Bill Doolittle Resigns as Coach; Has 11-Year Mark of 58-49-2

Bill Doolittle, who has served as Western's head football coach for the past 11 seasons, Monday announced his decision to resign.

"I have come to this decision for the best interests of both myself and the University," commented Doolittle. "My family and I love WMU and the Kalamazoo area but our future plans are uncertain at this time."

"The University has asked me to consider other assignments on campus. I have had no pressure to arrive at this decision. I have deeply appreciated the loyalty of my staff and the fine support given to our program by the people of Kalamazoo."

In that period, Doolittle piloted the Broncos to a record of 58-49-2 plus a share of the Mid-American Conference title in 1966. He was selected as that year's MAC "Coach of the Year" by the league media association.

He enjoyed seven winning seasons at WMU, including four in a row before the 1974 team finished with an overall 3-8 mark and an 0-5 league record. His MAC record is 24-34-2.

Thirty-one of Doolittle's gridders earned All-MAC honors from 1964 through 1973 while another 25 were second unit selections. Among his former players are current active NFL performers Bob Rowe (Cardinals) and Bob Lurtsema (Vikings).

"I regret Bill Doolittle's decision at this time," remarked Athletic Director Dr. Joseph T. Hoy. "The Athletic Department would like to express its sincere appreciation for the 11 years of professional and

Campus Exceeds '73 United Way

The 1974 WMU United Way campaign has reached a grand total of $46,511.94, exceeding the $46,426.03 collected last year. A total 1,236 individuals contributed by way of direct gifts or payroll deductions to reach this new high figure.

Contributions which have not yet been returned will undoubtedly push this figure higher and individuals who have not yet forwarded their contributions are urged to do so, said campus co-chairmen Tom Coyne and Norm Russell.

The campaign will not achieve its hoped for goal of $50,000; nonetheless it does represent significant University support of the Kalamazoo community United Way effort, they said. University participation in the United Way drive has long been highly regarded by United Way officials.

Although the Kalamazoo drive on the whole fell some four percent short of its goal, United Way officials were pleased with the total funds collected in view of the nation's economic situation. The willingness of University personnel to support this campaign is yet another indication of the positive relations that do exist between town and gown in Kalamazoo, they said.

Annual Fund Needs Unified Campus Effort

Between now and the end of the year, all faculty and staff will be asked to contribute to the University's Annual Fund for 1974, according to Larry Koenes, director of the Annual Fund.

"In our quest for raising philanthropic support for Western, it becomes essential that we present a united effort to outside sources," Koenes said. "In 1973, over 260 faculty/staff members contributed $18,801.31 for scholarships, loans, projects, research, college and department development. During 1974, so far, over 180 faculty/staff members have donated $9,066 in support of such projects."

The Annual Fund set a new record for the seventh consecutive year in 1973, as over 7,000 individuals donated $783,000 to Western's yearly campaign—$162,000 more than in 1972. This year, for the eighth straight record fund raising year—over $810,000 has been received, with a month and a half to go.

Koenes notes that donations are tax deductible in a unique way, which will be explained in a forthcoming brochure.

"The Development Office would like to raise as much support for the University as possible," Koenes said. "As the supply of funds from the State becomes more restrictive, it becomes imperative that we seek support from outside sources. By presenting a united effort, we can say that, as members of the academic community, Western's faculty/staff contribute toward their own academic excellence."

Questions can be answered by contacting the Annual Fund Office at 383-1864.

Bernhard Cites 'Chief Concerns' in '75-76 Appropriations Base Budget Request Letter

WMU President John T. Bernhard has expressed Western's "chief concerns" of the impact of a $1,295,000 reduction in its appropriations base for 1975-76, in a 11/14/74 letter to Charles F. Sturtz, director of the Michigan Bureau of the Budget (BOB).

Dr. Bernhard cites the needs for: compensation adjustments, supply and equipment allocations, new programs and inequities in funding levels between institutions, especially when based upon instructional unit cost studies.

