Universities can expect no budget increases for 1992-93 increases. "It will be our goal to keep the tuition increase as low as possible," he said. He said he expects to propose a tentative figure at the next board meeting March 13. Engel's budget is due this week, and the hearings for the state universities will begin later this month. WMU's hearing before the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Higher Education is scheduled for Feb. 27. Haenicke said he expects the House subcommittee hearing to take place in May.

"The hearings in a year when nobody wants to give us money are very academic," he said. "How can you argue over what we should do with the money if there is no money to be had? I expect that I will receive, as I did last year, a very significant attack on the salary increases. Last year, we were severely scolded for the contracts we had settled. We have very good reasons for the figures that we have proposed for the contracts, but we met with significant opposition.

He said he should be prepared to recommend a final tuition figure to the board in June for action in July.

Haenicke also commented on these topics during his remarks:

- Upcoming ceremonies - Haenicke has set the date for the groundbreaking and renovation of the expansion for the facilities for student recreation and intercollegiate athletics to coincide with the March 13 board meeting. In addition, the dedication of the Waldo Library/computing center complex will take place on the day of the following month's board meeting, April 24.

- Health care costs - Haenicke discussed WMU's membership in the Southwestern Michigan HealthCare Coalition, a group of 25 area employers who have organized to look into local health care costs. Haenicke is on the coalition's executive board, along with officials from the Kellogg Co., the Upjohn Co., Ship-Parc Inc. and the Stryker Corp.

Haenicke said that health care costs in Kalamazoo are "exceedingly high," compared to other communities of similar size and structure. "The health care costs in this University have doubted since I arrived (in 1985)," he said. "It was about $3.5 million a year and we're now projecting $12 million for next year. That is a worrisome growth rate and we have to see what we can do in that area.

- Doctoral programs - Haenicke said the university has been working to shape new doctoral programs in

WMU reaches another record with winter enrollment

On the heels of the largest enrollment in its history last fall, the University has posted a record enrollment for winter semester of 26,326.

That figure is up 1.8 percent or 459 students over last winter's enrollment of 25,867. Last fall, WMU's enrollment was 27,901, up 3.4 percent or 906 students over the fall 1990 figure of 26,995.

The total winter enrollment is comprised of 22,671 students taking classes on campus and 3,655 students taking classes off campus at one of WMU's six regional centers in Battle Creek, Benton Harbor/St. Joseph, Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Lansing and Muskegon. Last winter there were 22,243 students on campus and 3,618 students off campus.

"We're seeing a continuation of the pattern from last fall," said Susan B. Hannah, assistant vice president for academic affairs, "that includes larger upper division classes (juniors and seniors) and more graduate students. It also includes a continuation of the increase in minority and international students.

The number of campus students in winter this year is up 4.2 percent, from 5,215 to 5,433. The number of seniors on campus jumped by 12.2 percent, from 5,877 to 6,595. The total number of graduate students on campus increased by 4.3 percent, from 3,610 to 3,772.

LaMothe's recent retirement marked the end of more than 40 years of service to the company.

LaMothe to be awarded honorary degree in April

The Board of Trustees Jan. 31 honored William E. LaMothe, chairman of the Kellogg Co. and thenumber of on-campus master's degree students is up by 8.1 percent, from 2,172 to 2,324.

Minority student on-campus have increased by nearly 18 percent from 621 to 741 this winter. There are 1,482 international students on campus this winter, compared to 1,312 last winter for an increase of 13 percent.

Has attributed the increases to a continuing commitment by the University to bring in more international students. "The enrollment reflects our continued success with recruitment and retention. The entire University community should take credit for it," she said.

Franklin and Brady elected to leadership positions on board for 1992

George A. Franklin of Kalamazoo and James S. Brady of Grand Rapids were elected chairperson and vice chairperson, respectively, of the Board of Trustees at its meeting Jan. 31. Both terms are for one year.

Franklin replaces Winifred D. Fraser of Northville. His selection is in keeping with Section One of the board's bylaws that identifies seniority as a key criterion for chairperson.

Other officers elected in one-year terms were: secretary, Chuckney B. Jepson, vice president for administrative affairs; assistant secretary, Betty A. Kocher, administrative assistant; Robert M. Benda, vice president for business and finance; and assistant treasurer, Dean K. Hisler, director of University budgets.

Franklin, who joined the WMU governing board in 1989, served this past year as vice chairperson. He has been vice president for public affairs at the Kellogg Co. in Battle Creek since 1988. He began working at Kellogg in 1980 as director of government relations in the Kellogg public affairs department and was promoted to vice president for government relations in 1985. Before joining Kellogg, he represented the company as an attorney in private practice in Washington, D.C.

Brady, a 1966 WMU graduate, became a member of the Board of Trustees in 1987. He previously served as its vice chairperson in 1990 and this past year was chairperson of the board's Budget and Finance Committee.

He is a partner in the law firm of Miller, Johnson, Snell & Cummiskey, which has offices in Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo and Lansing. He has been with that firm since 1961. Previously, Brady was appointed by President Jimmy Carter as the U.S. attorney for the Western Judicial District of Michigan and served in that post from 1977 to 1981.
800 top high school students to compete in Medallion Scholarship events Feb. 8 and 15

The cream of the crop of this year's high school graduating classes will be on campus Saturdays, Feb. 8 and 15, to compete for scholarships valued at more than $1 million to attend WMU this fall.

About 800 high school seniors — 400 on each date — will participate in this year's Medallion Scholarship Competition. Some 1,000 of their parents also will attend to participate in information sessions and other activities.

