This campaign plan is a collection of public relations work intended to help Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes better connect with students at Western Michigan University. This thesis would not have been possible without support from the thesis committee, Janice Maatman, Dr. Anna Popkova and Cherise Buchanan. Thank you to these three professionals for offering their expertise to help make this campaign plan successful.

This plan was developed as Elizabeth Blasko’s WMU Lee Honors College thesis project as a practical application of teaching methods. The client is welcome to use the information and plan enclosed, but the implementation of the plan is up to the sole discretion of the client.

Executive Summary
Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes (KLF) is a registered 501(c)(3) nonprofit with a mission to “Feed hungry people and engage our community in the fight to end hunger.” KLF started in 1982 and has since grown to include 23 pantry sites across Kalamazoo County. KLF offers many assistance programs including Grocery Pantry Program, Mobile Food Initiative, Weekend Food Pack Program, Commodity Supplemental Food, and Meal Support Program (Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes).

Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes faces public relations challenges in regards to connecting with college students in the Kalamazoo community. There is limited mission awareness among students at Western Michigan University. Additionally, students are not aware of the opportunities for volunteering, interning, and hosting food drives. KLF has a professional and easy to navigate website. However, they lack engagement on social media from college students.

Western Michigan University students are the target public for this campaign. This public was selected because students at WMU were not being directly targeted by outreach efforts. If the WMU students were more aware of the mission of KLF as well as the opportunities to get involved, they may be more likely to contribute in some way. WMU students could contribute their time and talent to Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes through volunteering, internships, and hosting food drives. Therefore, the goal of this campaign is by December 1, 2016, increase mission awareness and awareness of existing involvement opportunities among Western Michigan University students by 25%.

The first objective is by December 1, 2016, increase awareness of volunteer opportunities by 20% among Western Michigan University students. In an effort to increase awareness key messages will be utilized to target students such as, Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes offers volunteer opportunities for students to obtain service hours. Also, Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes offers group volunteer sessions that are available to student groups of 10 to 15 people.

The second object is by December 1, 2016, increase the awareness of internship opportunities by 20% among Western Michigan University Students. A key message for this objective is, Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes offers internships for credit at Western Michigan University. Also, internships are available to students in a variety of academic disciplines.

The third objective is by December 1, 2016, increase the awareness monetary/food contribution opportunities by 20% among Western Michigan University Students. A key message is that students at Western Michigan University can host a food drive in collaboration with their registered student organization and campus community. Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes also provides “Food and Fund Kits” to groups who wish to organize a Food and Donation drive.

To achieve these objectives a variety of tactics will be implemented to target WMU students. One of our main tactics is the KLF Bronco Day of Service event. This is a special volunteer event just for WMU students. The event will be promoted around campus in a variety of ways. There will be a poster, press release, media advisory, and invitations, in addition to social media posts. Other tactics include attending Bronco Bash, a student section in the newsletter, informational sessions, campus chalk, and informational tables on campus.

To evaluate the success of this campaign, a post-survey will be given to students at the conclusion of the campaign. The results from the second survey will be compared to the results from the first survey. Also, the individual tactics will be evaluated to determine which tactics were most successful in increasing awareness.
Situation Analysis of Client and

Problem Statement
Overview of the Client

Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes (KLF) is a registered 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization that addresses hunger in Kalamazoo County. The Mission of Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes is to, “Feed hungry people and engage our community in the fight to end hunger.” Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes is committed to serving our entire community, and values the inclusion of individuals of all ages and backgrounds. KLF started in 1982 when several downtown churches were concerned about increasing requests from people for food assistance. The congregations united to share resources and create a structured response to local hunger and thus Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes was born (Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes).

