10-14-2010

Greenleaf Scholarship Remarks

John M. Dunn
Western Michigan University, john.dunn@wmich.edu

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.wmich.edu/dunn

Part of the Higher Education Commons

WMU ScholarWorks Citation
https://scholarworks.wmich.edu/dunn/145

This Speech is brought to you for free and open access by the Office of the President at ScholarWorks at WMU. It has been accepted for inclusion in WMU President John Dunn by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks at WMU. For more information, please contact wmu-scholarworks@wmich.edu.
Greenleaf Scholarship Remarks
John M. Dunn
Oct. 14, 2010

• Good afternoon. It's a pleasure for me to be here to meet all of you and to hear your stories. I have to say this group of Greenleaf Scholars--like those who have won the award previously--represent the very best of WMU.

• You have an opportunity to work and observe at this firm that is led by a truly gifted individual, William Johnston. I know you will learn from his business acumen but I hope you also note and choose to emulate Mr. Johnston's other remarkable qualities, particularly his fierce commitment to this community and to the young people who study here.

• Bill is not a Kalamazoo native. He is a Kalamazooan by choice. This city became his home when he came here to attend WMU and he chose to stay and build a career--a life--here. He spent 15 years as a successful educator before he switched to the world of finance. He's done well on that front, but he's never lost his love for students nor his desire to help them succeed. That's what today is about.

• Bill is also a tireless advocate for his university, for this business community, for our schools, for diversity and for the arts. I have the pleasure of working with him on a number of initiatives, and I can tell you this would not be the wonderful city it is without his energy, commitment and generosity.

• Learn from him, watch how he operates and make your own commitment to your career, your discipline and your city. Make sure the contributions to your communities are deep, broad and meaningful. And resolve to reach back and make a difference in the lives of those who come after you. Those lessons are every bit as important as the finance experience you'll accrue here.

• Thank you Bill, for all you do. Congratulations, students. Make the most of this wonderful opportunity.