WMU Board of Trustees meeting remarks
Chair Jeff Rinvelt
December 12, 2018

Good morning, and thank you all for being with us this today. Though it’s hard to believe, we are in the final week of the fall semester. In just three days, we will observe the graduation of more than 1,600 Broncos at our 324th Commencement. We look forward to celebrating what is always a special day for this University and certainly for our students achieving this life goal.

President's evaluation:
I would like to provide an update on the presidential review process that we have been working on as a board. To put this into perspective, your board has two key responsibilities:

First, we are responsible for setting the financial direction for the University.
And, secondly, we select and provide guidance to the University president. An important element of that oversight is our periodic evaluation of the president’s performance. As discussed in previous meetings, the board has been going through a process to gather input for the evaluation of the president's performance over the last year and a half.

The analysis involves identifying strengths as well as areas that may need improvement. Setting goals for the upcoming year also is a critical part of the process. We appreciate the efforts and insights of those who have been engaged in this important task. It plays a crucial role in elevating WMU to new levels of excellence.

We gathered input from a variety of stakeholder groups including undergraduate students, graduate students, deans, senior staff and, importantly, the Faculty Senate. Everyone was very generous with their time, and we would like to thank all who provided input for participating in this important process.
After reviewing all of the evaluation factors, we were able to discuss with President Montgomery his accomplishments over the past year and as well as identify opportunities for continued growth and development.

Our discussions with President Montgomery centered on three key focus areas which will come as no surprise.

These focus areas are:
• student success,
• diversifying revenue; and
• making WMU a school of choice.

These key focus areas are extremely critical to the overall success of our University. Your board believes that with these key focus areas identified, it was then important to identify metrics to help our University’s leadership measure their progress toward the goals in these areas. To accomplish this, the board has established six metrics that we will use to measure our progress and success. These metrics allow the board to work with President Montgomery and his leadership team toward the successes of our University.

For the key focus area of improving student success, we will be using the following metrics:
- second-year student retention
- six-year graduation rate

For diversifying revenue streams, we will be using the metrics of:
• alumni giving rate
• externally-funded research levels

And for positioning WMU as the school of choice, we will be using the metrics of:
• entering student GPA
• high school counselor assessments
As we go through the year, we will periodically review these metrics to determine whether any course corrections are needed as we all work toward building a better future for our students and our University. Thank you.

Trustee Ken Miller

I also wanted to briefly note that this is Trustee Miller’s final board meeting as a member of the Board of Trustees. I want to use this opportunity to express this board’s profound gratitude for the amount of hard work and great times we’ve had working with Trustee Miller.

He is a remarkable colleague and friend who has spent 16 years working on this board. Others will go into the details, but there are few people who can say—as Trustee Miller can—that they have changed this University on such a profound level. From the board and with a grateful heart, I say thank you to Trustee Miller for making this board strong and productive and for making Western Michigan University a better place.

Happenings/accolades

Since last we met, there’s been a number of exciting developments on campus, and I’d like to highlight just a few in the interest of time.

Medallion Scholarship

We recently hosted hundreds of talented young people from across the country to compete for our Medallion Scholarship, Western Michigan University’s most prestigious merit-based scholarship for undergraduates. Each spring, we bestow an average of 20 of these scholarships, each valued at $60,000, or $15,000 a year.

The Medallion Scholars program, co-sponsored by the Lee Honors College and the Office of Admissions, attracts highly sought after, high-achieving students. And I’m excited to say that participation in the competition far out-distanced participation in the previous year. This year, 977 students competed for the scholarship compared to 650 competitors last year. An increase of over 50% in one year. Western attracted students from 24 states, up from 14 states and the average GPA of this group of competitors was 4.12. The average ACT was 29.4 and the average SAT score was 1336. So, these would-be Broncos are truly exceptional and impressive students.
Of the 977 who competed, we will invite 60 back for second-round interviews, which organizers anticipate taking place in mid-January.

I’m also happy to report that, for the first time, every single competitor is eligible to receive, at a minimum, a $2,500 scholarship every year, over four years. So, just for coming to compete, these exemplary students will receive a $10,000 scholarship. We are truly enthused about this program and how it is changing Western.

Staff Giving

As we approach the end of the year, I’m thinking about the dedication and the passion of individuals who work so hard to add value to our campus and to our communities. For instance, I’m heartened by the level of giving exhibited by our University’s faculty and staff. Not only do they work hard to ensure this place runs smoothly and meets the needs of our students every single day, they believe so strongly in WMU that they give financial contributions, as well. One example is the level at which First Lady Kari Montgomery and President Montgomery give back. From the start, they have strongly believed in the mission of Western—enough to send their son here—and to also become donors. Beyond admiration, we owe each WMU employee who donates to WMU our gratitude for their above-and-beyond support. Thanks to all the faculty and staff for their commitment.

Student accolade

I typically offer student accolades and time is short, but I do want to share that we had students in our engineering management program recently attended the American Society for Engineering Management’s International Annual Conference at the University of Idaho, where they presented papers and for the first time, participated in the 11th annual Student Case Competition. College of Engineering and Applied Sciences seniors Arlexis Branson, Kyler Castro, Justin Benjamin, and Chance Owens studied previous cases, drilled each other, prepared practice case presentations, all while working with CEAS to secure funding for the trip. They had a very strong showing, and it was a great learning experience for them. The team was advised by Dr. David Lyth and assisted by Dr. Larry Mallak, both professors in the Department of Industrial and Entrepreneurial Engineering and Engineering Management.
Remarks - President Edward Montgomery

Good morning, and thank you all for being with us this today. As Chair Rinvelt noted, we will be celebrating our graduating students on Saturday. The 1,651 degrees to be conferred at fall commencement represent 1,651 stories of accomplishment.

