To Hold Tenure, Promotion Decisions Pending Contract

Recommendations for tenure and promotion of teaching faculty members will be taken to the WMU Board of Trustees until contract provisions have been arrived at, according to an announcement made by Dr. Stephen R. Mitchell, WMU vice president for academic affairs.

In his letter to deans and department chairmen, he said, "In view of the bargainable aspects of tenure and promotion, the University will withhold tenure and promotion decisions until specific provisions regarding these subjects have been resolved through contract negotiations."

"The completed files for the candidates will be held in my office pending the contract," Mitchell continued. "If some further departmental or college action would be required under a new policy, the files will be returned for the necessary action or consideration."

He asked them to take immediate steps to notify tenure and promotion candidates of this decision, explaining that these matters clearly fall within the bargain subject areas required under a new policy, the files will be returned for the necessary action or consideration."

The Board of Trustees of Western Michigan University has invited all students, faculty and staff to attend the inauguration of President John T. Bernhard and the spring commencement at 2 p.m. Wednesday, April 24, here in Read Fieldhouse.

The inauguration of a new president is always an occasion of unusual importance in the life of a University," commented Dr. Robert R. H. Solbert, emeritus vice president for academic affairs and chairman of the Trustees' inaugural committee.

Several delegates have been invited to the inauguration from the universities and colleges in the Michigan Council of State College Presidents, the Mid-American Conference and the three local colleges—Kalamazoo College, Nazareth College and Kalamazoo Valley Community College.

Civic Children's Theatre Play

University Theatre staff member Lyda Stillwell and her Children's Experimental Theatre company will be traveling to Oshkosh, Wis., this weekend to represent the state of Michigan in the Regional Theatre Festival. Entitled "A Touch You—You're Touched," the show was presented here in the Arena of Shaw Theatre Feb. 17-22. During that run, the president of the Michigan Children's Theatre Association, Thelma McDaniel, viewed it, and that organization subsequently chose the Michigan production as the winner over several other entries to represent the state in the Region III Theatre Festival competition.

The Regional Festival features productions of regional Professional Theatre companies from the states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan. Each state has been invited to send one company which will perform for children as well as delegates, and each production will be publicly critiqued.

Members of the "CT" cast include WMU students Robin Nott, Jack Wielinski, Stephen M. Geller, Jim Kiciak, Jill Marie VanLanding and Peter Sickenberg. Accompanying the cast and director Stillwell to the Festival are stage manager Christopher Knue and associates Julie L. Siersted, Krista Marie Forrester, Karen Raymond and Robin Burdick.

Campus Garden Plots Available

Application forms are now available for persons interested in having a garden plot this summer here at the University Farm. Located about five miles from campus near the corner of Parkview and 12th Streets.

Each plot measures 30x30 feet, with a space to the north of the plots larger than $300 worth of vegetables, according to Jan Purtell, treasurer of the Campus Gardening Association. The charge per plot will be $3.00 for students and $5.00 for non-students.

The land will be plowed and staked. Some tools will be available and a committee has been formed to investigate obtaining water at the site.

Applications can be obtained at the Student Activities Office, Married Housing Office, Off-Campus Housing Office or the WMU department of agriculture. Forms should be returned with a check to the Campus Gardening Association, Box 342, Student Activities Office, WMU. People will be notified through the mail of their plot locations just as soon as the ground is plowed and staked.

Duet Recital Friday

Baritone Thomas Hardie and mezzo-soprano Mary Sue Hyst will perform a free public recital of duets at 8 p.m. Friday, April 11, in Oakland Recital Hall.
Encourage Students To Register
Now for Fall Because of Changes

Advance registration for classes at Western Michigan University is now in progress. Students who are considering the registration office reminds students.

Mary Kay Leamy, director of registration, stresses that advance registration gives the students the chance of receiving desired classes, noting that approximately 85 percent of those students who advance register are placed in requested classes.

If you are interested in advance to register for fall semester, since we have decided to discontinu- the traditional "final day," Leamy said. "The overwhelming number of students, over 6,000, who waited until the final day of registration last fall caused a tremen- dous overload on our capacity to adjust course offerings to meet demand and thus, many students were disappointed by not receiving desired classes.

For fall semester the "final day" will be replaced by an "open house" request period from 3-4 p.m. August 27, and 9 a.m.-4 p.m. August 28 in Room Fieldhouse. Following no alphabetic or classification schedule, students will pick up a personal registration and complete a course request card and "mark sheet" for the courses desir- ed. Students will be assured and will be required to pay for the request- ed schedules before leaving the Fieldhouse.

