

10 Legislators Visit Western

Western was visited Monday by 10 state legislators and other special guests, who toured the campus and conferred with University officials about WMU's current and 1975-76 budget needs.

They were: Sen. Jerome Hart, chairman, Senate appropriations committee; Rep. Dominic Jacobetti, chairman, House appropriations committee; Sen. Bill Huffman, chairman, Senate appropriations subcommittee on higher education; Rep. Gary Owen, chairman, House appropriations subcommittee on higher education; Rep. Thomas Sharpe, and Rep. James O'Neill, Jr., members, House appropriations subcommittee; Rep. Paul Rosenbaum, chairman, House judiciary committee; Rep. John F. Markes, chairman, House policy committee; Rep. Wayne Sackett; Rep. Howard Wolpe; Rick Cole, administrative assistant to Senate Majority Leader William B. Fitzgerald; Roger Tillus, member, State Board of Education; John Whitman, president, Kalamazoo Labor Council; and WMU Trustees Charles H. Ludlow and Philip N. Watterson, both members of the Board's budget and finance committee.

WMU President John T. Bernhard and Vice Presidents Stephen R. Mitchell, Myron L. Coulter and Robert B. Wetnight made special presentations at the luncheon. Topics included Western's enrollment profile; relative position with sister state institutions in faculty compensation and state appropriations per student; instructional supplies, services and equipment funding; energy conservation; the College of Health and Human Services; faculty development; student financial aid; and the College of Law.

"I was very impressed by the fact that Western was visited by such a large group of legislators from Lansing and I was particularly appreciative because I know of the very heavy schedule of work which they face in this legislative session," remarked Dr. Bernhard.

"We had a very frank and friendly discussion of the problems the University faces in budget matters and I think the legislators were certainly sympathetic to our needs, but, in turn, they expressed a concern over the state's economic condition and the fact that the future prospects for revenue did not look very bright at this stage of the game," he said.

Lecture Wednesday

Dr. Gerhard Rosegger, associate professor and chairman of the economics department at Case Western Reserve University, will present a seminar and a free public lecture Wednesday, Feb. 12, here at Western.

"Methodological and Conceptual Questions Concerning Economic Research in the Diffusion of Innovations" will be the topic of the 3-5 p.m. seminar in 3760 Knauss Hall for faculty, graduate students and undergraduate economics majors. He will discuss "Multinational Corporations and Technology Transfer: The Need for a Fresh Look" at 8 p.m. in 3750 Knauss Hall.

Chungnam University Honors Bernhard, Western's Center for Korean Studies

WMU President John T. Bernhard recently was awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws degree at the Chungnam National University of South Korea in Daejeon, Korea.

In special ceremonies, Dr. Bernhard was recognized for his "distinguished contributions to the interchange of American and Korean cultures as well as the development of education and culture."

WMU's Center for Korean Studies, directed by Dr. Andrew Nahm, also was cited as the first formal unit for study and research on Korea in the continental United States. It was established in 1972.

Bernhard, in accepting the honorary doctorate, noted that the goals of Chungnam and Western are very similar. "We, too, are interested in 'the development of the nation and betterment of human welfare,'" he said.

Asian Series Begins Tonight

A free Asian Studies film series begins tonight and will be held for eight additional Thursdays at 7 p.m. in 1104 Rood Hall.

Tonight's program is entitled "The New China—I"; it will look at self-reliance; one nation, many peoples; people's communes; and people's army.

Other topics and dates are: "The New China—II," Feb. 13; "The Indo-Chinese Predicament," Feb. 20; "India," Feb. 27; "Great Asian Leaders," March 13; "The High Himalayas," March 20; "Tribal Life in Southeast Asia," March 27; "Nation-Building in Southeast Asia," April 10; and "Japan," April 17.

Mann, Singers Here Tuesday

Miller Auditorium will present Johnny Mann and the Johnny Mann Singers at 8 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 11.

Their program entitled "Stand Up and Cheer" is part of the 1974-75 Patron's Choice series and will be on the Western campus for one performance only.

Mann is probably best known as music director for the one-time, late-night Joey Bishop Show. He has served with the U.S. Army Field Band as arranger, composer, singer and instrumentalist. He did composing and arranging scores for seven full-length motion pictures for Warner Bros., 20th Century Fox and Columbia Studios.

