

Reading Horizons: A Journal of Literacy and Language Arts

Volume 11
Issue 3 April 1971

Article 1

4-1-1971

In Memoriam-Homer L.J. Carter

Dorothy J. McGinnis
Western Michigan University

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.wmich.edu/reading_horizons

Part of the Education Commons

Recommended Citation

McGinnis, D. J. (1971). In Memoriam-Homer L.J. Carter. Reading Horizons: A Journal of Literacy and Language Arts, 11 (3). Retrieved from https://scholarworks.wmich.edu/reading_horizons/vol11/iss3/1

This Editor's Note is brought to you for free and open access by the Special Education and Literacy Studies at ScholarWorks at WMU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Reading Horizons: A Journal of Literacy and Language Arts by an authorized editor of ScholarWorks at WMU. For more information, please contact wmu-scholarworks@wmich.edu.

Homer L. J. Carter

IN MEMORIAM

This issue of Reading Horizons is dedicated to Homer L. J. Carter who was the founder and editor of the journal until his death on January 11, 1971.

Professor Carter was a man of strong convictions. He believed that service to others is man's greatest gift to the world. He believed that every person should set up worthwhile goals and should work earnestly and diligently to achieve these objectives. He believed that there is no greater satisfaction in life than a job well done. He was a man who lived his beliefs.

Homer L. J. Carter was a forceful writer and an excellent teacher who gave much of himself in his constant efforts to help others and to make a worthwhile contribution in the field of reading. He inspired many of his students to follow in his footsteps and had a stimulating influence upon all who had the good fortune to work closely with him. It will be impossible to participate in the field of reading without remembering the enthusiasm and spirited teaching of Homer L. J. Carter.

D. J. M.