This is the eighth year for the event, which will draw students from Michigan as well as 15 other states. The students are competing for some of the largest merit scholarships in American public higher education.

Capping off the scholarship program are the prestigious Medallion Scholarships, worth $25,000 over four years. Also available are $16,000, $12,000, $8,000 and $4,000 awards.

Each student who participates in the event and decides to attend WMU receives some sort of scholarship.

To be invited to participate, students had to be admitted to WMU by Jan. 10. They also had to have at least a 3.5 grade point average in high school, or at least a 3.5 GPA and an American College Test score of at least 29.

The selection committee will consider grades, courses, test scores and performance in the on-campus competition as well as leadership, recommendations and, in some cases, personal interviews.

Among the participants this year are 289 students who have perfect 4.0 GPAs and 213 who have ACT scores of 30 or higher. Two events will take place in the Bernhard Center, Sangreme Hall, the Fetzer Center and the Hawthorne College of Business.

Multiclinic to focus on programs

Clinic, sponsored by the College of Health and Human Services, will spotlight a model program designed to help high school children at 2 p.m. Friday, Feb. 7, in Studio A of Dunbar Hall. The presentation will focus on the Community Education for Youth Kalamazoo literacy program. Speaking will be representatives from a number of University departments as well as the program.

Week planned to encourage student volunteer service

The University will offer students a chance to be part of the growing number of persons translating their concern into action through volunteer work during Service Week Feb. 10-15.

Students will be able to stop by various sites and explore volunteer opportunities as well as participate in a number of events. The week is being sponsored by Student Volunteer Services and the Office of Student Financial Aid.

Julie A. Wyra, Volunteer Services director, says her office has seen an increase in the number of student volunteers, but the figure is still only about 20 percent of the student population.

"Service Week will provide an innovative means of educating students as to the needs of the greater Kalamazoo community and to call upon their time and talent to address these needs," she says. "The program is designed to transform student interest and concern into concrete action."

The week will begin with an acoustics rape workshop from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday, Feb. 10, in 212 Bernhard Center. A male/female team of students who are part of the Sexual Assault Education Project will discuss common myths and their corresponding realities about acquaintance and date rape. They will focus on understanding the attitudes in society that lead to coercive sex. The workshop is being sponsored by the Student Allied Health Committee and the Women's Center.

Also beginning Monday will be a library collection and literacy awareness projects. The collections will take place in residence halls from Feb. 10 through Feb. 13. Anyone may donate items such as used, damaged, outdated or duplicate items to the YWCA Domestic Assault Shelter visitors. Special bins will be set up in the residence halls to collect the donations.

The event is sponsored by the Community Awareness Committee of the Residence Hall Association.

The literacy awareness projects will be sponsored by Methods and Student Volunteer Services in conjunction with the Office of Student Financial Aid. Activities include a reading-a-thon, to benefit the Literacy Network of Kalamazoo County.

Student volunteers are needed to staff events, such as the reading-a-thon, to benefit the Literacy Network of Kalamazoo County.

Next is a speech by Kalamazoo Mayor Beverly Brown and a question and answer session with the office of Student Financial Aid. The week will conclude with a volunteer fair sponsored by Eicher-LeFevre residence halls.

Blood pressure screening to be conducted at 22 sites

Take this message to heart — check your blood pressure. That’s the theme of this year’s Campuswide Blood Pressure Screening, sponsored by WMU’s Visiting Scholars and Artists Program was established in 1960 and has been conducted annually since then. The purpose of this screening is to increase awareness of high blood pressure and to promote stress management and/or medication. People with high blood pressure have three to four times the risk of developing coronary artery disease and as much as seven times the risk of a stroke as those with healthy WBG blood pressures. About 30 percent of all adults over age 18 have high blood pressure," Zimmer said. "Current studies show only 24 percent of hypertensive adults are aware of their high blood pressure and only 11 percent have their blood pressure under control.

The following list of vacancies is currently being posted through the Job Opportunity Program by employment services in the Department of Human Resources. Interested benefit-eligible employees should submit a job opportunity transfer application or sign the appropriate bid sheet during the posting period. Interested employees may contact an employment services staff member for assistance in securing these positions.

The program will travel to 22 sites throughout campus over the next two weeks beginning Monday, Feb. 10 (see the calendar on page four). This annual program offers blood pressure assessments and preventive health education to nurse practitioners during office hours. Half a century ago, there were free and open to the public.  Changes of ‘olympic’ proportion will affect character of games, says WMU faculty member

The Olympic torch is lit on Feb. 8 in Albertville, France, it will shed light on a new kind of competition, according to a WMU faculty member.

Commercialism, political and social upheaval in Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union, and the presence of professional athletes will change the character of Winter Olympic Games in France and the Summer Games in Barcelona, Spain, according to Lewis H. Carlson, professor of political science and in history. The propositions have made their way through the internal approval process, and are expected to be considered by the provosts from state universities in April. Haenicke said plans to bring the programs to the Board of Trustees for its consideration at a subsequent meeting.

The increase in the number of credit hours coupled with the higher number of registrations this winter means that students are signing up for more courses, Smith said. He noted that registrations are particularly higher at WMU’s regional centers in Grand Rapids with a 21 percent increase. Lansing with a 15 percent increase and B-Creek with a 14 percent increase. The registrations in Grand Rapids grew from 1,862 last winter to 2,009 this winter, putting the number over 2,000 for the first time in the regional center’s history.
