

July 2014

Wolves Running at Dusk Across an Expansive Desert

Brendan McGinnis

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarworks.wmich.edu/laureate>

Part of the Poetry Commons

Recommended Citation

McGinnis, Brendan (2014) "Wolves Running at Dusk Across an Expansive Desert," The Laureate: Vol. 10 , Article 20.

Available at: <https://scholarworks.wmich.edu/laureate/vol10/iss1/20>

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the Lee Honors College at ScholarWorks at WMU. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Laureate by an authorized editor of ScholarWorks at WMU. For more information, please contact wmu-scholarworks@wmich.edu.

Wolves Running at Dusk Across an Expansive Desert

Brendan McGinnis

There is a certain permanence in the place I have not yet known—or, I suppose I have known in my own right, after slumber takes its pass echoing a cathartic beauty that only be extinguished

by the actions of our old,
I long only to live among them,
with you,
 love,

out where crazy ghosts trail mottled turquoise and suck oases dry.

I hope to find contentment,
a rightfully earned semblance of peace

where the rocks stand red and the vast howls blue.