Remaining tickets are priced at $5 and $3.50, $6 tickets are completely sold out.

Spring Registration Now Through March 21

Advance registration for Western's spring session will continue through March 21, the registration office has announced.

The spring schedule of classes and registration forms are now available at 2010 Administration building, where the completed forms may be delivered from 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

Students' schedules and fees' bills will be mailed to their local addresses the week of April 4, and payments are due April 18. The WMU spring session is from May 5 to June 25.

Set Luncheon Series

Western's International Student Luncheon is held every Wednesday at noon in the social room of the Kanley Chapel.

There are no formal speeches, just an international dialogue and lots of people with unique international experiences, according to Don Van Hoeven, campus minister, who coordinates the program. The series is sponsored by the Campus Ministry in cooperation with Church Women United.

A.W.S. Plans Awareness Week

One of the highlights of the annual Awareness Week sponsored by Western's Associated Women Students (AWS) is the Monday, Feb. 17, appearance on campus of Martha Griffiths, former Michigan congresswoman.

She will speak at 8 p.m. in the east ballroom, University Student Center, on "Equal Rights for Women," following a 6:30 p.m. dinner in the Gold Room. A former member of the powerful House of Representatives Ways and Means Committee, she was a sponsor of the Equal Rights Amendment. At 9:30 there will be an informal get together with Griffiths in the Student Center.

A second nationally-prominent speaker during the week will be Karen DeCrow, new president of the National Organization for Women, on Wednesday, Feb. 19, also at 8 p.m. in the Student Center east ballroom, following a 6:30 p.m. dinner in the Gold Room. The deadline for reservations for both dinners is Feb. 13.

DeCrow, an attorney, is noted for her book, "Sexist Justice" and many articles in national publications as well as for network radio and TV appearances. She will be available for informal discussion 2:30-4:30 p.m., 205 Student Center, and also at 9:30 p.m. at 2425 University Ave., after her Student Center talk.

Sharon Brown, director, community relations, station WXYZ-TV, Detroit, is the first speaker on the agenda, Saturday, Feb. 15, at 1 p.m. in the Kalamazoo YWCA, 211 S. Rose St., on "Women in the Media." Following her talk a series of workshops in the communications media will be held, 2-4 p.m., in the YWCA, as part of a Saturday Susan B. Anthony Birthday Celebration.

Another speaker, Susan Stark,

Detroit Free Press film critic, may be heard at 2 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 20, in 3321 Brown Hall, discussing women and Hollywood movies.

Tuesday, Feb. 18, will be filled by an 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. series of celebrating awareness workshops, second floor, Student Center. Panelists on a 9-11 a.m. session on "Women in Traditionally Male Careers" include Mary M. Wade, staff writer, Kalamazoo Gazette;

Dr. Margaret V. Merritt, research scientist, Upjohn Co.; Dr. Molly W. Williams, adjunct assistant professor of mechanical engineering, WMU; Rev. Linda D. Stoddard, pastor, Oshtemo-N.W. Parish, United Methodist Church; Betty L. Ongley, mayor of Portage and guidance director, Portage West Junior High School; and June E. Taft, owner of a real estate office.

Other Feb. 18 workshops, all in the Student Center, include: "Communication in Marriage," 11 a.m.-12:30 p.m., room 204, conducted by Don VanHoeven, WMU campus minister, Reformed Church in America, and his wife, Shirley Van Hoeven, instructor, communication arts and sciences, WMU;

"Breast Cancer Detection," 11 a.m.-12:30 p.m., room 205, by Mildred Hedrick, lecturer, School of Librarianship, WMU, and coordinator of Reach to Recovery Program, American Cancer Society; "1975—The Year for Women," 1-2 p.m., room 205, by Allene Dietrich, instructor, College of General Studies, WMU;

"Women in Sports," 2-4 p.m., faculty lounge, by Ruth Anne Meyer, chairperson, physical education for women department and assistant athletic director, WMU; and Christine Hoyles, instructor and director, WMU women's intramural sports program;

"Alternate Life Styles," 2-4 p.m., room 204, by Mary Frances Fenton, graphics consultant, WMU Educational Resources Center; Dottie Williams, therapist at Tuwagachi, Gestalt Community; and Diane Churchill, registered nurse; and

"Where Did Lilith Go?," 3-5 p.m., room 205, by Dr. Charles Houston, social sciences professor, WMU College of General Studies.

