

Campus Briefs

The Student Employment Referral Service would like to introduce you to the sewing pool. The girls in the sewing pool have indicated an interest in this pool on a temporary basis. They are experienced and well qualified. Samples of their sewing ability have been submitted as part of their application. For further information call 383-1806 or stop by the office located on the third floor of the Student Services Building.

Human Subjects Review Committee-B will hold its regular monthly meeting at 2 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 14, in Room 158 Student Center. This meeting is open to all interested persons.

All faculty are reminded that applications to the Faculty Research Fund must be received by the Office of Research Services no later than 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 15. Applications received after the deadline will not be accepted and will be returned to the faculty member concerned. All inquiries should be directed to Steven B. Pulik, associate director, 3-1634.

Dr. Samuel I. Clark, director of the Honors College; his assistant, Michael Seuss; graduate assistant, Sanny Nutter; and three undergraduate students, Daniel Ganz, John Hughes and Kathleen Salwasser attended the annual conference of the National Collegiate Honors Council recently in St. Louis, Mo.

Hughes, a junior in the Honors College and a Kalamazoo resident, was elected to the executive committee of the NCHC.

A limited number of good reserved seat tickets are still available for the remaining performances tonight, Friday and Saturday of J. M. Synge's classic Irish comedy "Playboy of the Western World" at 8 p.m. in Laura V. Shaw Theatre. Contact the box office at 383-1760.

Chorale Premiere Concert Sunday

The department of music will present the University Chorale in its premiere concert at 3 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 17, in Shaw Theatre.

This new vocal ensemble consists of 32 select voices capable of performing chamber literature. Compositions by Bach, Barber and Britten represent a major portion of the free public program being performed, under the direction of Mel Ivey.

Elect Two Senators

In a recent special election, two new members were elected to the WMU Faculty Senate. Dr. Alan H. Jacobs, chairman of the department of anthropology, was elected by his departmental colleagues to complete the term of Dr. Stanley A. West; and the School of Librarianship elected William K. Smith, assistant professor, to complete the term of Dr. John P. Comaromi.

OPENED LAST NIGHT—Western's production of J. M. Synge's classic Irish comedy, "Playboy of the Western World," directed by guest artist-in-residence Vincent Dowling, opened last night. Remaining performances will be presented at 8 o'clock tonight, Friday and Saturday in Shaw Theatre. Pictured above are John Garner and Joe Anne Peterson in one of the scenes.

Multinational Corporations, Developing Countries Lecture Here Wednesday

Harry Magdoff, former special assistant to the U.S. Secretary of Commerce, will present a free public lecture on "Multinational Corporations and Developing Countries" at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 20, here in 3750 Knauss Hall.

Magdoff, who is now co-editor of the "Monthly Review," began his career with the government in the 1930s. At that time, he devised a method of measuring production and productivity which is still used by the U.S. Department of Labor.

During World War II, he was chief of the Civilian Requirements Division of the National Defense Advisory Commission. Later, Magdoff was placed in charge of planning and controls in machinery industries for the War Production Board. His final years in government were spent as special assistant to Henry Wallace and Averell Harriman, when they each served as Secretary of Commerce.

Recently, Magdoff has taught economics at the New School for Social Research and lectured at universities in the U.S., Canada and Europe. In addition to the evening lecture, he will conduct an afternoon seminar from 3-5 p.m. in 2480 Dunbar Hall for faculty, graduate students and undergraduate students majoring in economics.

His evening lecture is the third in a series of economic seminars this fall.

Kowalski To Coordinate Bicentennial Activities

William J. Kowalski, assistant vice president for administration, has been appointed WMU coordinator for bicentennial activities.

Any agency, organization or department on campus working on projects relative to the bicentennial should contact Kowalski in the Administration Building, 383-0928.

RUSSIAN DANCERS—The Soviet Georgian Dancers will be featured in the third of the 1974-75 International Concert series presentations at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 19, here in Miller Auditorium. Tickets are still available at the Auditorium ticket office.

Eight Graduate Students Cited

Eight WMU students have been awarded research grants by the University's Graduate College student research fund, Dr. Sid Dykstra, associate dean of the Graduate College, has announced.

