Patrol to promote peace in neighborhoods

More than 100 WMU students have volunteered to serve as additional "eyes and ears" for Public Safety as part of the Community Patrol Program. This is a component of the student government's public safety initiative. The program will help to improve campus safety and provide students with an opportunity to become involved in community service. The students will be trained and supervised by Public Safety officials. The program will begin in the fall semester.

Key support moves aviation proposal forward, final action on legislation expected this month

The U.S. House of Representatives has approved $6 million for the expansion of the University’s School of Aviation Sciences and an establishment of a new aviation training facility. The legislation was introduced by U.S. Reps. Fred Upton, David Bonior, Bill Ford, and others in the Michigan delegation. The legislation is expected to be considered by the Senate later this month, and if approved, will move to the President for signature. The expanded facility will include state-of-the-art training simulators and classrooms, and will provide an important resource for aviation education and research.

Video earns international honors

The Division of Media Services has been named a finalist for a national award for its work in film and video for its production of a video called "The Hunt for the CINDY awards." The video features interviews with University faculty and students and serves as an introduction to the University's academic programs. The video has been shown at several national and international film festivals and has received several awards. The video was produced by the Department of Film and Media Studies and directed by Dr. Stephen L. Kettner. The video was also featured in the 2019 Academy Awards.

Student recreation facility plans open house for Oct. 8-9

The newly constructed student recreation facility is scheduled to open on October 8-9. The facility includes a glass-enclosed recreational pool, a student recreation facility during an open house, and a self-guided tour. The open house is scheduled from 3:30 to 8 p.m. on Saturday. Guided tours will leave every 30 minutes from the facility's main entrance under the gold awning. Maps will also be available for those who wish to take self-guided tours. The event will begin with a continental breakfast and tour of the newly constructed facility. The event is being sponsored by the WMU Alumni Association and Friends of the University Tuesday, Oct. 19.

EXCITED ABOUT HOMECOMING — The newest event planned as part of this year's Homecoming activities takes place at 8 tonight (Oct. 7) in Lawson Arena. "Bronco Excitement Rally" is a pep rally that will feature the Bronco Marching Band, the cheerleaders and pom pon squads, winners of the campus wide talent show, Buster Bronco, and more. In addition, the Homecoming Court will be announced and the Homecoming queen will be crowned. Everyone is encouraged to attend and show their spirit for the Broncos. The event is free and open to the public.
Grant enables WMU to create a kind program

Preparing blind rehabilitation professionals to meet the dramatic increases in the needs of the elderly blind will be the focus of a $95,000 federal grant to the University.
The U.S. Department of Education awarded the grant to William R. Wiener, chairperson of blind rehabilitation, to implement a program aimed at integrating gerontology into the blind rehabilitation graduate curriculum, making WMU the first institution to combine the two specialties. The grant will fund three years of the program.

Addressing the needs of the elderly blind is "the wave of the future," Wiener says. "Every time I look at the demographics, I'm stunned by the numbers. As baby boomers reach the age of 65, the number of the elderly blind will swell and the number of older persons with vision impairment also will swell, since blindness is often a result of medical problems that afflict the elderly."

Although these persons have diabetes, a major cause of blindness, he notes. It is particularly important that they avoid bumping into objects since, for them, it can become a major medical problem. That's one reason why a different approach to mobility training is needed for elderly clients, he says.

Addressing such special problems of the blind that come with age is not familiar territory for professionals in blind rehabilitation, Wiener says. The young profession, which got its start after World War II, has been geared toward training the young and adults to adapt and be ready to enter or return to the world of work.

"About 50 percent of blind rehabilitation professionals work with children even though they account for only about 10 percent of the blind population," he says. "Another 30-40 percent work with young and middle-aged adults. Very few concentrate on the elderly. We hope this new grant will encourage more young professionals to consider working with the elderly as a possible career specialty."

A major provision of the grant is a tuition remission and stipend package for graduate students who enter the program. Those who successfully complete the four-semester program will have a master's degree in blind rehabilitation and a graduate specialty certificate in gerontology.

WMU is in a unique position to train professionals in both areas, Wiener notes. Its blind rehabilitation program, one of the oldest in the nation, is internationally known. WMU's master's degree program in gerontology also is highly regarded around the nation.

Students entering the new combined program will take six gerontology classes that are part of the existing gerontology curriculum, as well as traditional blind rehabilitation courses. A new class called "Gerontology in Orientation and Mobility" was developed for this program. That course will focus on assessment of the elderly, the use of special assistive devices, diabetes management, wheelchair mobility and environmental modification.

