3-26-2015

"Wheelchair Diaries" Welcome

John M. Dunn

Western Michigan University, john.dunn@wmich.edu

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.wmich.edu/dunn

Part of the Higher Education Commons

WMU ScholarWorks Citation
https://scholarworks.wmich.edu/dunn/739

This Speech is brought to you for free and open access by the Office of the President at ScholarWorks at WMU. It has been accepted for inclusion in WMU President John Dunn by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks at WMU. For more information, please contact maira.bundza@wmich.edu.
• Good evening and thank you for being here to be part of this installment in the aptly named "What do you know?" film series. And welcome to our special guest this evening award-winning filmmaker, Reid Davenport.

• We've spent a good portion of today focusing on diversity and inclusion and the richness that every individual brings to our community. This is a good way to add even more dimension as we think about the whole spectrum of diversity and our responsibilities to not only respect all of the members of our community but also help them take full advantages of the opportunities that should be open to them by virtue of being part of our community.

• What I love about the efforts of our speaker this evening would be the innovative steps he took to not only illuminate the issue for all of us, and also the ways he found to address the issue. So please be prepared to be informed and inspired--and then to let us all know your response to what you learn.

Thank you.