A feature movie, "The Girls," one of nine on the week's agenda, kicks off AWS Awareness Week, 7 p.m., Friday, Feb. 14, at Kalamazoo College, Light Fine Arts Building.

Course Development Luncheons Start

Luncheon meetings for WMU faculty and graduate students are being held this week and next Monday in the University Student Center by the Division of Instructional Communications, Office of Instructional Development.

The informal meetings will allow faculty to ask questions of persons who have previous experience in developing individualized courses of instruction. Persons attending the noon-1:30 p.m. sessions may bring a lunch or go through the cafeteria line.

On Thursday, Feb. 6, Dr. Rainer Erhart, associate professor of geography, and Dr. Imy Holt, biology professor, will speak on "Audio-tutorial Instruction at WMU," in room 158.

On Friday, Feb. 7, Dr. Samuel Postlethwaite of Purdue University will speak on "Audio-tutorial Instruction," in room 158.

On Monday, Feb. 10, Dr. Richard Malott, associate professor of psychology, will speak on "The Keller Method of Individualized Instruction," in room 157.

Offer Valentine Roses

Western's Panhellenic Council will be sponsoring their "Give Someone a Rose for Valentine's Day" again this year. Roses will be sold for $1.00 and may be ordered through the Panhellenic Office, 1413 Student Services Building, or by calling 383-0077. Orders will be taken through Wednesday, Feb. 12. All orders will be delivered on Friday, Feb. 14, Valentine's Day.

Set AfroAmerican Chorale Concert

The first annual free concert of the AfroAmerican Chorale, under the direction of Dr. Romeo E. Phillips, will be given at 8 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 13, here in Kanley Chapel.

The group was organized under the combined efforts of Dr. LeRoi Ray, Jr., director of Black Americana Studies at WMU, and Phillips, chairman of the department of education and adjunct professor of music at Kalamazoo College. Members of the chorale represent all walks of life—students, teachers, homemakers, public employees and others.

The basic goal of the singers, according to Ray, is to perform authentic AfroAmerican folk music, both sacred and secular, and to create interest in this art form within the community. Through the cooperative efforts of many people in the community and at WMU, Ray noted, research and expression of the Black experience through Black music has been made possible.

U.T. To Present

'Tempest' Feb. 13-15

Shakespeare's "The Tempest" will be presented by University Theatre at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, Feb. 13-15, in the Laura V. Shaw Theatre.

Described by director William Livingston as the playwright's "majestic and beautiful vision peopled with villains and demons, spirits and clowns," the play was written around 1611 and is probably the last play wholly written by Shakespeare.

Livingston has designed the stage setting. Jill K. Peterson has designed the costumes and student technical assistant Martin Peck designed the lighting. Original music for this production has been composed by Davy Fish with choreography by Frank Folino and make-up and mask designs by Barbara Thompson. Karen Ann Halter is assisting the director, and Jim Frey is technical director.

Tickets for "The Tempest" are priced at $2.50. Reservations and tickets may be obtained through the Shaw Theatre box office (Ph. 383-1760).

Dow Scientist To Lecture Here

Dr. Cleve A. I. Goring, director of plant science research, Dow Chemical Co., Midland, Mich., will present a free public talk at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Feb. 10, in 1104 Rood Hall.

He has 20 years research experience with biocide development and its involvement in the green revolution and will talk on the social responsibility of the scientist/technologist.

Goring, whose WMU visit is sponsored by the science area in the College of General Studies, will meet Tuesday with selected campus classes for discussion.

Symphony Concert

Violinist Arturo Delmoni will be the guest soloist with the University Symphony Orchestra in concert at 3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 9, in Miller Auditorium.

Conducted by Herbert Butler, the orchestra will play Brahms' "Symphony Number 3," Stravinsky's "Suite Number 2" and will feature Delmoni on the Beethoven "Concerto in D Major for Violin and Orchestra."