The grants, ranging to a maximum of $500 and totaling $3,034, will help students cover extraordinary or unusual costs incurred in research projects and travel costs for presenting research findings at professional meetings.

An additional $3,000 from the same fund will be awarded in 1975, according to Dykstra. A Feb. 1, 1975 deadline has been established for applications, which may be obtained from Dykstra, 2324 Administration Building.

Current grant recipients are: Jan C. Bloom, master's program, anthropology, Kalamazoo; Michael A. Brown, master's program, electrical engineering, Dearborn; James Coleman, doctoral program, educational leadership, Kalamazoo; Robert Flachier, master's program, psychology, Kalamazoo; Gary R. Larson, master's program, chemistry, Kalamazoo; Eric C. Smith, doctoral program, educational leadership, Kalamazoo; Bruce M. Taylor, master's program, biology, Kalamazoo; and Michael P. Wilbur, doctoral program, counseling and personnel, Kalamazoo.

Boston U. President To Lecture Here

The president of Boston University, Dr. John Silber, will visit the WMU campus Tuesday, Nov. 19, for three faculty workshop presentations.

He will speak on "Academic Standards and Grades" at 8:30 a.m. in Room 2064, Industrial Engineering & Technology building; at 1:30 p.m. in 102 North Hall; and at 3 p.m. in 2750 Knauss Hall.

Appointed BU's seventh president in 1970, Silber was previously University professor of arts and letters, professor of philosophy and dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Texas. His visit is part of a series of faculty enrichment workshops sponsored by the Division of Instructional Development.

Dedicate Valley Cafeteria

WMU's Goldsworth Valley-2 Community Cafeteria was dedicated last week in memory of Richard L. Ketelaar, food service manager there, who died earlier this fall.

WMU junior Tom Hutchinson, president of the Valley-2 Town Council, unveiled the dedicatory plaque during brief ceremonies. The plaque inscription cites Ketelaar "whose outstanding service and concern for the students he worked for and with will always be remembered by those who knew him." A replica of the plaque was presented to Ketelaar's widow.

Musical 'Pippin' at Miller Nov. 25

One of the most successful musical comedies in recent years arrives here at Miller Auditorium when "Pippin" opens for one performance only at 8 p.m. Monday, Nov. 25.

The musical, which Clive Barnes of the New York Times called "one of the best musical stagings to be seen on Broadway in years," is being presented as part of the 1974-75 Patron's Choice Series. "Pippin" has music and lyrics by Stephen Schwartz and book by Roger O. Hirson.

Schwartz, whose hit "Godspell" has been seen around the world, has already written three musicals at the age of 26. They are all currently playing in New York. His newest musical, "The Magic Show," recently opened and is a near sell-out at the Cort Theatre. He also has collaborated with Leonard Bernstein, providing the new English text for Bernstein's "Mass."

"Pippin" has been hailed as one of the most innovative musicals, filled with electrifying dances devised by director-choreographer Bob Fosse. It is a kaleidoscope of entertainment that combines the elements of a Broadway musical with a minstrel show, magic show, circus, comedy, rock music, ballet and vaudeville in a total musical spectacle.

"Pippin" abandons traditional musical comedy form and the unconventional opening discovers the leading actor dangling from high on the proscenium, asking directions to the stage. The curtain rises to reveal a dark stage clouded in mist through which pairs of disembodied hands appear, writhing in airy bodyless suspension. From the mist emerges the leading player, a sort of strutting, minstrel M.C., and his troupe of gauzily dressed and outrageously made up harlequins to propel Pippin on his pilgrimage.

The leading player portrayed by Irving Lee, who comes to the touring production after successfully starring as Judas in "Godspell" and has also played the title role in "Purlie Victorious," explains that his troupe will enact the life and times of Pippin, son of Charlemagne, who is played by Barry Williams, known for his role in the television series, "The Brady Bunch."

Though son of an emperor, Pippin is a pacifist and a rebel, a sort of eighth century "Flower Child," who vows not to follow in the footsteps of his father, who he sees as a tyrant. Rather, he would seek fulfillment in life, as opposed to wasting his life in common pursuits. During the various confrontations with life, Pippin tries book learning, sampling the pleasures of flesh, the furies of war, and even contemplates the supreme act of immortal fame (immolation by fire on stage), but finally settles, like most of us, for marriage and family life after all else ends in disillusion.