Negotiations are under way with the Veit Administration Hospital in Harris, Ill., to set up an internship program for those enrolled. A required internship and independent project would be completed at Veit during each student's fourth semester. The hospital also would work with Loyola University to organize a seminar series for interns that would feature talks by some of the Chicago area's leading specialists in gerontology.

Four students began the program this fall. By the end of the spring 1994 academic session, Wiener expects nine to be enrolled. A full 25 percent of those enrolled in the graduate program in orientation and mobility

Peltier benefit set for Oct. 11

A benefit for Leonard Peltier, an American Indian some feel has been unjustly imprisoned, is being co-sponsored Monday, Oct. 11, by WMU's Native American Student Organization.
The group is sponsoring the event at the State Theatre with the Kalamazoo Leonard Peltier Support Group. It will begin at noon with an arts and crafts sale in the theater lobby. Beginning at 6 p.m., there will be readings by poets, performances by musicians and a showing of a documentary about Peltier produced by Robert Redford.

Peltier is serving two consecutive life sentences at Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary for his alleged role in a 1975 shootout at Wounded Knee, S.D. His supporters claim there is strong evidence to exonerate him.

One of the original "Dreamgirls" will reprise her Broadway role in the WMU production of the show, Oct. 10, as a benefit performance. Jennifer Holland, who won a Tony award for her work in the leading role of Effie on Broadway, will perform two songs during the 2 p.m. matinee in Shaw Theatre. A portion of the ticket proceeds will benefit a new program for underprivileged youth in Kalamazoo through the Concerned Black Women's Roundtable and the Community Leaders Project.

Holland agreed to travel to WMU from her current home in Detroit at the request of Sharon Seabrook Russell, theatre, who sent a letter asking for her help. She was surprised to be awarded with a 25 percent discount on tickets from Holland agreeing to the special appearance.

Original 'dreamgirl' here for special performance

One of the original "Dreamgirls" will reprise her Broadway role in the WMU production of the show, Oct. 10, as a benefit performance. Jennifer Holland, who won a Tony award for her work in the leading role of Effie on Broadway, will perform two songs during the 2 p.m. matinee in Shaw Theatre. A portion of the ticket proceeds will benefit a new program for underprivileged youth in Kalamazoo through the Concerned Black Women's Roundtable and the Community Leaders Project.

Holland agreed to travel to WMU from her current home in Detroit at the request of Sharon Seabrook Russell, theatre, who sent a letter asking for her help. She was surprised to be awarded with a 25 percent discount on tickets from Holland agreeing to the special appearance.

Holland is scheduled to perform at the 2 p.m. matinee in Shaw Theatre with the Kalamazoo Latino Community Theatre.

The MCC is interested in receiving proposals that integrate service into the curricular and demonstrate faculty involvement.

Funds available for community service projects

Michigan Campus Compact has announced the availability of two financial awards to encourage the development of innovative service-learning and community service projects on Michigan campuses.

"Students who are members, registered student organizations and individual students are eligible to submit proposals for the MCC Fund for Community Service Grants," said Don Zimmer, director of the Kalamazoo College Student Volunteer Center.

The grant cycle will close on Nov. 22. The fund is designed to encourage the development of programs that have the potential to become self-sustaining. Priority will be given to proposals that:

* Foster the habit of lifelong involvement in community service.
* Encourage the development of innovative programs.

Applicants must submit a proposal at least 30 days before the grant deadline. The proposal must include a budget, a description of the proposed service, a list of faculty and staff members involved, evidence of the University's commitment to community service and any other information the applicant wishes to include.

Application forms are available from the campus Compact office.

Details about both programs and proposal requirements are available through Julie A. Wyrwa, student services specialist, at 7-3230.

Great Sexpectations' goes on the road to educate young adults about decision-making

An improvisational theatre production designed to impact knowledge gaps, faulty decision-making and risk-taking among young adults who are dating, "Great Sexpectations," will open its second season on campus Monday, Oct. 11, in the Kalamazoo State Theatre.

Six productions of "Great Sexpectations: Fantasies, and Fears," will be performed at a variety of locations over the next two months. Faculty and students are invited to attend their classes and all members of the University community are welcome to take their high school aged children to a production.