Soprano Presents Solo Recital

The department of music will present soprano Joyce Zastrow in a free public solo faculty recital at 8 p.m. Friday, Feb. 14, in Oakland Recital Hall.

She will be accompanied by Mary Jane Rupert. Dr. Zastrow, an associate professor, teaches applied voice. She has done advanced study at the Berkshire Music School in Tanglewood, Mass., the Aspen School of Music, the Conservatoire Americain in France, and at the Mozarteum in Salzburg, Austria.

The program will include a performance of "Lauter Wonne, lauter Freude," with cellist Nola Douglas, a senior from Missouri, and faculty members Edwin Sabrack, flutist, and Miss Rupert, harpsichordist. Two groups of songs by Darius Milhaud also will be performed, assisted by Charles Osborne, flute; Joseph Work, viola; and Miss Rupert, harp.

The last group of songs which Dr. Zastrow will sing will be centered around the subject of love, in honor of the date—St. Valentine's Day.

African Lecture Tuesday Night

Richard Sigwalt of Western's College of General Studies' Non-Western World Program, will speak at the anthropology department colloquium on "The Hamitic Myth and African Historiography: the Rwanda Example" at 3 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 11, in 118 Moore Hall.

He spent six years in East Africa, the last three in research on the pre-colonial history of the Shi people of eastern Zaire, which puts early Rwanda history into a new light.

Chem. Colloquium Monday

"Analytical Aspects of Community Air Sampling" is the topic of a chemistry colloquium to be held at 4 p.m. Monday, Feb. 10, here in 5280 McCracken Hall.

Speaking will be Dr. Peter O. Warner, Wayne County Department of Health.

Offer TV Course Beginning Feb. 15

A 12-week televised college course for elementary and secondary teachers will begin this month in cooperation with WMU.

"Human Relations and School Discipline" starts at 7:30 a.m., Feb. 15, over WKZO-TV, Kalamazoo, and 8:30 a.m. March 4 over WGVC-TV, Grand Rapids. The latter will repeat at 7 p.m. Tuesdays and 12:30 p.m. Thursdays.

Fees are $59 for two semester hours of graduate or undergraduate credit. Registration forms and additional information may be obtained from Western's Division of Continuing Education.

8th Children's Theatre Feb. 17-22

University Theatre will present its eighth annual Children's Experimental Theatre VIII February 17-22 in the Arena of Laura V. Shaw Theatre.

As in the past, the 1 p.m. weekday afternoon performances are open only to organized classroom groups already scheduled, but there will be four performances open to the general public. These public performances will be presented at 4 and 7:30 p.m. Friday, Feb. 21, and at 1 and 3 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 22.

Children's Experimental Theatre VIII is entitled "I Touch You—You're Touched" and is geared toward the kindergarten through third grade child. If it can be judged from shows in the past, however, it will probably prove as appealing to audiences of all ages!

Director Lyda Stillwell of the University Theatre staff says, "the approach is again experimental." The company—made up of the cast, production associates, and other assistants—and director Stillwell along with setting designer-technical director Vern Stillwell and costume designer Jill K. Peterson have been working together several weeks to develop the show's theme in the most dramatic way they can. They hope the results produced will be an entertaining, worthwhile, and appropriate program for the children. Audience participation is included in the show, and the audience will be seated on the floor, as usual.

Assisting the director are junior dance/communications major Tonda Rae Bian and senior CAS major Glenn Allen DuBois. Christopher Rous of Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, Canada, is stage manager.

Production associates serve as construction and set-up as well as running crews and contributors to the actual show content as an integral part of the company. They include junior CAS majors Julie L. Strieter of Benton Harbor, an assistant director last year; and William B. Langlois of Kalamazoo. Sophomore art major Colleen Pattison of Farmington Hills is a "CT" production associate for her second year, and this year is joined by sophomore CAS majors Krista Marie Forrester of Saline and Kathy Williams of East Lansing. Also serving as production associates are freshmen Karen Raymond of Mt. Clemens, Sherri Lynn Reid of Union Pier, and Robin Burdick of Adrian.

Tickets for this colorful show are general admission and priced at 50 cents. Mail orders for the four public performances are being accepted and reservations and walk-in sales begin Monday, Feb. 10, at the Laura V. Shaw Theatre box office, 383-1760.