We often think about our graduates as fresh-faced 20-somethings and many are. But, of course, we offer education to people at just about any stage of life. One student who will be claiming his degree in University Studies also will be celebrating the fact that he discovered—through an advisor's counsel—a career he didn't know existed and is today pursuing.

This is a non-traditional student who is in his 50s and at one point in life suffered from addiction. He learned about our addiction studies minor and can today help people who, like him, struggled with substance abuse. Congratulations to this Bronco and all our graduates for achieving their goals.

Faculty Accolade

• I'd also like congratulate a member of our faculty, Dr. Gellert Mezei, associate professor of chemistry. Dr. Mezei was awarded $376,411 from the National Science Foundation for his freshwater-related research. This researcher and his team design and synthesize a unique class of anion-binding agents called nanojars.

These agents have the ability to remove toxic anions and recover valuable ones, such as phosphate, from water. Access to clean, safe water is a critical issue across the globe. So, we applaud Dr. Mezei on getting the grant, but even more than that, we thank him for the crucial work he is engaged in for the ultimate betterment of people and the environment.

• Like Chair Rinvelt, I also would like to report on the generosity of individuals who share their treasure to support this University and our mission. We realized a more than $800,000 bequest from the estate of Dr. Ruth H. Seay, who died last year. In the 1990s, she established a planned gift designated for the College of Education and Human Development to create an endowed graduate fellowship in the Department of Educational Leadership, Research & Technology.

The endowed fund, the Maurice F. Seay Graduate Fellowship, is named in honor of her late husband who died in 1988. Dr. Maurice Seay was a professor of educational leadership here in the late 1960s and 1970s. He also at one point served as acting dean of the College of Education.

Active in the Battle Creek community, Dr. Maurice Seay also was one of the founders and developers of Kellogg Community College. We honor and thank the Seay family for their contributions, which will benefit many generations of students.

And we have an alumnus whose gift will benefit engineering students pursuing graduate degrees. This alum has created a new annual scholarship that will provide $20,000 a piece to six graduate-level engineering students—that's $120,000 in new scholarship support for students in our College of Engineering and Applied Sciences. We also have a former WMU athlete (who lettered) who established a $50,000 endowment designed to provide degree-completion funding to help basketball players finish their schooling. So, a hearty thank you to these and to all of our donors.

Think Big Town Halls

I would like to end by thanking all those who took part in our "Think Big" town hall meetings in late November and last week. There were some 300 people—faculty, staff, students, administrators, alumni and community members—here in the Bernhard Center, all engaged in identifying a point of distinction for WMU. It was truly exciting to be involved in those exercises.

As a result of the brain power in that room—and there was a lot—we have in hand 97 distinct ideas generated through those sessions. And surveying showed that 90 percent of participants departed their town hall session feeling more hopeful than when they started the exercise. Ans 94 percent said they would recommend the experience to others. We thank to Provost Bott, Vice President Tony Proudfoot and their teams for organizing and leading those sessions.

MOA-18/05: Creation of Undergraduate GPA Revision Policy

- On Thursday, December 6th, the Faculty Senate passed MOA-18/05 which is intended to give WMU undergraduate students a second chance with respect to changing majors to another department or college.
- This policy initiative is about second chances and long-term student success at Western Michigan University.

GPA Revision Features:
- A student can change majors to another department with an expectation that up to three courses may be removed from the student’s GPA calculation.
- The credits earned for these courses will be removed from the student’s academic record.
- All grades will remain on the official transcript but will not be calculated into the GPA or credits earned.
- There will be no refund of tuition or fees for courses removed from the GPA revision.
- GPA revision applies only to courses within the student’s previous major. It does not apply to future WMU Essential Studies except for courses that count for both WES and the major.
President’s Survey

On November 6th, the Faculty Senate launched the faculty appraisal for President Montgomery with a return date of Monday, November 19th.

We had a response rate of 210 faculty.

The revised survey was 20 questions in length, down from the previous 38. The completed survey results were presented to the Board of Trustees and the President on November 30th.

WMU Essential Studies

- Over 350 classes have been initiated in the submission process. Approximately, 10% of those are brand new courses.

- The majority of the courses submitted are currently being reviewed by their respective colleges. The WMU Essential Studies Course Review and Approval Committee will begin its processing of the proposals in January.

- Approximately, 234 courses will have been submitted by the College of Arts & Sciences (CAS) alone. There will be additional courses being submitted by CAS in later January.

- The goal is to have all courses for the initial Essential Studies program approved by the end of spring semester for a fall 2020 launch.

- Once courses are approved, the committee will spend the summer making sure there are sufficient numbers of courses in each category and addressing when and how courses will be offered to ensure the program meets student demand.
- The Navigating WMU Essential Studies workshops were very successful. Over 120 faculty attended. Additionally, members of the WMU Essential Studies Executive Advisory Committee met individually with 20 departments to discuss and plan for the program.
Faculty Senate Council Reports

- The Campus Planning and Finance Council learned of, and provided input into, institutional processes for enrollment forecasting and recruitment strategies and supports continued strategic and innovative approaches to ensure WMU matriculation targets are met.

- The Undergraduate Studies Council has considered 34 curriculum proposals; recommended a Memorandum of Action for the establishment a formal process for designating service learning courses; and considered a policy covering non-degree undergraduate students.

- Since the beginning of the 2018-19 academic year, the Graduate Studies Council has reviewed and approved 14 curriculum proposals intended to improve graduate programing options for our students, as well as began work on reviewing policies and procedures as needed to better support students.

- The International Education Council has investigated ways in which the new WMU budget model might affect international education and it has worked with the Haenicke Institute to develop a new Global Classrooms initiative, which has the potential to transform cross-cultural student interaction at WMU.