Created through the expertise of Lydia J. Barlow, associate professor of drama and theatre arts, and the University wellness programs, the production uses talented undergraduate theatre and dance students to bring an alternative perspective to the topic of decision-making. Improvisational skills bring to life feelings, beliefs and behaviors common among young adults who are dating, and expose the usual sexual decisions. Topics include sexual communication, unintended pregnancy, bisexuality, substance abuse, rape, bisexuality, homophobia, myths and sexuality, and AIDS and HIV infection. The production creates interest and models skills associated with healthy sexuality.

Past performances of "Great Sexpectations" are reported to have generated considerable interest and excitement among young adults for discussions of sexuality, for providing examples of healthy behaviors and for encouraging risk-taking and for changing student attitudes regarding sexual risk-taking.

During October and November, "Great Sexpectations" is scheduled for 22 performances for high school drama and drama appreciation classes. The production is designed for audiences for covering subjects essential to sexual decision-making, for providing examples of healthy behaviors, for encouraging risk-taking and for changing student attitudes regarding sexual risk-taking.

"Great Sexpectations" is being performed Wednesday nights, Oct. 11 and 18, in the Larey Chapel social room. The Rev. Donald T. Van Hoeven, campus minister and associate professor of Religious Studies, will provide a religious perspective. For more information, persons may call 7-2496.

House to speak at Dames lunch

The fall luncheon of the WMU Dames is scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 19, at the Fetzer Center. The guest speaker will be well-known cookbook author Deanna House. She will prepare a few dishes to be given away as door prizes. The cost for the luncheon is $11.50 per person. Reservations should be made with the WMU Women's Center by calling Jo at 327-4764 or H.G. at 343-8214.

Funds available for community service projects

Michigan Campus Compact has announced the availability of two financial awards to encourage the development of innovative service-learning and community service projects on Michigan campuses.

"Students who are members, registered student organizations and individual students are eligible to submit proposals for the MCC Fund for Community Service Grants," said Don Zimmer, director of the Kalamazoo College Student Volunteer Center.

The grant cycle will close on Nov. 22. The fund is designed to encourage the development of programs that have the potential to become self-sustaining. Priority will be given to proposals that:

* Foster the habit of lifelong involvement in community service.
* Encourage the development of innovative programs.

Applicants must submit a proposal at least 30 days before the grant deadline. The proposal must include a budget, a description of the proposed service, a list of faculty and staff members involved, evidence of the University's commitment to community service and any other information the applicant wishes to include.

Application forms are available from the campus Compact office.

Details about both programs and proposal requirements are available through Julie A. Wyrwa, student services specialist, at 7-3230.
Nominations sought for faculty scholar award

The Distinguished Faculty Scholars Committee is seeking nominations for the 1994 Distinguished Faculty Scholars Award. The deadline for nominations is Wednesday, Dec. 15. Up to three awards may be made each year. The winner of the award will be announced during the faculty convocation in the fall. Each winner will receive a $2,000 honorarium, a plaque, a keynote address, lecture, exhibition or performance for the University community.

Nominations can be made by any of the standing board-appointed persons with faculty rank are eligible, including part-time as well as full-time faculty. They must have at least seven academic years of service to WMU prior to nomination. No individual may receive the award more than once.

The awards are based on outstanding professional achievement. The accomplishments may be artistic, historical, literary, philosophical, or scientific.

The Canadian theologian to discuss feminist theory

Harry B. Wedeen, a professor of Canadian theology and feminist scholar, will present a public lecture at 3 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 12, in the University Center. His presentation is titled "A Feminist Critical Theory of Religion." He is a professor at Trinity College in Toronto, where she also serves as director of advanced degree studies. She has published numerous articles and review essays in current books on a wide variety of topics in ethics, feminist theory and theology. Her latest book, "Traditional Theology and Feminism," has just been published by Fortress Press.

As a WMU faculty member, she will speak on the need for an encounter between critical theory and feminism. Her latest book, "Feminist Critical Liberation Theology," has just been published by Fortress Press.

They must have at least seven academic years of service to WMU prior to nomination. No individual may receive the award more than once.

The awards are based on outstanding professional achievement. The accomplishments may be artistic, historical, literary, philosophical, or scientific.