Reading Council Meeting Feb. 13

Peggy Brogan, well-known educational consultant and author, will be the featured speaker at a meeting of the Homer L. J. Carter Reading Council at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 13, here in the West Ballroom of the University Student Center. Her topic will be "Reading for Students in Grades K-12."

She is an administrative editor with Holt, Rinehart and Winston, Inc., Publishers. A former teacher of nursery, elementary, and college classes, she is co-author of several books.

Free Search Workshop Series For All Women Begins Feb. 12

The WMU Continuing Education for Women Office will conduct search workshops for seven weeks, starting Wednesday, Feb. 12. The 12:30 to 3 p.m. workshops are in Walwood Union on Oakland Drive each Wednesday.

The Feb. 12 public session is free to all women in the Kalamazoo area to help them determine if they want to enroll in the seven week program. The $45 workshop fee is due at the second meeting. Enrollment limit is 30.

The workshop is unique in the Kalamazoo area, according to June Mochizuki, WMU counselor, who will conduct the program. It is offered on the premise that today's women have the time and desire to develop interests and abilities beyond those of the usual women's roles.

Presented in two phases, the workshop helps women become aware of their skills and self concepts and improve interpersonal communication with family and associates. The second phase provides information on community opportunities for education, employment, volunteer work and creative self-expression.

Additional information is available from the Continuing Education for Women Office, 383-1860. Brochures describing the workshop are available at the Kalamazoo YWCA and the Kalamazoo Public Library.

WAOP Meets Wednesday

All office personnel are invited to attend the Western Association of Office Personnel's monthly noon luncheon meeting Wednesday, Feb. 12, in Room 157-8, University Student Center.

Robert Wetnight, WMU vice president for finance, will discuss Phase II of the Clerical/Technical study.

Plan Paper Drive

The Western Association of Office Personnel is scheduling a paper drive for Saturday, Feb. 15. A truck will be at the Fieldhouse parking lot for those wishing to drop off papers.

If anyone has a large load that needs to be picked up, contact Lynn Ross at 3-1780. Your paper donation will be appreciated.

University Jazz Band, Trombonist Urbie Green To Perform Friday

Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia and the department of music will present the University Jazz Lab Band in concert at 8 p.m. Friday, Feb. 7, in Miller Auditorium. General admission will be $1 per person.

Under the direction of Bobby Davidson, the first half of the program will feature a complete variety of sound and styles including blues, rock, big band and straight ahead jazz. The arrangements are from the libraries of Stan Kenton, Count Basie, Buddy Rich, Thad Jones and others.

Trombonist Urbie Green will be the guest artist with the Jazz Lab Band during the second portion of the program. Green's first big break came with Jan Savitt's orchestra and his performance earned him accolades from the greats of the business. He then toured with Frankie Carle and Gene Krupa, and in 1950 headed straight for New York, where he joined Woody Herman's great band and was the featured soloist in the famous "Blue Flame."

In 1954, Green won the DOWN-BEAT International Critics Award for "new star." In 1956, he opened with Benny Goodman at the Hotel Bradford in Boston, followed by an engagement at New York's Waldorf-Astoria, also with Goodman.

For a time, he was leader of the Tommy Dorsey Orchestra. Freelancing out of New York, today Green does recording work mostly. He has been featured on recordings with Gene Krupa, Frankie Carle, Hugo Winterhalter, Joe Reisman, Ray Block, Jackie Gleason, Sy Oliver, Vaughn Monroe, Perry Como, Billie Holiday, Andre Kostelanetz, Percy Faith, Count Basie, Leonard Bernstein and many others. He has been called by Tony Bennett, Peggy Lee and Frank Sinatra who wanted his backing for their vocalizing.

War College Professor To Discuss Middle East Crisis Here Feb. 12

Dr. Waldo H. Dubberstein, former professor of international relations, National War College, Washington, D.C., will discuss the Middle East crisis when he visits WMU on Wednesday, Feb. 12.

He will speak on "Problems in Approaching a Settlement of the Israeli-Arab Conflict" at an 11:30 a.m. luncheon meeting, in 159 University Student Center. At 3 p.m. in 311 Wood Hall, Dubberstein will give an informal lecture on "New Concerns in the Persian Gulf."

