Pres. John M. Dunn
Nov. 11, 2009, 8 a.m.

The year 2010 marks the 40th anniversary of the Western Michigan University College of Arts Sciences. To be more accurate, I should say the name College of Arts and Sciences has achieved its 40-year milestone.

Previously it was known by a number of other identities, but in 1970 the name College of Arts and Sciences was selected to represent the undeniable breath and diversity of the largest College on this campus.

On this significant anniversary, I want to be first to congratulate the College for providing our students, past and present, with a world-class, state-of-the-art learning experience, and for upholding always the University-wide goal of a quality education for all.

Many thanks to our Arts and Sciences faculty, staff and, most importantly, our students for 40 outstanding years. May your commitment to excellence and passion for discovery continue to guide our next 40 years!
