Maureen Hart is the President and founder of Sustainable Measures. She is an well known expert on sustainability and the author of the Guide to Sustainable Community Indicators. The guide is used by organizations and communities working to understand and measure their progress toward reaching their sustainability objectives. She has worked extensively on “green” initiatives with communities, organizations, businesses, and governmental agencies at all levels.

Ms. Hart co-founded and directed the International Sustainability Indicators Network (ISIN), a non-profit network of sustainability indicator practitioners and experts. She has an M.S. from Tufts University and a B.S. from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Ms. Hart will present a public lecture on “Community Sustainability Indicators” this evening in Schneider Room 2000 at 7 p.m. and she is also giving an open workshop on developing sustainability indicator projects tomorrow.

We certainly thank Ms. Hart for this visit to Kalamazoo and the WMU campus and look forward to hearing her suggestions for enhancing our community’s sustainability efforts in the months and years to come. Please welcome Ms. Maureen Hart.
