco network of influencers.

And finally, let me just add my encouragement to you all to attend this afternoons holiday reception upstairs in the ballroom. Kari and I are looking forward to joining the trustees to greet our faculty and staff to wish all the best of all holiday seasons.

Faculty Senate Update 12/12/17
Suzan F. Ayers, President

Good morning and thank you for this opportunity to present the work of your Faculty Senate in participating in shared governance at WMU.

Since my last report to you, we have learned of the deaths of a few colleagues, including:
- June Mochizuki, associate professor emerita of counseling
- Richard Raklovits, associate professor emeritus of health, physical education and recreation
- James Riley, professor emeritus of mathematics and statistics
- Earl Borr, associate professor emeritus of education and professional development

We recently completed the first electronic curriculum course change process. This has replaced the paper process and while more efficient and able to provide accurate tracking of proposals’ location in the process, it had a few first-time bumps that we are addressing.

Council and Committee Updates
The Campus Planning and Finance Council has discussed and provided initial input on the South Neighborhood development with Campus Planning and WMU budget model with President Montgomery and looks forward to future opportunities to participate as these initiatives develop further.

The Extended University Programs Council is reviewing the current Elearning standards and discussing opportunities for improvement.

The Graduate Studies Council continues to review graduate program curriculum proposals, and is reviewing various graduate policies with an eye toward any needed revisions to help ensure graduate faculty and student success.

The International Education Council has met with Quinnetta Simmons, the Interim Director of the WMU Signature Program, as part of the discussion to help faculty facilitate participation in the Global Engagement Signature.
The Research Policies Council continues to work with the Office of Vice President for Research on updating policies to reflect current reporting and legal requirements. It is also engaging in discussions on ways to encourage and recognize excellent research at WMU.

This fall, the Undergraduate Studies Council has evaluated undergraduate curriculum proposals and worked with the Ad Hoc General Education Logistics Committee on the transition to the WMU Essential Studies curriculum.

The next Faculty Senate meeting will be on Thursday, February 1 at 5 p.m. in rooms 208-209 of the Bernhard Center. As always, you are invited to attend.

PROPOSAL: Road Naming for Phase Two of the WMU Business Technology and Research Park

Background

During the late 1990s when it was proposed that a Business Technology and Research Park (BTR Park) be developed as a partnership between Western Michigan University, the City of Kalamazoo and economic development agency Southwest Michigan First, then Mayor of Kalamazoo, Bob Jones was a strong advocate for the project. As mayor, he made sure all opinions, for and against, had an equal opportunity to be heard. In the end, he garnered strong support for the BTR Park. Subsequently, almost fifteen years after the park was started, then State Representative Bob Jones also helped remove restrictive legislation, so that phase two of the successful BTR Park could be developed.

It is appropriate that the new loop road scheduled to be developed in BTR Park 2.0 be named after the late Bob Jones. His family indicates support and appreciation of this honor.

Recommended Action

It is recommended the Board of Trustees approve the new road in phase two of the Western Michigan University Business Technology and Research Park be named Robert Jones Way in honor of the late Mayor of the City of Kalamazoo and former state legislator, Robert Jones.
PROPOSAL:  BA/BS in Secondary Education in Marketing

Background

The Undergraduate Studies Council of the Faculty Senate has approved the deletion of the BA/BS in Secondary Education in Marketing. The major currently has not had any students enrolled in it since 2004.

Recommended Action

Delete the BA/BS in Secondary Education in Marketing.
PROPOSAL: Department of Geosciences

Background

The Executive Board of the Faculty Senate has approved changing the name of the Department of Geosciences to the Department of Geological and Environmental Sciences. The name change has been proposed since it:

- better reflects the expertise and research interests of the faculty.
- is consistent with department name changes at other universities across the country and will help recruit students to the program.
- was supported by the department’s advisory board.

Recommended Action

Change the name of the Department of Geosciences to the Department of Geological and Environmental Studies.
PROPOSAL:  Minor in Secondary Education in Marketing

Background

The Undergraduate Studies Council of the Faculty Senate has approved the deletion of the minor in Secondary Education in Marketing. The minor currently has no students enrolled in it and will be phased out by the Michigan Department of Education effective January 1 of 2018.

Recommended Action

Delete the minor in Secondary Education in Marketing.
