Week-long Homecoming celebration begins Oct. 8

Alumni, students and friends this year plan to "take their hats off" in salute to WMU during a week-long Homecoming celebration Oct. 8-14.

The University again has a large number of activities planned, including the traditional bonfire and a fireworks show.

This year's Homecoming theme is "Hats Off to Western." A Homecoming logo features the Bronco mascot tucking his hat to alumni, students and WMU supporters. The logo will be placed on bulletin boards and posters throughout the campus. Homecoming buttons carrying the logo will be worn by alumni and students during the week. The logo was designed by James R. Oolah, a senior art major from Detroit. Oolah also designed last year's Homecoming logo.

Prize money will be awarded to student groups competing in several events during a week-long spirit contest. The money, as well as financial support for the fireworks display and the parade, will be provided by the Office of the Vice President for Student Services.

The annual "Victory Run" on Sunday, Oct. 8, kicks off the week of activities. The race, sponsored by the Mike Gary Athletic Fund, is set for 2 to 4 p.m. at Kanley Track. Refreshments will be served following the event until 6 p.m. in Road Fieldhouse.

Beginning Monday, Oct. 9, and continuing through Tuesday, Oct. 10, students will vote for the Homecoming king and queen. Also on Monday, the WMU Gospel Choir will play host to a gospel concert at 7 p.m. at the Dalton Center Recital Hall. The concert will feature local junior high and high school talent, as well as choirs and gospel groups from West Michigan churches and individual artists. A reception will follow the concert.

The event is being sponsored by the Onyx Society of the WMU Alumni Association. The Onyx Society is a newly formed constituency group of black alumni. The organization's goal is to promote the educational programs and events that affect black students and alumni.

The Western Olympics will again challenge participants from student organizations and student groups. The Olympics will be held from 3 to 6 p.m. Tuesday in the Goldsworth Valley gazebo area. Teams will challenge each other in such events as tug-of-war, bat and egg and egg toss. The event is being coordinated by the Lee Honors College.

From Wednesday through Friday, Oct. 11-13, the lawn on the East Campus and the area in front of the Bernhard Center will be the sites for a number of noon-time activities. Refreshments and balloons will be provided to students, and a pep band will perform. The events are being coordinated by the Clerical/Technical Organization and the Administrative Professional Associations.

Also on Wednesday, students will have a chance to show their talent during the "That's Entertaining" talent show from 7 to 9 p.m. in the East Ballroom of the Bernhard Center. Prizes will be awarded to the winners and the Homecoming king and queen will be announced following the show.

Thursday, Oct. 12, may be described as the "sweetest" and "messiest" day of the week. That's the day of the annual "Sweetwater Fritter Fest," a Homecoming tradition that challenges four-person teams to see how many jelly-filled doughnuts they can eat in two minutes. The event runs from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on the Bernhard Center lawn. It is being coordinated by the Alpha Phi sorority.

Friday, Oct. 13, might be considered an unlucky day by some people, but is

Campus United Way drive to start Oct. 9

$125,000 is the goal for this year's Greater Kalamazoo United Way drive on campus.

About 125 fund-raisers from University departments are being trained this week and will begin contacting people in their areas Monday, Oct. 9, when the campaign begins. The drive, which runs through Friday, Oct. 27, is being chaired by Barbara S. Liggett, associate vice president for human resources.

This year's goal is slightly more than the $123,000 raised by WMU employees during last year's drive when the goal was $110,000. Contributions will help the Greater Kalamazoo United Way support some 50 human service agencies that provide benefits to the ill, aged, homeless, handicapped and young.

"I am asking everyone in the Western family to pledge their support," said President Haenicke in a letter sent to employees this week. "My personal hope is for us to reach 100 percent participation.

"We have a fine history of giving at our University, and I want to thank all of you who have given so generously in the past," he continued in the letter, which was also signed by leaders of several employee groups. "For those of you who have not participated in the past, I ask you to consider giving as a contribution this year. Even one dollar a month will make a great deal to those who benefit from the United Way."

10 named Martin Luther King Jr./Cesar Chavez/ Rosa Parks Professors

Ten scholars, specializing in topics ranging from art to finance, have been named Martin Luther King Jr./Cesar Chavez/Rosa Parks Visiting Professors for 1989-90 at the University. They have been selected to teach at WMU for varying lengths of time under the program, an initiative of the Michigan Legislature. The program is supported by funds from the state government and WMU.

The purpose of the visiting professors program is to increase the supply of minority faculty members available to post-secondary education. In addition, it is designed to enable the visiting professors to play a leadership role in encouraging minority students to consider careers in post-secondary education.

The visiting professors are:

- Olle Chambers, director of international financial planning and analysis at the Upjohn Co. in Kalamazoo;
- Stanley Crouch, playwright and critic who worked for nine years as a staff writer for The Village Voice;
- John W. Dobbs, executive director of the Urban Education Alliance at Eastern Michigan University;
- Roberto G. Fernandez, associate professor of modern languages at Florida State University;
- Lela A. Llorens, chairperson and professor of occupational therapy at San Jose State University;
- Albert LaVergne, professor of art at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale;
- Lee E. Meadows, assistant professor of organizational behavior at Lansing Community College;
- Tyrone Mitchell, an award-winning speaker and consultant; and
- Adrian M. Smith, Pipe, associate professor of philosophy at Georgetown University; and
- Chelsea Tipton II, conductor of the Rockford (Ill.) Area Youth Orchestra and graduate conducting assistant at Northern Illinois University.

