Crayola Warfare

Dawn Carroll

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.wmich.edu/calliope

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

Recommended Citation
CRAYOLA WARFARE

We colored yesterday - me and my friends - out in the sunny backyard on a blanket Reggie's mom let us borrow
And we thirstily guzzled grape kool-aid (that Washington's mother made for us) from perspiring plastic cups For hours we sat out under the omnipotent sun and me and Suzy had to keep putting more sunscreen on and then Reggie started to laugh and mock us and we got really mad and so we moved our crayons and stuff across the yard - under the big maple tree's shading branches We sat there and colored in our own private corners but after a while we moved back over by Reggie and Washington and the whole thing was forgotten because it wasn't worth being angry over anyway

Washington suggested that we go fishin' down in the crick behind his house so we picked up our melted crayons and put all of the blues and purples in the same cardboard holder

Dawn Carroll