He is responding to Sturtz's letter of 10/1/74 to university presidents providing guidance on the timetable and format for final preparation of the 1975-76 budget request in light of Governor Milliken's target budget policy. Institutions are expected to assume no tuition increase for 1975-76 and no decrease in present enrollment levels.

Sturtz has indicated that it is the BOB's intention to present budget recommendations to the Governor the first week of December, obtain final decisions by Dec. 20, and deliver the budget to the Legislature on Jan. 15, 1975.

Bernhard's response is as follows:

"Dear Mr. Sturtz:

"This letter is in response to your memorandum of October 1, 1974 with respect to the development of a 1975/76 'Target Budget.' We have discussed at length, here at Western, the concerns raised by Governor Milliken in his letter and the impact of a $1,295,000 reduction in our appropriations base. While we understand the economic circumstances that lead to the need for discussion of state problems in this area, we wish to point out that we too are confronting difficult problems arising out of the current economic situation.

"I believe that it might be helpful if I expressed to you some of the major problems which we currently confront:

"1) Compensation—The compensation adjustments which we have been able to make in the past two fiscal years have not kept pace with increases in the cost-of-living during the same period. To make matters worse, the compensation increases in the variety of market-places in which we compete for our employees have dramatically out-paced our own increases during this period. An example of this occurs with our faculty. As you know, the faculty are the life-blood of any institution of higher education and as such there should be a direct relationship between program complexity and faculty salaries. Yet in spite of our program complexity, we find that we rank third from the bottom in a recent AAUP analysis of average compensation levels of Michigan collegiate institutions! We cannot emphasize strongly enough the detrimental effect on program quality that this inequity will have in the long-run, not to mention the serious morale problem that this situation poses. Our concern for supporting staff compensation levels, while not highlighted here, is equal to that of faculty and will be dealt with in our 1975/76 Budget Request.

"2) Enrollments—Western, along with other institutions in this state and nationally, has faced over the past few years serious declines in student enrollments. This situation led in 1973/74 to a faculty reduction of approximately 60 F.T.E.F. positions. In addition, during 1973/74 we engaged in a reallocation process designed to create more flexibility in our faculty staffing patterns. This fall our enrollment has essentially stabilized and it is our expectation that this situation will continue with the possibility of a slight downward drift for the decade of the 70's. Our expectations in this area are buttressed by two givens: 1) our relative class sizes are now stable, 2) the breadth of our academic program is allowing students to select from a variety of disciplines, thereby creating greater diversity in our enrollments by major.

"3) Supply and Equipment Allocations—As we indicate in our Program Revision Requests, supply and equipment funding for our instructional programs by any conceivable measurement is too low. We have, in both 1974/75 and the 1975/76 Budget Request, attempted to trace why this funding situation has occurred, and recommended funding increases to alleviate the problem. Instead of getting help in this situation, however, we have been confronted with recommendations for further across-the-board type cuts in the 'Legislative Tracking Summary' for these categories. We are now greatly concerned that many of our sister institutions will be able to reduce funding in these areas, while we dare not take this approach.

"4) New Programs—The development of new programs is the only way in which a collegiate institution can continue to respond to changes in societal demands for trained manpower. Not all new programs, as I know you are aware, require additional funding for faculty positions. In fact, no new faculty positions have been requested, with the exception of the law school, in this year's or last year's Budget Requests. We believe that program changes can and should be accomplished, given a stable enrollment, with the faculty resources available. Nonetheless, many new programs require supply, equipment and supporting staff resources that are beyond our current funding ability forcing us to request funding for these areas. It is our opinion that we cannot, and should not, implement these programs without new funding resources. We believe that our current resources should be examined in view of reallocating within and between operational programs, and not used to fund totally new programs.

"5) Equity—As you know, our history has been one of arguing our case on the basis of the inequities in funding levels between institutions. We are confident that the 1973/74 Instructional Unit Cost Study will show, as have prior cost studies, that we are underfunded in many or all of our instructional programs as compared to our sister institutions. We believe that this situation can and should be corrected. As a start we suggest that consideration be given to varying institutional Target Budgets based on the Instructional Unit Cost Study.