Attends N.S.F. Conference

Joseph A. Kelemen, WMU associate professor of electrical engineering, will go to Oklahoma State University Nov. 14-15 for a curriculum conference on electrical power technology. He is one of only a dozen consultants from education and industry throughout the United States invited to the meeting.

Under a grant from the National Science Foundation, the conference is intended to develop an upper division curriculum to train technologists for the electrical power industry. The results of the two-day session will serve as a pilot program for use throughout the country.

BROADWAY MUSICAL—Dorothy Stickney invites the audience to "follow the bouncing ball" and sing along to the show-stopper "No Time At All" in the popular musical comedy, "Pippin," to be presented at 8 p.m. Monday, Nov. 25, here in Miller Auditorium. Tickets are $3, $5.50, and $6.50 in the Auditorium ticket office.

Brass Quintet Performs Nov. 22

The Western Brass Quintet will present a free public program of chamber music at 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 22, in Oakland Recital Hall.

This music faculty ensemble-in-residence includes: Donald Bullock and Stephen Jones, trumpets; Neill Sanders, French horn; Russell Brown, trombone; and Robert Whaley, tuba.

Collegiate Singers In First Concert

The department of music will present a free public concert by the Collegiate Singers at 3 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 24, in Oakland Recital Hall.

This 55-member mixed chorus, under the direction of Mel Ivey, will be presenting its first public performance since its inception as an ensemble this fall.

The Collegiate Singers, with Margaret Harrison, accompanist, will perform several works from traditional repertoire. Included on the program are Handel's "Coronation Anthem," "Adoramus Te" by Corsi, and selections from a major composition, "Vesperae solennes de confessore" by Mozart. Dixie Hamlin, from Battle Creek, will be soprano soloist on the Mozart work. They also will sing Dvorak's "Songs of Nature," as well as two compositions by Poulenc.

Kaufman Lectures Tonight

The relationship between religious attitudes and human ecology is the subject of a free public lecture by Dr. Maynard Kaufman at 8 o'clock tonight in 3770 Knauss Hall.

His topic, "The Ecological Apocalypse: Domsday Consciousness and Its Uses," is based on his research during the past few years. In it, Kaufman will interpret the attitudes which are expressed in some of the more radical strategies for environmental improvement and decentralization. He is an associate professor of religion at WMU.

Attention TEED Students

Students who are taking teaching and learning TEED 300 or TEED 301 during Winter Semester, need to apply for their pre-directed teaching participation experience at the following meeting 10:30-11:30 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 26, in 2504 Sangren Hall.

Their program will feature the premiere of "Nodding Music," a composition by Elgar Howarth, which was commissioned by the Western Brass Quintet. Howarth is a member of the Phillip Jones Brass Quintet in London and was former principal trumpet in the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra.

Early Baroque music by Michael East and John Jenkins, arranged for brass, will be presented with student dancers from Western's department of dance. Frank Anthony Folino choreographed the East composition with dancers Stephen Filipowicz, Kitty Geib and Patti Marie Keller. The work by Jenkins was choreographed by Geib, and will be danced by Folino, Jill Halperin, Joel Sager, Adrienne Sherwin, Vicki Shumaker, Karen Smith and Debora Treece.

The Western Brass Quintet also will be performing contemporary quintets by Gregson and Mayer, in addition to another early work, "Galliard Battaglia," by Samuel Scheidt.

Dames Auction Nov. 21

The annual craft auction sponsored by the University Dames of Western Michigan University will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 21, in the Adrian Trimpe Distributive Education Building.

The auction of hand-made items is the Dames' sole money-making event, and proceeds are donated to the short-term loan fund in the Office of Student Financial Aid for the benefit of Western students.

Jerry Raffel, a WKZO announcer, will be the auctioneer.

To Honor Retiring Dean Clayton Maus

A dinner honoring WMU's retiring Dean of Admissions, Records and Registration Clayton J. Maus, is scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 7, in the Student Center's west ballroom.

An informal social hour at 6:30 p.m. in the faculty lounge of the Center will precede the 7:30 dinner.