Come to the Benefits Fair Oct. 14

Where can you go to meet all the experts and learn what's available to answer your questions? Win fabulous door prizes! Enjoy free popcorn, punch, and cookies with your WMU colleagues and retired friends! You'll find all this and much more at the Benefits Fair from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 14, in the North Ballroom of the Bernhard Center. The fair is designed to provide a concentrated time and place for benefits eligible employees to discuss the benefits that are available to them. There will be a wide variety of people there, including representatives from companies and organizations that provide WMU's benefits. The benefits fair will be available to answer questions on an informal, one-to-one basis, and a panel of benefits experts will be available to talk about some of the adjustments they have made necessary by an engaged employee. Representatives will be present from: AARP, Blue Care Network; Calvert Group; Delta Dental Plan of Michigan; Fidelity Investments; First of America Bank; Internal Revenue Service; John Hancock; MPSERS; Physician's Health Plan; Plante & Moran; School Employees Credit Union; SDMG; Social Security Administration; Southwestern State Employees Credit Union; TIAA-CREF; and WMU offices — auxiliary enterprises; public safety/vital records; Employee Assistance Program; human resources; Miller Auditorium; payroll; Sara Swickard Preschool; Shaw Theatre; Student Health Center; Waldo Library; and Zest for Life. These people will answer individual questions, distribute information and assist employees in any way they can.

You may be a lucky winner

It's not quite the Michigan Lottery, but those attending are invited to enter their names in the drawings for door prizes donated by several of the fair participants. There will also be lots of give-aways and free literature.

"This is our first fair in three years, and we want to make it the biggest and best yet," said Richard K. Schaper, human resources-benefits coordinator. "It's your opportunity to meet all our benefits providers and get information about what you've always wanted to know about WMU's benefits." Open enrollment ends Oct. 8

Open enrollment, the once-a-year opportunity the University offers benefits eligible employees to change their hospital-medical insurance carrier or add eligible dependents without having to furnish proof of good health, ends Oct. 8. Eligible employees are encouraged to sign the appropriate bid sheet during the period. Interested University employees may contact the benefits office, 1300 Seibert Building, to visit the benefits office or call 373-6946.

Wick also handles requests for video duplication services for instructional purposes in accordance with copyright laws. Wick says she likes her job because she learns so much from the materials she catalogs. "I have the whole world at my fingertips. I love learning, and I like connecting people to information and services." She also enjoys working with her colleagues in the Division of Media Services. "We have a good group of dedicated, creative professionals," she says. "The office is a vital part of the University — a very stimulating environment." When not at work, Wick spends her time reading, walking, participating in her church choir and handbell choir, and taking classes toward a bachelor's degree in communication.

Jobs

The following list of vacancies is currently being posted through the Job Opportunity Program and Employment Services, the Department of Human Resources. Interested benefits eligible employees should submit a job application to Employment Services, she's responsible for maintaining records on the 6,000 videotapes and 2,000 films in the WMU Film/Video Tape Library.

Jobs

The following list of vacancies is currently being posted through the Job Opportunity Program and Employment Services, the Department of Human Resources. Interested benefits eligible employees should submit a job application to Employment Services, she's responsible for maintaining records on the 6,000 videotapes and 2,000 films in the WMU Film/Video Tape Library.

Jobs

The following list of vacancies is currently being posted through the Job Opportunity Program and Employment Services, the Department of Human Resources. Interested benefits eligible employees should submit a job application to Employment Services, she's responsible for maintaining records on the 6,000 videotapes and 2,000 films in the WMU Film/Video Tape Library.

Jobs

The following list of vacancies is currently being posted through the Job Opportunity Program and Employment Services, the Department of Human Resources. Interested benefits eligible employees should submit a job application to Employment Services, she's responsible for maintaining records on the 6,000 videotapes and 2,000 films in the WMU Film/Video Tape Library.

Jobs

The following list of vacancies is currently being posted through the Job Opportunity Program and Employment Services, the Department of Human Resources. Interested benefits eligible employees should submit a job application to Employment Services, she's responsible for maintaining records on the 6,000 videotapes and 2,000 films in the WMU Film/Video Tape Library.
Thursday, October 7

(14) Hispanic Heritage Month display of books and art by Hispanics, third floor, Waldo Library.

(20) Exhibition, "Wind Dance," watercolors and photo panels of art installation pieces by Linda Talbot Rizzolo, Kalamazoo artist. Department of Human Resources, 1240 Seibernt Administration Building, weekdays, 8 a.m.-noon and 1-5 p.m.

(8) Exhibition, photograpy art group show, Student Art Gallery, East Hall, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

(14) Exhibition, computer generated imagery by Andy Argapadouos, art, Gallery II, Sangren Hall, weekdays, 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Enabling Technology Show and Tell, Bernhard Center lobby, 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

(26) Exhibition, sculpture by Stephen Hekman, art, Space Gallery, Knapps Hall, Mondays thru Thursdays, 11 a.m.-4 p.m.; reception, Thursday, Oct. 28, 3-6 p.m.