"The above is intended to point out to you our chief concerns with regard to our current allocation base in view of current program levels. If it becomes necessary for base reductions to occur, then we wish the following points to be taken into consideration:

- 1) We believe that institutional Target Budgets should be variable, and established to correct current funding inequities.
- 2) We wish to make crystal clear the problem expressed above with our supply and equipment budgets. Since supply and equipment budgets are already significantly below proper funding levels, we will, given the magnitude of the reduction currently being considered, have to terminate faculty and staff.
- 3) We prefer, in fact urgently need, sufficient flexibility to allow reductions to occur in areas which will best protect the integrity of our current academic programs (and their support). In essence, therefore, we would prefer not to be required to operate within the rigid constraints of a "line-item" reduction. We will, however, adjust our program funding after the magnitude of the reduction is known, and would be most happy to report the areas involved and extent of the reduction.
- 4) Any reductions that might have to occur will be made with the goal of minimizing the effect on student enrollments, although in our current situation there is no plausible method available to us that will not have some impact on enrollments.

"I hope that the above discussion will be of assistance to you in your deliberations on this most difficult situation which now confronts you and your staff. Please feel free to contact me if I can be of further assistance to you."

Very truly yours,
/s/ John T. Bernhard

Issue Interim Rights, Privacy Policy Statement

A section of recent federal legislation entitled the "Family Education Rights and Privacy Act of 1974" was effective as of Nov. 19.

In accord with the requirements of that legislation, the University hereby notifies all WMU students of the existence of the Act and of its general purpose, which is to provide broader access for students to University records and files directly related to them. The Act also attempts to protect the confidentiality of student records, both within and outside the University, though current WMU policy has for many years been in essential conformance with those provisions, explained Dr. Philip Denenfeld, WMU associate vice president for academic affairs.

The Act is sufficiently unclear and ambiguous so that we are uncertain about what policy by the University would be legal and proper, as well as responsive to its intention, he continued. That crucial question is under study and has been submitted for the advice of legal counsel. In addition, the U.S. Office of Education is charged by the Act with establishing guidelines for the implementation of the statute, which it has not yet done.

Consequently, as an interim policy, any student who wishes to examine a record or file directly related to him or her should submit a written request to the appropriate authority (e.g., a department chairman or head of an office), specifying what information they would like to see. The request should be dated, and should contain a name, address, and phone number, so that the individual can be notified as soon as the University can make a considered and consistent response to the request. By the terms of the law, a response is required within 45 days.

Until we have a new policy or the required guidelines from the Office of Education, current practices in the various University units and offices will be followed, said Denenfeld.

Seek Foreign Student Hosts

The Office of Foreign Student Affairs is expecting approximately 100 new foreign students to enroll at Western for the coming Winter Semester.

These students will begin arriving around December 30 to participate in a pre-enrollment orientation program and to prepare for registration.

A number of the new students have asked to be placed with a family in the area until suitable housing can be arranged (NOTE: University residence halls do not open for occupancy until January 3). "Home-stay" placements are now being made through the Office of Foreign Student Affairs, however, additional families interested in hosting a student(s) are desperately needed.

Faculty and staff who would like to host a foreign student for several days prior to the start of the winter semester are asked to contact Mrs. Barbara Garland in the Office of Foreign Student Affairs, telephone 383-0990.

Dickason Presents Paper

Dr. David Dickason, chairman of the Institute of International and Area Studies' Asian Studies Program and associate professor of geography, presented a paper at the Conference on South Asia sponsored by the University of Wisconsin on Nov. 15-16 in Oshkosh, Wis. His paper, "Americans on Ice: Factors Behind the Indian Ice Trade," was presented in a panel on Historical Perspectives and Acculturation in South Asia. Also attending the conference were Dr. Samuel I. Clark, Director of Honors, and John Gula, returned Peace Corps fellow.