However, the availability of courses will be determined accor- ding to Dennis Boyle, University registrar. Usually students will not know whether they received the courses requested until they pick them up the following day of classes, Tuesday, Sept. 2, 1975.

Members of the quintet include Charles O'Brien, oboe; Michael Humiston, oboe; Daniel Kyser, clarinet; William Allgood, bassoon; and Neil Sanders, horn.

Draper-Siedschlag
Celebrate Anniversary

Residents of the Draper-Sied- schlag dormitory complex at West- ern are in the midst of a week-long 25th anniversary celebration, which began April 6 and continues through April 14.

Activities in the complex have included a square dance, a dress-up dinner, the "Abund Olympics," and a formal dance, "Spring Dawning," which is scheduled for Saturday, April 12. A program presenting the past year in review will be held Sunday, April 13, to conclude the festivities.

Open in 1950, the two buildings were named after Lydia Siedschlag and the late Blanche Draper, former faculty and staff members, respec- tively.

Alumni of the dormitory complex are invited to participate in the cele- bration. Further information may be obtained by calling 383-2966.

Set Foreign Language Tourney

A foreign language tournament, sponsored by Western's modern foreign language department on Saturday, April 10, is expected to attract about 225 students from 22 Southeast Michigan, 447, Michigan, Macomb and high schools.

The WMU tournament, first held in 1955, is now staged every two years.

Students enter four different levels according to their year of language study and participate in contests designed to display their comprehension and correct usage of language in a prepared recitation format.

The contests are intended to test the students' speaking, reading and linguistic abilities in either French, German, Latin or Spanish, and to encourage interest and proficiency in foreign languages.

The location is familiar- ized with the students with language programs and facilities at the Uni- versity. It is believed this program may be encouraged to continue lan- guage studies.

A highlight of the program will be a number of presentations of short plays by the students in a foreign language. Trophies will be awarded to all individuals competing and to the group presenting the "best play.

To Celebrate Debate Anniversary

The Golden Anniversary of inter- collegiate debate at WMU will be celebrated Saturday, April 10, at 6:30 p.m. in the east ballroom. University Studen- Center.

Specifically, intercollegiate debate at Western in 1922 under the coaching of the late Dr. Floyd Mook, the economics department chairman, and Miss Louise Rousseau, speech department chairman, when on April 2 a team from Michi- gan Agricultural College (now Michigan State University) beat a Western team from Dr. Moore re- corded. In 1955, as professor emeritus, Dr. Moore was named ambassador to Italy in 1975, serving for two years. WMU debating alumni scheduled to be "invite" include Dr. Paul Briggs, a 1974 graduate and superintendent of schools, Ohio; Robert Ostrander, a 1976 graduate, past Western debate coach and debate coach for the National Debate Association and a faculty member, 1968-72; and Dr. H. Gardner Ackley, a 1936 Michigan State University) beat a team of students from the University of Illinois. That's one hour to remember: The Vagabonds, under the direc- tion of Dr. Elwyn Carter, are a brand new musical group in the Stephenson dormitory complex at Western Michigan University, bringing a new style to the university community.

"Canterbury Tales" Closes UT Season

A delightful and rollicking musical- adapted from the works of Geoffrey Chaucer, "Canterbury Tales," will be the final offering of the University Theatre this regu- lar 1974-75 season. It will be pre- sented in five performances at 8 p.m. on April 15-19 in the Laura V. Shaw Theatre.

"Canterbury Tales," as Chaucer described it, will be a "lively and bawdy collection of musical vignettes . . . . " Actually, intercollegiate debate at Western in 1922 under the coaching of the late Dr. Floyd Mook, the economics department chairman, and Miss Louise Rousseau, speech department chairman, when on April 2 a team from Michigan Agricultural College (now Michigan State University) beat a Western team from Dr. Moore recorded. International String Workshop
August 3-16 at Exeter, England

An International String Workshop, co-sponsored by WMU, will be held Aug. 3-16 in England. Presented by Western's music faculty and the American String Teachers Association in cooperation with the European Union of String Teachers Association, the workshop will center at Exeter and include visits to Edinburgh and London.

Two of the 14 distinguished workshop faculty are from Western's music faculty: Dr. Gerald F. Fischbach and Phyllis Rappeport, both associate professors. Fischbach is the workshop coordinator.