Tickets for the dinner and a gift are $9, payable by check to the C. J. Maus Retirement Committee, which includes Russell Gabier, Charles Carson, Dennis Boyle, Jean Munson and Mary Kay Leamy. Reservations must be made by Friday, Nov. 29. Contact the Committee, 2010 Administration Building, WMU, or phone 383-1914.

Maus, who is retiring with emeritus status on Dec. 31, came to Western in 1942 as a biology instructor and freshman coach. He was named track and cross country coach in 1947 and was appointed assistant registrar in 1953. In 1955 he was appointed registrar, and was named dean in 1967.

Art Historian Presents Two Lectures Tuesday

Dr. Harold E. Wethey, prominent art historian and University of Michigan professor emeritus, will present two free public lectures Tuesday, Nov. 19, here at WMU.

At 10 a.m. he will speak on "Spanish Renaissance Art" and at 8 p.m. on "Titian: The Mythological Paintings." Both lectures will be in 1213 Sangren Hall, illustrated by slides made by Dr. Wethey and his wife. He comes to WMU as a Visiting Lecturer in the department of art.

Arena Theatre Produces 'Him'

E. E. Cummings' intriguing stage entertainment, "Him," will be presented at 8 p.m. Dec. 4-7 in the Arena of Laura V. Shaw Theatre. He has written a remarkably imaginative play covering an entire kaleidoscope of character images and things of consequence to him: the low-down and earthy, the lyrical and magical, the circus, burlesque and vaudeville, the love and anarchy and pathos of the modern world.

General admission tickets are priced at $2, and mail orders will be accepted beginning Monday, Nov. 18. The box office will open for walk-in sales beginning the following Monday, Nov. 25.

To Discuss Yogi, Courtesan

Dr. Robert L. Shafer, WMU associate professor of English, will speak on "The Yogi and the Courtesan" at an informal gathering of students and faculty at noon Wednesday, Nov. 20, in 3324 Brown Hall.

Shafer, who teaches courses in Asian and English literature, will show how "these two themes—the erotic and the ascetic—function in the literature of India." An informal discussion will follow his presentation at the "Literary Lunch" which is sponsored by the English department's committee on instructional development.

Presents Math Lecture

Dr. Ronald Iman of the department of mathematics will speak at the Mathematics Colloquium at 4 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 21, in the Math Commons Room, 6th floor, Everett Tower. His topic will be "k-Sample Approximations."

The Western News

The Western News is published by the Office of University Information each Thursday when classes are in session during fall and winter semesters.

Created to disseminate news to the entire University community, distribution is by mail to faculty, staff and emeriti, and students may pick up copies at several on-campus locations. Items should be submitted by noon Monday for publication.

University Information office hours:
8 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday-Friday.
Telephone: 383-0981.
Martin R. (Joe) Gagle, Director; Patricia M. Coyle, Associate Director.

Establish Education Monograph Series

The first in a new WMU College of Education monograph series has been released according to Dean John Sandberg.

"Publications in this series will represent major contributions to educational theory and practice by our college faculty," said Dr. Sandberg. He indicated that three monographs are planned for the 1974-75 academic year and that Dr. James Bosco, professor of teacher education, has been appointed series editor.

A grant for this project was provided by the WMU Annual Fund, supported by unrestricted donations from alumni, faculty, businessmen and other friends of the University.

The first monograph is "The Process of Motor Coordination in the Human Infant" by Dr. Mary Lou Stewart, associate professor of teacher education. She has conducted extensive research in child development. This monograph explains the steps involved in coordination from the first attempts of the infant to the acquisition of refined motor acts.

Individual copies are $3.50; they may be obtained by contacting Bosco at 2420 Sangren Hall, 383-6190.

Guest to Interpret Faculty Readers

Dr. Lamont Okey, professor of communication and theatre at the University of Michigan and chairman of oral interpretation, is to be the guest interpreter for the Faculty Readers Theatre presentation of "Wits of the Round Table" free to the public at 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 22, here in Shaw Theatre.