(9) Homecoming Week — Thursday activities: (and 8) "roo" tents, near the Bernhard Center, 11:45 a.m.; Promenade and Haworth College of Business building, 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m.; "pep rally, "Bronco Excellence," featuring comedn Rondell Sheridan and the crowing of the king and queen, Lawson Arena, 8 p.m.

University字符串, "Thief of the World," (Germany, 1990), directed by Michael Verhoeven, 3750 Knapps Hall, 6 and 8 p.m.

Center for the Study of Ethics in Society lecture, "Can Religions Share Ethical Views with Each Other?" Robert Hannaford, professor of philosophy, Ripon College, 3750 Knapps Hall, 7:30 p.m.

Concert, University Concert Band, Dalton Center Recital Hall, 8 p.m.

*Open house, student recreation facility: Friday, 8 a.m.-1 p.m.; and Saturday, 9 a.m.-3:30 p.m.

*Exhibition, "Wind Dance," watercolors and photo panels of art installation pieces by Linda Talbot Rizzolo, Kalamazoo artist. Department of Human Resources, 1240 Seibernt Administration Building, weekdays, 8 a.m.-noon and 1-5 p.m.

Enabling Technology Show and Tell, Bernhard Center lobby, 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

(26) Exhibition, sculpture by Stephen Hekman, art, Space Gallery, Knapps Hall, Mondays thru Thursdays, 11 a.m.-4 p.m.; reception, Thursday, Oct. 28, 3-6 p.m.

(9) Homecoming Week — Thursday activities: (and 8) "roo" tents, near the Bernhard Center, 11:45 a.m.; Promenade and Haworth College of Business building, 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m.; "pep rally, "Bronco Excellence," featuring comedn Rondell Sheridan and the crowing of the king and queen, Lawson Arena, 8 p.m.

University字符串, "Thief of the World," (Germany, 1990), directed by Michael Verhoeven, 3750 Knapps Hall, 6 and 8 p.m.

Center for the Study of Ethics in Society lecture, "Can Religions Share Ethical Views with Each Other?" Robert Hannaford, professor of philosophy, Ripon College, 3750 Knapps Hall, 7:30 p.m.

Concert, University Concert Band, Dalton Center Recital Hall, 8 p.m.

*Open house, student recreation facility: Friday, 8 a.m.-1 p.m.; and Saturday, 9 a.m.-3:30 p.m.

*Exhibition, "Wind Dance," watercolors and photo panels of art installation pieces by Linda Talbot Rizzolo, Kalamazoo artist. Department of Human Resources, 1240 Seibernt Administration Building, weekdays, 8 a.m.-noon and 1-5 p.m.

Enabling Technology Show and Tell, Bernhard Center lobby, 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

(26) Exhibition, sculpture by Stephen Hekman, art, Space Gallery, Knapps Hall, Mondays thru Thursdays, 11 a.m.-4 p.m.; reception, Thursday, Oct. 28, 3-6 p.m.

(9) Homecoming Week — Thursday activities: (and 8) "roo" tents, near the Bernhard Center, 11:45 a.m.; Promenade and Haworth College of Business building, 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m.; "pep rally, "Bronco Excellence," featuring comedn Rondell Sheridan and the crowing of the king and queen, Lawson Arena, 8 p.m.

University字符串, "Thief of the World," (Germany, 1990), directed by Michael Verhoeven, 3750 Knapps Hall, 6 and 8 p.m.

Center for the Study of Ethics in Society lecture, "Can Religions Share Ethical Views with Each Other?" Robert Hannaford, professor of philosophy, Ripon College, 3750 Knapps Hall, 7:30 p.m.

Concert, University Concert Band, Dalton Center Recital Hall, 8 p.m.

*Open house, student recreation facility: Friday, 8 a.m.-1 p.m.; and Saturday, 9 a.m.-3:30 p.m.

*Exhibition, "Wind Dance," watercolors and photo panels of art installation pieces by Linda Talbot Rizzolo, Kalamazoo artist. Department of Human Resources, 1240 Seibernt Administration Building, weekdays, 8 a.m.-noon and 1-5 p.m.

Enabling Technology Show and Tell, Bernhard Center lobby, 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

(26) Exhibition, sculpture by Stephen Hekman, art, Space Gallery, Knapps Hall, Mondays thru Thursdays, 11 a.m.-4 p.m.; reception, Thursday, Oct. 28, 3-6 p.m.

