President's Message

The Western Michigan University Chapter of the International Reading Association is proud to present Reading Horizons, the first printed bulletin developed by this organization of teachers under the leadership of the editor, Homer L. J. Carter, Director of the Psycho-Educational Clinic of Western Michigan University.

The major purpose is suggested in the title. The association has been active in keeping its members informed about the promising trends in the teaching of reading. It has also stimulated its members to experiment and to do research in this vital area of learning. It is hoped that this bulletin will challenge its readers to become active in improving the total reading program in an increasing number of elementary and secondary schools.