Okey will be reading from the writings of Robert Benchley, the best known, perhaps, of the group of writers who lunched together at the Algonquin Hotel in New York for the decade following World War I. They sparked the spirit of the Roaring Twenties and gave to that age and the periods that have followed the best collection of puns and humorous anecdotes our country has known.

In addition to Okey, the interpreters of this humorous material are professors from the WMU department of communication arts and sciences, with two exceptions: Dr. Thomas Small of the English department and Dr. Cornelius Loew, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. Dr. Zack York heads the cast which includes professors June Cottrell, Thomas Sill, Alan Labovitz, Ruth Heinig, Shirley Woodworth, Shirley VanHoeven, Leon Nobes, Richard Daniels, George Murdock and Eleanor Walton, the author of the script.

Cambium Trio Performs

The Cambium Piano Trio with Thomas Moore, violin, Warren Downs, cello, and Howard Karp, piano, will present a free public guest recital at 8 p.m. Monday, Nov. 18, in Oakland Recital Hall.

They will perform piano trios by Mendelssohn, Ives and Brahms. On Tuesday, Karp will present master classes in piano for the department of music.

SEALS & CROFTS will present a pop concert at 8 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 21, here in Read Fieldhouse. Tickets are on sale at Miller Auditorium.

Marching Band, Wind Ensemble On Arizona, California Tour

Western's 128-piece marching band and wind ensemble left early Monday on their longest trip ever, in terms of distance and days away, aboard a chartered jet flight headed for California by way of Arizona. They'll be gone eight days.

Students Observe Seeing Eye Program

A group of Western Michigan University students in the blind rehabilitation program will travel to Morristown, N.J., this fall to study the work of The Seeing Eye, Inc., in serving the needs of the blind.

Two faculty members and 22 students will spend eight days visiting selected service agencies to observe their programs. A grant of $5,220 to WMU from The Seeing Eye will fund the visit. Activities under the award will be coordinated by Donald Blasch, chairman of the University's department of blind rehabilitation.

Western Michigan's program for teachers of the blind makes use of the four-foot cane as its primary aid. The students who go to Morristown, starting Nov. 1, will walk blindfolded with the specially trained dogs used in The Seeing Eye program, thus giving them an opportunity for first hand experience with another important aid in the mobility of blind persons. A similar grant was awarded WMU last year.

WMU's graduate program for blind rehabilitation teachers is the only one of its kind in the world. A recent report from the department indicates that there were 10 universities offering orientation programs to help blind persons live more normal lives. Eight of these programs were under the leadership of graduates of WMU's program for teachers of the blind, most of whom are sighted.

Among the many highlights of the trip is a halftime performance at the Saturday, Nov. 16, night football game featuring the WMU Broncos at Long Beach State University in Calif.

WMU marching band director Richard Swinsick and his band members marched Monday in the Tucson, Ariz., Veterans Day Parade only nine hours after they departed from Chicago's O'Hare International Airport at 3 a.m.

On Tuesday, the 32-member University wind ensemble, directed by Carl Bjerregaard, joined other marching band members in presenting joint morning and afternoon concerts in Tucson high schools.

The wind ensemble gave a concert Wednesday at Grand Canyon College in Phoenix, Ariz., then joined the marching band to play a joint concert that evening in a Phoenix high school.

Today, the two WMU musical aggregations move to Pasadena, Calif., high school for an evening concert followed on Friday morning by a concert at the Long Beach State University Student Union. On Friday night the marching band will perform at the halftime of a high school football game in Los Angeles.

On Saturday the pep band and jazz combo, made up of marching band members, will present an afternoon concert at the WMU alumni dinner in Long Beach prior to the WMU-Long Beach football game. The concluding event in the ambitious schedule is a parade and concert on Disneyland's Mainstreet on Sunday.

Swinsick said marching band members have been doing various fund raising projects for the trip, with other funds coming from donations by alumni in California and Michigan, receipts from the recent high school Cavalcade of Bands show at Waldo Stadium, the normal music tour budget and regular marching band budget.

Job Openings

Below is a listing of the position openings currently being posted by the University Personnel Department, for current University employees.

Regular full-time and regular part-time employees interested in applying for these positions should submit a Job Opportunity Program application form to the Personnel Department during the posting period.