(9) Homecoming Week — Thursday activities: (and 8) "roo" tents, near the Bernhard Center, 11:45 a.m.; Promenade and Haworth College of Business building, 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m.; "pep rally, "Bronco Excellence," featuring comedn Rondell Sheridan and the crowing of the king and queen, Lawson Arena, 8 p.m.

University字符串, "Thief of the World," (Germany, 1990), directed by Michael Verhoeven, 3750 Knapps Hall, 6 and 8 p.m.

Center for the Study of Ethics in Society lecture, "Can Religions Share Ethical Views with Each Other?" Robert Hannaford, professor of philosophy, Ripon College, 3750 Knapps Hall, 7:30 p.m.

Concert, University Concert Band, Dalton Center Recital Hall, 8 p.m.

*Open house, student recreation facility: Friday, 8 a.m.-1 p.m.; and Saturday, 9 a.m.-3:30 p.m.

*Exhibition, "Wind Dance," watercolors and photo panels of art installation pieces by Linda Talbot Rizzolo, Kalamazoo artist. Department of Human Resources, 1240 Seibernt Administration Building, weekdays, 8 a.m.-noon and 1-5 p.m.

Enabling Technology Show and Tell, Bernhard Center lobby, 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

(26) Exhibition, sculpture by Stephen Hekman, art, Space Gallery, Knapps Hall, Mondays thru Thursdays, 11 a.m.-4 p.m.; reception, Thursday, Oct. 28, 3-6 p.m.

(9) Homecoming Week — Thursday activities: (and 8) "roo" tents, near the Bernhard Center, 11:45 a.m.; Promenade and Haworth College of Business building, 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m.; "pep rally, "Bronco Excellence," featuring comedn Rondell Sheridan and the crowing of the king and queen, Lawson Arena, 8 p.m.

University字符串, "Thief of the World," (Germany, 1990), directed by Michael Verhoeven, 3750 Knapps Hall, 6 and 8 p.m.

Center for the Study of Ethics in Society lecture, "Can Religions Share Ethical Views with Each Other?" Robert Hannaford, professor of philosophy, Ripon College, 3750 Knapps Hall, 7:30 p.m.

Concert, University Concert Band, Dalton Center Recital Hall, 8 p.m.

*Open house, student recreation facility: Friday, 8 a.m.-1 p.m.; and Saturday, 9 a.m.-3:30 p.m.

*Exhibition, "Wind Dance," watercolors and photo panels of art installation pieces by Linda Talbot Rizzolo, Kalamazoo artist. Department of Human Resources, 1240 Seibernt Administration Building, weekdays, 8 a.m.-noon and 1-5 p.m.

Enabling Technology Show and Tell, Bernhard Center lobby, 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

(26) Exhibition, sculpture by Stephen Hekman, art, Space Gallery, Knapps Hall, Mondays thru Thursdays, 11 a.m.-4 p.m.; reception, Thursday, Oct. 28, 3-6 p.m.

(9) Homecoming Week — Thursday activities: (and 8) "roo" tents, near the Bernhard Center, 11:45 a.m.; Promenade and Haworth College of Business building, 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m.; "pep rally, "Bronco Excellence," featuring comedn Rondell Sheridan and the crowing of the king and queen, Lawson Arena, 8 p.m.

University字符串, "Thief of the World," (Germany, 1990), directed by Michael Verhoeven, 3750 Knapps Hall, 6 and 8 p.m.

Center for the Study of Ethics in Society lecture, "Can Religions Share Ethical Views with Each Other?" Robert Hannaford, professor of philosophy, Ripon College, 3750 Knapps Hall, 7:30 p.m.

Concert, University Concert Band, Dalton Center Recital Hall, 8 p.m.

*Open house, student recreation facility: Friday, 8 a.m.-1 p.m.; and Saturday, 9 a.m.-3:30 p.m.

*Exhibition, "Wind Dance," watercolors and photo panels of art installation pieces by Linda Talbot Rizzolo, Kalamazoo artist. Department of Human Resources, 1240 Seibernt Administration Building, weekdays, 8 a.m.-noon and 1-5 p.m.

Enabling Technology Show and Tell, Bernhard Center lobby, 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

(26) Exhibition, sculpture by Stephen Hekman, art, Space Gallery, Knapps Hall, Mondays thru Thursdays, 11 a.m.-4 p.m.; reception, Thursday, Oct. 28, 3-6 p.m.