

NAME FOUR TO ATHLETIC HALL OF FAME

Former athletic director M. J. "Mike" Gary, track star John Bork, baseball-football whiz Dave Kribs, and WMU's first All-American baseball player Ron Hibbard are the 1978 inductees to the University's Athletic Hall of Fame. They will join 24 previous members in the honored group of Bronco athletes at special ceremonies on Sept. 29.

Gary is the first non-WMU graduate selected for the Hall of Fame. He served as the University's athletic and physical education director from 1949 until his retirement in 1967. He died in 1970.

Bork, a native of Monroe, capped a brilliant track career here by winning the NCAA 880 yard run in 1961 with a time of 1:48.3, still a varsity record.

Kribs, a Kalamazooan, earned three letters in football as a halfback (1937-39) and was starting shortstop on the Bronco baseball team in 1939 and 1940. He still holds Western career records for pass interceptions (24) and punt returns (83).

Hibbard, who now lives in Edina, Minn., earned baseball letters as an outfielder from 1935-37 and was named an All-American in 1935. He played professional baseball for two seasons after graduation, and spent nearly five years in the U.S. Army during World War II.

SEIBERT TO HEAD FUND COMMITTEE

Dr. Russell H. Seibert, emeritus vice president for academic affairs, will be chairman of a national Western Michigan University Annual Fund Committee, it has been announced by Helen J. Flaspohler, Annual Fund director. The committee will assist in the promotion of fund-raising efforts to give financial support to the primary needs of the University, she noted. The Annual Fund provides for student aid, loans and scholarships, faculty research, teaching excellence awards, student assistantships, and "...many other important programs consistent with the philosophy of the University."

"This type of support is extremely important to Western," Seibert added. Joining him on the Annual Fund Committee are Dr. James W. Miller, president emeritus; and 11 WMU alumni: Robert Denison, Marion Dumond Denison and Dr. Michael Fleck, all of Kalamazoo; Dr. H. Gardner Ackley, Ann Arbor; Gwen Frostic, Benzonia; Philip Gajewski, Lansing; Lloyd Hartman, Wyoming; Mary Jackson, Hollywood, Calif.; Richard Lenon, Glenview, Ill.; Dr. Emanuel "Manny" Newsome, Toledo; and Barbara Lett Simmons, Washington, D.C.

CAMPUS BRIEFS--

Dr. Charles T. Brown, professor of communication arts and sciences, recently took part in two communication conferences. He gave a paper on "Interpersonal Conflict" at a joint conference of the speech communication department of the University of Hawaii and the Hawaii Medical Association in Honolulu. In Tokyo, Japan, he presented papers on conflict management at the Tokyo Institute of the English language for an audience of students and Tokyo businessmen.

At the latter meeting, the 10th annual conference of the Communication Association of the Pacific, plans were made to do a cross-cultural study of conflict, using a test designed by Brown, Dr. Paul Yelsma, WMU assistant professor of communication arts and sciences, and Dr. Paul Keller of Manchester College. The test will be used to compare groups in both the U.S. and Japan.

CAMPUS BRIEFS--

Arden Pridgeon, associate professor of industrial engineering, has been selected by the Foundry Educational Foundation to serve on the 1978 College-Industry Conference Program Committee. He is the only member from an educational field.

For the ninth consecutive year, Dr. Laurel Grotzinger, professor of librarianship, has contributed several reviews which appear in the nationally-known "American Reference Books Annual" published by Libraries Unlimited, Inc., Littleton, Colo., which cites major reference titles published last year. Included in her eight reviews for the 1978 volume are descriptive and critical comments about each title.

The co-editor of a reference book of chemical analytical spectrophotometric procedures for nonmetals is Dr. James A. Howell, associate professor of chemistry. It was published by John Wiley and Sons Inc., New York, and is described as a "cookbook of analytical procedures."

Dr. Clifford Davidson, associate professor of English, is the author of an article, "Herbert's 'The Temple': Conflicts, Submission and Freedom" which was published recently in "English Miscellany" in Rome, Italy. His article studies the structure of the book of poetry by 17th century poet George Herbert. It is the second article Davidson has had published in the journal.

Dr. Robert R. Fink, chairman, music department, has been appointed dean of the College of Music at the University of Colorado at Boulder and Denver. He begins his new duties on Aug. 15.

Dr. Robert C. Eisenberg, associate professor of biomedical sciences, has completed a research project at the Medical College of Virginia, Richmond. He investigated a bacteria which is particularly resistant to antibiotic medicines.

Dr. Wyatt D. Kirk, assistant professor, Counseling Center, has been named associate professor and chairperson of the department of educational psychology and guidance at North Carolina A & T State University, Greensboro, N.C., effective Aug. 1. His wife, Dr. Sarah V. Kirk, assistant professor in the School of Social Work here last year, will also join the N.C.A. & T. faculty as an associate professor of social work/sociology.

Dr. James Jaksa and Dr. Ernest Stech, both associate professors of communication arts and sciences, are co-authors of an article in the July issue of "Psychology Today" in which they describe the effect of a change in the rules of Trappist monks. The new rule permits the monks to discard their life of nearly total silence and to have brief, oral communication without asking permission.

Dr. John R. Sommerfeldt, professor of history, director of the Center for Contemplative Studies, and executive director of the Institute of Cistercian Studies, has been named president of the University of Dallas at Irving, Texas. He will be formally inducted early in the fall.