Secretary I, C-3 (H-4) Warehouse— posted 11/8-11/14

Instructor, Instructional Counseling Center— posted 11/18-11/22

Students Present Black Readings

Five Western students will participate in a public reading hour focused on Black American literature at 4 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 14, in 1114 Brown Hall.

The scheduled program, designed by Von Washington, an Albion senior majoring in sociology, is entitled "The New Me," and is sponsored by the department of communication arts and sciences.

According to Washington, the free presentation will highlight some of the Black American literature that became popular during the 1960s, which relates a transformation of Black attitudes, actions, conditions and character.

In addition to Washington, readers will include: Cynthia Johnson, a Ferndale junior in communication arts and sciences; Madelyn Porter, a Detroit sophomore in communication arts and sciences; John McCants, a Gary, Ind., sophomore in political science; and Tony Lucas, a Detroit junior in communication arts and sciences.

Discuss '74 Campaign

Campaigning in the 1974 elections was the topic of discussion by two representatives of Western's political science department at a recent seminar at Olivet College.

Dr. William N. Thompson, assistant professor, and graduate student Paul J. Mooradian addressed participants in the Bentley fall seminar, which is conducted for outstanding high school students from throughout the state. Both Thompson and Mooradian were unsuccessful candidates in the election.

Gives Keynote Address

Richard Neschich, WMU associate professor of distributive education, will present the keynote address Saturday, Nov. 16, for the Detroit area meeting of the Professional Association of Career Educators (PACE) at Wayne State University. His topic will be "The Need for Metric Education."

Killed in Auto Crash

Dale F. Canull, 26, a junior in industrial arts, was killed last Friday night in a one-car crash on I-94, near Marshall, Mich., his home. Funeral services were held Monday in Marshall. Survivors include his wife, Susan, and his parents of Albion, Mich.

Western Closes Grid Campaign At Long Beach

Western Michigan's football team finishes its 1974 season against an improving Long Beach State eleven on Saturday evening in California.

The Broncos are now 3-7 for the year and have lost three straight, the latest by a 42-6 margin here against Central Michigan. Long Beach boosted its mark to 4-5 on Saturday evening at Fresno State, overcoming a 24-7 third quarter deficit to win, 28-24. A week earlier, the 49ers stopped Southern Illinois, 32-7.

The only common opponent for both clubs is Northern Illinois, who beat Long Beach, 16-14, in the season opener and then dropped a 30-13 decision to the Broncos a week later.

Harriers in NCAA Qualifying Meet

Western Michigan's cross country team travels to Madison, Wis., this weekend for the NCAA District No. 4 Qualifying Meet after turning in a satisfying fifth place finish at the Mid-American Conference Championships at Mt. Pleasant last Saturday.

The youthful Broncos, who weren't expected to finish higher than seventh, surprised Coach Jack Shaw with a strong team effort in the contest, and were once again led by freshman sensation Tom Duit of Hastings, who placed ninth in a time of 30:01 over the six-mile course. Sophomore Dan Landman and freshman Ted Farmer were 24th and 30th, respectively.

Team honors were taken by Eastern Michigan, which was followed by Kent State, Ball State, and Bowling Green respectively. Western edged Miami and Toledo after having lost dual meets to both clubs.

Soccer Season Ends at Miami

The WMU soccer team will close out a very successful 1974 campaign with a road game this Saturday against the Miami Redskins.

The Broncos are coming off a 1-0 defeat to a tough Illinois (Chicago Circle) team last Wednesday and a 3-1 triumph over Ohio University Saturday. Against Chicago Circle, a team which has been invited to the NCAA Division II Tournament, defense was the key as the Broncos were able to fire just nine shots on goal.

Western has a 7-3-1 record. The seven wins are the most in a year since soccer became a varsity sport three years ago.

Hockey Broncos Open Friday

A new home, Lawson Ice Arena, and many new faces in the lineup will be featured here Friday and Saturday as Western Michigan's hockey team begins its second season of varsity play against Canadian-based Algoma College. Face-off time for both encounters is 7:30 p.m.

"We're going to be young and unpredictable," remarked Coach Bill Neal, who last year directed the Broncos to a 22-7-1 record over their initial varsity schedule. There are presently eight newcomers listed among the top 18 players.