Both programs, open to the public, are jointly sponsored by the WMU Institute of International and Area Studies and the geography department.

Dubberstein has had 30 years of experience in military intelligence and with the Central Intelligence Agency. While in the CIA, his assignment was to assess and interpret international developments, particularly in the Middle East, Southeast Asia and Africa. Recently, he was special assistant to the director of the Office of National Narcotics Intelligence in the Department of Justice.

Lecture Here Today

Dr. Alvin Goldman, University of Michigan philosophy professor and author, will give a free public lecture at 8 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 6, here in 3760 Knauss Hall.

His book, "Theory of Human Action," is considered by critics as one of the leading publications dealing with human action. Goldman will speak on the topic "Perceptual Knowledge." His lecture is sponsored by the Heraclitean Society of the WMU philosophy department.

The Western News

The Western News is published by the Office of University Information each Thursday when classes are in session during fall and winter semesters.

Created to disseminate news to the entire University community, distribution is by mail to faculty, staff and emeriti, and students may pick up copies at several on-campus locations. Items should be submitted by noon Monday for publication.

University Information office hours: 8 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday-Friday. Telephone: 383-0981. Martin R. (Joe) Gagie, Director; Patricia M. Coyle, Associate Director.

Irish Wrestlers Here Tonight

Notre Dame's wrestling team visits Gary Center tonight for a 7:30 dual against Western Michigan as the Broncos will attempt to even their season record.

Coach George Hobbs' club bowed, 22-17, to Mid-Western Conference foe Miami University here last Saturday. Western's record is 4-5.

The highlight of the meet from the Bronco standpoint was a pin by Bill Cox in 190-pound competition. The Flint senior now owns 16 career falls to rank second on the school's all-time list behind 1974 NCAA champion Doug Wyn. Cox has a 10-1 record this season with eight pins.

Western has faced Notre Dame 17 times in past years and has come away with 15 wins, including a 24-17 triumph on the Irish campus last winter.

The probable Bronco lineup is: 118—Joe Perrone (4-5), Lansing; 126—Jim Holmes (4-4), Battle Creek; 134—Bob Read (4-7-1), Plymouth; 142—Warren Watson (6-9-1), Niles; 150—Gary Martin, Flint; 158—Mark Sands, Swartz Creek; 167—Pat Weede (3-4), Niles; 177—Tim Simpson (0-3), Kalamazoo; 190—Cox, and heavyweight—Mike Keen (1-3-1), Flint.

Western Cagers At E. Michigan

Coach Eldon Miller's varsity men's Bronco basketball team continues its title chase in the Mid-American Conference race Saturday afternoon at Eastern Michigan University. Tipoff time at Ypsilanti is 3 p.m.

Western moved right into the thick of things here last Saturday by easily defeating the then MAC leader, Miami, 86-73. The Broncos played Loyola last night in a non-conference contest in Chicago; results were not known at press time.

The Broncos are 5-3 in the MAC. Every club in the league has at least three setbacks.

Hockey Broncos At Bowling Green

The biggest victory in Western Michigan's brief two-year varsity hockey existence came by an 8-2 count here last December against Bowling Green, but Bronco Coach Bill Neal is the first to acknowledge that things will be difficult for Saturday's rematch in Ohio.

"We know they've been talking about this one ever since they left Kalamazoo," said Neal.

At the time of the Brown and Gold triumph in Lawson Arena, Bowling Green ranked No. 8 nationally on the collegiate coaches poll. Since that time, the Falcons have fallen from the top ten, but own a fine 19-7-1 mark.

Western, meanwhile, has clinched a spot in the Central Collegiate Hockey Association playoffs for the second straight year. The Broncos completed an eight-game sweep of Division II rivals last weekend with 10-3 and 7-4 wins at Buffalo to raise the overall record to 16-3.

St. Clair, Ont., one of the two teams to beat Western this season, invade Lawson Ice Arena for a single contest at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 12.

P.E. Workshops Friday, Saturday

WMU will present a series of workshops Friday and Saturday, Feb. 7-8, on "Individualizing Instruction for Physical Education." The two-hour sessions will be in the Gary Physical Education Center.