There also will be daily master classes and chamber music ensembles for participants with personal coaching, with emphasis on sampling rather than perfecting. A string orchestra will be part of the ensemble offerings. The workshop includes a series of lectures, discussions and concerts devoted to the relationship of music to the visual arts, emphasizing the technical skills required in both fields. These principles are shared by both fields.

Castel, Gibson, New Issues Press
Publish History of Congress, 1774-1945

A history of Congress from the beginning of the American Revolution through World War II has been written by two members of Western's history department faculty, Dr. Robert Castel and Scott Gibson. The 185-page book, entitled "The Yeas and the Nays: Key Congressional Decisions, 1774-1945," has just been published by WMU's New Issues Press.

It contains descriptions and analyses of more than 200 laws, treaties, Constitutional amendments, and other relevant material of major historical significance. These include the House and Senate votes on these measures, plus breakdowns of the roll calls according to party and state. These descriptions are supported by photographic details. Each of the book's 10 chapters is introduced by a survey of the national political situation and an account of important developments in Congress during the period covered by the chapter.

Copies of "The Yeas and the Nays: Key Congressional Decisions, 1774-1945" can be obtained at WMU's Campus Bookstore, through the book's bookstore, or directly from the New Issues Press, WMU, Kalamazoo, Mich., 49006.

The student requested the map; when he returned to pick up a copy, he was given the mylar map and five extra copies by mistake. The student is asked to contact Mrs. Wade in the City Planning Department, 381-6096, extension 220, as soon as possible.

Semester's Last Rock Concert April 21 Will Feature Browne, Snow in READ

WMU's final spring semester rock concert will feature Jackson Browne and the world-famous Tom Snow in READ Fieldhouse on Monday, April 21, in READ Fieldhouse. Browne will be the student concert committee.

Browne broke into the music scene in 1968 with his songs in balladeer-type clubs in New York City. In 1970, he opened for the Rolling Stones in Los Angeles. In 1972, he began some attention for his songs, and in 1975, his single "Take Me to Your Heart" hit the pop charts. Arranged by several artists, including Johnny Rivers, Linda Ronstadt, Brewer and Shipley and The Byrds, Browne will be his first headlining show as a rock artist for Asylum Records in 1971.

Browne appeared nationally in clubs and in concert tours with Joni Mitchell during the spring of 1973. His most recent tours were in 1973, when Browne headlined a national tour with Linda Ronstadt and then again in the fall of 1974, with an 8-city tour with the guitarist, Bonnie Raitt. Both tours were sold out and sold out.

Joining Browne at WMU will be recording artist Phoebe Snow, best known for her groups "What a Feeling," "It's All Over Now" and "Current." Snow is currently number seven on the survey chart in Billboard Magazine. Tickets are $3.50 for general admission.

Math Awards Program Tuesday

WMU's rescheduled annual undergraduate mathematics and computer science colloquium will be at 4 p.m. Tuesday, April 15, in the math commons room in Everett Tower.

It had previously been scheduled for Thursday, April 3, but a heavy snow storm forced postponement of the event.

Philipp S. Jones, University of Michigan math professor, as normally scheduled will speak on "Fictitious Mathematics."

Elementary English Conference Friday

The first annual Elementary English Conference, sponsored by Western's English department, will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Friday, April 11, in the University Center Student Center. WMU faculty and students may attend the conference free.

Nancy Stone of Kalamazoo, adjucnt professor of English at WMU and author of two children's novels on Michigan history, will be the keynote speaker. She will speak generally about writing for children and outline some of the techniques involved in the writing process. She will bring her two books, "Whistle Up the Bay" and "Wooden River."

The conference will feature a series of lectures, discussions, exhibits and workshops in English literature for the elementary classroom.

Reservations for the luncheon at 12:30 each should be made with Dr. Joseph Starck, special chairperson, WMU English department, phone 338-0415.

Open House Today

An additional open house for non-traditional women students at WMU is scheduled at the Susan B. Anthony Center in the Canterbery Center on campus from noon to 2 p.m., today, April 10.

Informal discussion with women faculty, S.B.A. Center staff and other women students is encouraged at these open houses. Coffee and tea are provided.

Math Colloquium

A graduate student working toward a Ph.D. in mathematics at Western, Sanil Sashi of Kalamazoo, will speak in a public mathematics colloquium, 4 p.m. Thursday, April 17, in the math commons room, Everett Tower, WMU. His topic is "Self-Dual Embeddings of Graphs."