In reviewing his team's practice period, Neal admitted that "things had been going slowly until we tied Bowling Green, 2-2, in a scrimmage there a week ago. Since then, things have been going really well. There has been improvement each day in regard to positioning and moving the puck and we'll be ready for Algoma."

A year ago, Bowling Green stopped Western three times by scores of 11-3, 10-1 and 11-4, the last setback coming at the Central Collegiate Tournament in St. Louis.

Western played a pair of spirited games with Algoma last winter before emerging with 8-4 and 7-2 home ice victories against the school from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. The Shingwauks played a whopping 80-game schedule and won 46 times with four ties.

Students, Faculty In Turkey Trot

The annual Turkey Trot cross country run, sponsored by the intramural department, will be held at 4 p.m. Monday, Nov. 18.

Entries are due at a scratch meeting prior to the run, which will feature both individual and team competition. The course will be on campus with maps available at the Intramural Office.

There will be two divisions—student and faculty. The first three places in the Student Division will receive turkeys for awards; only the first place finisher in the Faculty Division will receive a turkey.

Math Colloquium Today

Dr. Paul Kainen, Case Western Reserve University, will speak at the Mathematics Colloquium at 4 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 14, in the Math Commons Room, 6th floor, Everett Tower. His topic will be "Geometry, Topology, and the Coloring of Graphs."

ETS Report Form Deadline Nov. 20

Western faculty members interested in using the Educational Testing Service (ETS) student instructional report forms free of charge must provide the necessary information to the Office of Instructional Development by Nov. 20, Howard R. Poole, head of the Office has announced.

Poole notes that the ETS teacher evaluation forms will be provided free as part of an experiment exploring differences between teacher evaluation for tenure and teacher evaluation for the self improvement of the instructor.

In the ETS experiment, the teacher evaluation forms will be sent directly to the instructor, who will return them to ETS for processing. ETS will return the summary of the evaluation directly to the instructor, Poole said.

The information required from interested faculty includes name, campus address, and number of students in their classes. The Office of Instructional Development must forward this information to ETS by Nov. 20. Evaluation forms will be sent to instructors during the week of Dec. 9-13, 1974.

Seek Bicentennial Design Entries

WMU students, faculty, staff and alumni are invited to enter a University bicentennial symbol design contest, sponsored by the WMU department of teacher education.

Entries must be submitted to B119 Henry Hall by Dec. 3; rules are: one entry per person; design should be on card or paper no larger than 5 inches x 8 inches; no more than three colors and black should be used for lettering; symbol should include the words Western Michigan University and Bicentennial '76 or Bicentennial 1976; and name, address and telephone number on the reverse side.

Winners will be announced by Dec. 10; first prize will receive $75; second prize, $50; and third prize, $25. Winning entries and those receiving honorable mention will be displayed in the Student Center after Dec. 10. The winning entry will be submitted for consideration for adoption as the University's official Bicentennial symbol.

The contest is being organized by members of the 507 Social Studies class, taught by Alfred Griffin, associate professor of teacher education; they are studying the multi-ethnic approach to social studies. Student members of the organizing committee are Beverly Arndt, Ann Borchard, Phillip Blaske, Rex Palmer, Ruth Sirovy and Richard Steele.

Chan Captures Table Tennis Championship

For the fourth consecutive year, John Chan has captured the intramural table tennis singles championship. He defeated three opponents before beating Larry Ander Roest, 21-8, 21-4 and 21-10 for the title.

Chan teamed with Al Choy to win the doubles crown. They compiled a 7-0 record while runners-up Kurt Greenhalgh and Mark Payne posted a 6-1 mark.

Set Officials Clinic

Football Attendance Record

Western established a new per game average attendance mark of 20,423 spectators at Waldo Stadium for five home dates this fall, including a record single-game crowd of 24,235 at last Saturday's contest with Central Michigan.

The old per game record of 19,078 was achieved during 1973 competition as 114,476 spectators witnessed six home games.

In the process of achieving the new attendance figure this fall, Western attracted 23,753 fans for its Homecoming affair with Toledo and 20,442 for the Bowling Green game, which represent the second and ninth biggest crowds for single afternoons at Waldo.
