
Spring 1965

The Sheep's at the Flowers

Patrick E. Cloney
Western Michigan University

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarworks.wmich.edu/calliope>

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation

Cloney, Patrick E. (1965) "The Sheep's at the Flowers," Calliope (1954-2001): Vol. 12 , Article 19.
Available at: <https://scholarworks.wmich.edu/calliope/vol12/iss2/19>

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the English at ScholarWorks at WMU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Calliope (1954-2001) by an authorized editor of ScholarWorks at WMU. For more information, please contact wmu-scholarworks@wmich.edu.

the unkempt hair that gave him a certain authority and strength. A glance around and he looked down and said simply and softly, "don't come down here any more."

He turned slowly away and walked away not looking back and knew that he should have stayed inside and read comics but soon it would be time for lunch and there was food to enjoy.

THE SHEEP'S AT THE FLOWERS

Patrick E. Cloney

the sheep's at the flowers.
the pig's at the vine.
the wine's in the stewards.
the cup's filled with brine.

and where is the man
who looks after the flock?
hung up on business
'till three o'clock.