The free Friday workshops for WMU faculty and students are at 8 a.m. on "College Level," at 10 a.m. on "Elementary and Middle School Level," and at 1 p.m. on "Secondary Level."

The Saturday workshops for Kalamazoo area teachers, with a $2 registration fee payable at the door, are at 8 a.m. on "Elementary and Middle School Level," and at 10 a.m. on "Secondary Level."

Dr. Anthony Annarino, professor of physical education at Purdue University, will conduct the workshops. He'll discuss the design and implementation of individualized instruction packets, contingency contracts, self-prescribed programs, systems analysis programs and evaluation techniques.

In the past, Annarino has stimulated professional organizations and educational institutions across the country to initiate many innovative instructional methods.

The workshops are co-sponsored by the WMU men's and women's physical education departments, Office of Instructional Development and Continuing Education Division.

To Honor Whitney Young Scholars

Mrs. Ann Ashmore Poussaint, a social worker and clinical psychologist in private practice, will speak at the Whitney Young Scholars' Award Program at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 12, here in the West Ballroom of the University Student Center.

Her topic "Love and Intimacy" will focus upon relationships within the family, with particular emphasis upon the black family. The program is open to the public. Music will be provided by the Afro-American Chorale.

Earlier that day, Poussaint will lead a seminar from 2:30-3:30 p.m. in the Student Center's Martin Luther King Room on "Black Clients in Clinical Settings."

The Young Scholars' Program is in its fourth year. Having been initiated by the School of Social Work, it is the School's way of memorializing the late Whitney Young and making visible the School's interest in minority participation. The Office of Minority Student Services is co-sponsoring the Awards Program this year.

Announce Faculty Volleyball League

A noon hour Faculty Volleyball League is now being formed. Entries are due Friday, Feb. 14, at the Intramural Office. The league will be played on a round robin basis, pending a satisfactory number of entries.

All games will be played at noon in the Intramural Gym.

Defending champions are "The Old Timers" who were captained by Phil Denenfeld. All faculty members are eligible for the league, so form your team now. Contact the Intramural Office with any questions regarding the league, 383-0440.

Women Cagers Here Tonight

Just off a full week of victories, Western's women's basketball teams prepare to take on Grand Rapids Junior College and Calvin College in evening contests tonight at Read Fieldhouse, before hitting the road with games at Indiana State and Indiana University Friday and Saturday.

Tonight's games against 1974 state champion Calvin are at 6:30 and 8 o'clock.

In action last week, the Bronettes won in convincing and record-breaking fashion, defeating all six foes.

Bronco Swimmers At Home Tonight

After raising its record to 6-2 with a 69-44 win over Bowling Green this past Saturday, the Western Michigan swimmers welcome Loyola and Oakland University to Gabel Natatorium at 7 o'clock tonight.

Cite Kurzen's Play

WMU junior guard Jim Kurzen has been cited as the Mid-American Conference "Player of the Week" for his efforts in basketball games against nationally-ranked Notre Dame and Miami.

Women Bowlers on Top

Western's Women's Michigan Intercollegiate Bowling League leaders roll into action again this weekend at the Central Michigan University regionals Friday and Saturday. Concurrent with the bowling, WMU's defending national table tennis champion, Janice Martin, will be competing.

Swimmers in Ontario

Western's women's swimming team, fresh from two important victories at home, travel to the University of Windsor Saturday for a quarrangular meet with the home team and swimmers from the University of Toronto and Adrian College.

In action at Gary Center Pool last week, the Western tankers easily handled Eastern Michigan University, 71-50, and Adrian College, 78-42.

Gymnasts at Valpo

Individually, the 1975 WMU women's gymnastics team is having a fine season. So far, as a team, the Bronettes are winless. The gymnasts, owners of an 0-2 dual meet record, travel to Valparaiso University Saturday.

Gymnastic standout, sophomore Augusta Lipsey, is having a heyday. Bringing home four individual trophies from the Bronette's first outing at the Northwestern University 12-team tournament, Augusta continued her winning ways in capturing the all-around award against Eastern Michigan.

Track Season Opens

The WMU women's track and field team, fresh off a second-place showing at Eastern Michigan University's unofficial meet Jan. 21, opened the official portion of their 1975 schedule Wednesday at Michigan State University. Results were not known at press time.
