Please join us for discussion of an exciting new book by future Ellis Series speaker, Prof. Deidre Lynch (Harvard University). Loving Literature: A Cultural History (Chicago UP, 2015) has received wide acclaim as "a revelatory achievement," a book that "will be much read and talked about across all fields of literary scholarship and beyond." Participants are encouraged to read as much of the book as they wish prior to the discussion, which will focus on a single chapter (Ch. 4: "Going Steady: Canons' Clockwork"), led by a small group of English faculty who each will make brief remarks. The reading is available via Waldo Library, easily accessible as an e-book.