As time went on, the number of congregations increased and the food distribution sites expanded. Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes is the largest charitable food distribution system in Kalamazoo County. KLF works hard to promote a hunger-free community through programs and advocacy work. One of the most well-known programs that KLF offers is the Grocery Pantry Program (GPP). To receive services from the Grocery Pantry Program that an individual has to do is self-declare need every thirty days. They can do this by calling the “Need Food” line at 343-FOOD (3663). If an individual needs additional support, they can get a referral from a caseworker. Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes has 23 sites across as well as a main location across Kalamazoo County. These sites are set up like miniature grocery stores. At the pantry, individuals choose items from the nutritional categories of protein, fruits and vegetables, and grains. From these categories the individual will receive four days’ worth of food for each member of their family. In addition to the Grocery Pantry Program Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes has other programs that address hunger issues. These programs include the Mobile Food Initiative, Weekend Food Pack Program, Commodity Supplemental Food, and Meal Support Program (Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes).

Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes operates on a budget of approximately $5,660,000 annually (Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes). The operation of this nonprofit is primarily made possible by in-kind support and contributions from individuals, corporations, and groups. KLF frequently utilizes a variety of public relations tactics. There is a newsletter sent out to subscribers that features current happenings, opportunities, and success stories. Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes utilizes Facebook and Twitter. Additionally, they have a newly redesigned website that is informative and easy to navigate. However, there are currently no specific public relations tactics that aim to reach out to students at Western Michigan University.

A peer institution that is in competition with Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes for student interaction is the Invisible Need Project on Western Michigan University’s campus. The Invisible Need Project offers a food pantry for students and a Student Emergency Relief Fund (SERF). A problem that Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes encounters when reaching WMU Students is that the Invisible Need Project is located on the main campus while Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes is located almost two miles from the main campus.
Analysis of Problem

Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes is lacking mission awareness among 60% of students at Western Michigan University (Appendix B).

Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes is not currently recognizable by the majority of students at Western Michigan University. Although KLF is located about two miles away from Western Michigan University’s main campus, there is a clear disconnect between the university and this nonprofit organization. In addition to KLF lacking mission awareness among students, only 17.5% of students surveyed have volunteered at and/or donated to Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes (Appendix B).

Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes has not made any extensive effort to connect with Western Michigan University in the past and is looking to change this through public relations efforts. Currently, public relations responsibilities fall under the direction of Marketing Coordinator, Meg Gernatt. Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes has a well-organized and visually appealing website. They also utilize two main social media platforms, Facebook and Twitter. These platforms are professional and well-maintained. However, there is not a significant amount of engagement (likes, shares, comments, etc.) on either platform. Of the content shared on Facebook and Twitter, neither specifically targets the traditional college student demographic or Western Michigan University. There is no use of additional social media platforms such as Instagram.

Targeting the student population would be beneficial to Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes as an organization. For example, the increased awareness may lead some students to advocate about the issue of hunger in the Kalamazoo community. Additionally, this increase in awareness may lead to an increase in volunteers and interns. Finally, this campaign may lead more student groups hosting food drives and fundraisers for KLF. Therefore, connecting with WMU students could benefit Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes in a variety of ways.

Profile of Target Publics

1. 1. College students in Kalamazoo, Michigan
    • Students at Western Michigan University

The target public of this campaign is students at Western Michigan University. This public was selected because WMU students are currently not a target public of Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes. Additionally, if they were targeted this public would positively contribute to Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes. The student body at Western Michigan University has a lot to offer Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes in terms of a strong volunteer/intern base. These students have the potential to contribute their time and talent to Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes by volunteering in the warehouse and completing semester-long internships. Additionally, these students could contribute significantly through monetary and food donations. Many student groups at Western Michigan University host fundraisers and charity events to support various causes in the community. The same could be done for Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes if the WMU student body was a target public.