To be selected as a visiting professor, these persons had to be U.S. citizens and have a minimum of three years teaching experience. Chambers has been with the Upjohn Co. since 1972. He has held positions in numerous federal departments on his way up the corporate ladder at Upjohn. He joined the company in 1972 as a financial analyst. Fernandez has taught at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, New York University in New York in 1975, Couch worked as a staff writer for The Village Voice and had articles published in Vogue and The New York Times. He has written three books and was awarded a Guggenheim Fellowship for his biography of Charlie Parker. He is chairman of the Board of Trustees of the University of California for the winter semester.

Dobbs will be serving as interim chairperson of the Department of Educational Leadership in addition to teaching and directing degree programs. Fernandez has been at EMU directing the Urban Education Alliance, a multiple school district consortium designed to help at-risk students. Between 1983 and 1986, he was superintendent of schools in Hempstead, N.Y. For 11 years before that appointment, he was assistant superintendent for school and community affairs in the Michigan Department of Education.

Fernandez has been in the Department of Modern Languages at Florida State University since 1981, specializing in Hispanic American prose fiction. He is the author of three novels and more than 20 short stories and articles. In 1986-87, he was awarded an Individual Artist Fellowship from the Division of Cultural Affairs of Florida and a Cintas Fellowship from the Isin in Jerusalem. He is a prolific author of books and articles in his field, she has extensive professional experience as a lecturer and keynote speaker for the seminar; and GWendolyn E. Etter-Lewis, English. Articles are due Monday, Dec. 11, in the Women's Center. Persons with questions may call the center at 7-2999.

WMUK seeking $125,000 in listener support

WMUK-FM (102.1), the University's broadcast station, is currently in its annual fall listener support campaign. The fall campaign, known as "OPUS VIII," seeks a new goal of $125,000 from listeners throughout West Michigan. Contributions made during this two-phase effort. The next figure exceeds last year's campaign goal of $100,000.

A large part of the increase is attributed to raises in National Public Radio fees scheduled to start on Jan. 1, according to Garrard D. Macleod, WMUK. WMUK is a non-commercial NPR. Contributions from the community also will be spent on maintaining and improving the station.

The station already has begun soliciting previous supporters and friends for donations during this on-air marathon, which begins at 7 p.m. Friday, Oct. 6. Listeners are asked to call WMUK at 7-5715.

Once again, WMU faculty and staff members will receive special deductions for WMUK pledges. The deduction pledges can be spread out over a range of years, which can make them more practical for those who may be short on cash at a given time. WMUK is a member of the Advancement Foundation, which offers a 12-month plan.

By encouraging early contributions through this on-air marathon, WMUK hopes to shorten the 10-day-on-air drive, which is scheduled for Oct. 6 to Oct. 16. Last year the station achieved its goal in just seven days and immediately resumed the regular drive. The advantage of this drive is taking our message to those who have been interested in what our listeners have told us," said Dean K. Honsberger, WMUK.

The amount of public contributions WMUK receives is an important factor in the level of financial support it gets from the Office of Public Support Advertising. The money from the public becomes part of the formula that determines the level of support the station receives from the corporation.

Garrard D. Macleod, WMUK. "They've said, 'Keep regular program schedule. 'We are scheduled to end Sunday, Oct. 29. Last year the drive went until Oct. 31, which was 10 days later. The advantage of this start date is that we get the money in earlier."

In an effort to interest in contributing to the fundraising campaign are urged to call WMU at 7-5715.

A LEARNING EXPERIENCE -- Michele M. Moe made a pact with herself when she began the work at the University, "I told myself that I would ever 12 months without learning something new that would not make time for me to do something else," she says. That was 17 years ago, and she's still at it. Moe started out at the University as a graduate admissions officer and now is the director of the academic advising and admissions in the Haworth College of Business. She and the three advising and supervising work with undergraduate and graduate students in the college. Her contact with the department starts with the recruitment process continues with admission, orientation and registration. They help keep freshmen and sophomores on track with the sequence of courses needed to complete the pre-business and administration program. Once students reach their junior year, Moe helps channel them to the proper faculty members. And if they decide to pursue a master's degree, Moe helps her staff again get involved in the recruitment process and in making sure they see the right faculty members. Moe estimates her office has some 12,000 students a year with representatives. Academic counseling she provides comes both from the perspective of an advisor and a student -- she has her bachelor's and master's degrees in business administration from WMU.

"I like the students and the challenges they present," Moe says. "They keep changing, so we keep changing and trying to improve in order to give students a better understanding of things."

will certainly be a fun-filled one at WMU. The day’s events start with the judging of "box displays" from 8 to 10 a.m. The displays are exhibits built on the lawns of residence halls by the students who live there and represent their organizations. The decorations will be judged by faculty and staff members.

The annual Soup Box Derby will be from 2 to 6 p.m. on Glkisson Avenue. The creatively designed racing machines are built by the students and must meet certain specifications and be registered. The event is being coordinated by WMU’s chapter of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Faculty and alumni will gather at the Intramural Field on campus at 11 a.m. for the "Yell Like Free!" spirit banner competitions. Teams of 20 students will see who can yell the loudest. The event will take place in the same location by a bonfire and fireworks. All three events are being coordinated by the Western Student Association and the ROTC.