"with the play 'HIM,' e. e. cummings, the celebrated poet, portrayed the 'mundane sphere' as it looked to him in the 1920s. Him and Me are husband and wife. The story of 'HIM' occurs in the brain of Me who lies on an operating table.

"It traces the relations of two people to one another: the artist who sees himself as three persons, the man, the artist, and the failure; the girl who loves him and is forever foiled in her efforts at understanding him; the doctor who goes in and out of the incidents in one personage and another; and, the weird sisters who chatter." This imaginative play covers an entire kaleidoscope of character images, inclusive of shapes, figures, fairies, interlocutors, a soapbox orator, a barker, Mussolini and many others.

Designing the Arena Theatre stage-setting is Daniel J. Fleischacker, with David Karsten serving as technical director.

The New York Herald Tribune has pointed out that "it is difficult to make a sentence concerning the genius of the poet and the superb poetry of this play . . ." First produced in 1927 at the Provincetown Playhouse, "HIM" has seldom been presented as a stage entertainment.

Doolittle

dedicated service he has given to the University.

"During that time, the stature of our football program improved tremendously. Although he has asked to be relieved of his coaching duties, I do hope that Bill will want to continue as a staff member in our Athletic Department."

Doolittle, 51, is a native of Mansfield, Ohio, where he was an All-State prep quarterback, guiding his team to a state championship in 1941.

He then enrolled at Ohio State but a short time later joined the Marine Corps. He served 27 months in the Pacific, earning a bronze star. Part of this duty was with the famed "Raider" battalions.

After the war, Bill returned to Ohio State and was a quarterback on Buckeye teams of 1946 and 1947. His first coaching job was at Grandview High in 1948 where he had a 6-3 mark. Bill then moved to Brown University as an assistant for two years.

Following a short stint as an assistant at Canton Lincoln High, he came to Michigan, coaching at Owosso in 1952 and 1953. His record there was 9-8-1. Doolittle then moved to Flint Central for six years, where he had a stunning 40-12-2 mark and won the mythical state Class A title in 1958 with an 8-0-1 record. In 1960, he returned to his hometown of Mansfield to take over a faltering program; in two seasons, his teams won 12 games, lost six and tied two.

From there, he went to West Point for the next two years as offensive coordinator under Paul Dietzel, a former high school teammate and now the athletic director and head grid coach at South Carolina.

Western Hosts Regional Women's Volleyball Tourney Fri., Sat.

Western's varsity women's volleyball team, coached by Ruth Ann Meyer, has qualified as one of five at-large competitors in the 1974 regional volleyball championships for the Midwest Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women, to be held here at Gary Center Friday and Saturday, Nov. 22-23.

Western was awarded the position on the basis of the team's 11-15 season record prior to the state tournament at Grand Valley Colleges Nov. 15 and 16. Western lost in single elimination play at the state meet.

In the regional championship tournament, 16 teams from six states will compete in pool play, with the top eight squads advancing to single elimination play offs to determine two qualifying teams for the National Association Championships at Portland State University Dec. 12-14.

Western's Coach Meyer is optimistic about her team's chances in the tournament.

"We've played some of the top teams who will be coming here and we've been beaten, but not too soundly," she said. "I'm hoping that our experienced players keep their composure and the inexperienced players keep their desire and don't worry about form or playing strategy, and then we'll be able to win a few."

Teams from Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, West Virginia and Wisconsin will compete at the regional tournament. Last year's Midwest regional winner was Northeastern Illinois University, with Illinois (Chicago Circle), Cincinnati, and Northern Illinois University taking the next three places.

Play will begin at 9 a.m. Nov. 22 in both Intramural and Gary Center gymnasiums. Friday's play will conclude at 8:30 p.m. and the championship match will be held at 3 p.m. Saturday.

Tickets for the tournament will be on sale at the door. Admission is 50c with any student identification and $1 for the general public.

Because of the tournament, faculty locker rooms on the second floor of Gary Center will be unavailable for use from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and open recreation hours in the gymnasiums have been cancelled after 6 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 21, and all day Nov. 22 and 23.