Western Michigan University has a total of 23,914 students. Of these students, 12,214 are female and 11,700 are male (All Student Demographic Information, 2015). Students at Western Michigan University utilize social media platforms including Twitter, Facebook, Instagram, and Snapchat to obtain information. In general, college students are more apt to check social media than traditional news sources. Based on these media patterns, various social media platforms will be utilized throughout the campaign. The psychographics that drive college students include academic achievement, emotional stability, and social standing. The student population at WMU is concerned with success; they value resume building experiences and are focused on their future career. Influential people from the student body at Western Michigan University include student leaders, athletes, and employees. To target the student population at WMU this campaign will utilize mediums that appeals to students including social media, campus presentations, and chalking.
Campaign Design and Implementation
The Campaign Plan - The Planning Process

While gathering information surrounding Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes’ outreach methods, I noticed a gap of information. There is no statistical data about outreach to college students in the Kalamazoo community. In fact, Volunteer Coordinator, Cherise Buchanan shared that there has never been much formal outreach to students at Western Michigan University. Most WMU student connection has occurred from students approaching Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes looking for opportunities to get involved. Therefore, through research I want to know the percentage of students who are familiar with the mission of Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes. Additionally, I would like to know what percentage of students would contribute to KLF in some way if they had more information. To fill this gap, I will be conducting research surrounding these questions.

To gather the necessary data about WMU students, I will write and distribute a short survey (Appendix A) to a sample of students. The survey will be created using Google forms and will be distributed via Facebook and email to students. The survey questions will address the mission awareness of KLF and the likelihood of contribution. I hope to gain a minimum of 50 survey responses from WMU students. This survey will be distributed during the week of March 7, 2016. The survey will close March 18, 2016 at 8 p.m.

After the survey is closed and a minimum of 50 respondents has been reached the data will be recorded in an excel spreadsheet. The responses to each question will be tallied and the data will be analyzed. The responses to each question will tell me more about the percentage of students that are familiar with the mission of KLF as well as how they might be willing to contribute to this organization.
Research Results

At the conclusion of the survey there were a total of 80 responses. The data from the survey indicates that 40% of Western Michigan University students are familiar with the mission of Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes. Additionally, 22.5% of students are familiar with the programs that KLF offers and 17.5% have volunteered at KLF. This data confirms the overall low level of mission awareness and engagement among students at Western Michigan University. However, 86.25% of students indicated that if they knew more about Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes they would be inclined to volunteer at KLF. Furthermore, 58.75% of students indicated that if they knew more about Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes they would be more inclined to donate to KLF (Appendix B). Based on this information, it is likely that with an increase in mission awareness among students at Western Michigan University there will be an increase in WMU student volunteers and donations for Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes.

The Campaign Plan - Strategies

Strategy 1 – Educate Western Michigan University students on the key messages of Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes through an increase in campus promotion.

The methods of dissemination for this strategy will be through social media and print media. This is a communication strategy that aims to inform students about Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes as an organization. This strategy was chosen because based on the student survey, the majority of students are not aware of Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes. Focusing on the key messages will help to change this statistic and make KLF a more widely known organization among the target public. This strategy supports all three objectives because it emphasizes the awareness of the mission of the organization through campus outreach.

Strategy 2 – Connect Western Michigan University students to opportunities to get involved in Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes.

The methods of dissemination for this strategy will include social media, print media, and personal interaction. This strategy is more direct in order to personally connect with students and inform them of the opportunities to contribute to Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes. This strategy was selected because in order for students to get involved they need to be connected in ways that they will respond to. Successful nonprofits often use various outreach methods that allow the organization to create a meaningful connection with potential volunteers/donors. Additionally, highlighting how Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes can benefit WMU students will help with getting students involved in this organization. This strategy supports all three of the objectives because it focuses on the three ways that students can get involved with KLF through the “Campus, Community, Connection” campaign.
The Campaign Plan - Tactics

Press Release - Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes Bronco Day of Service (see Appendix C)

This press release will help get the word out about the Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes Bronco Day of Service which will result in an increase in volunteer base. The press release supports the second strategy that focuses on connecting students with opportunities for involvement. This press release is aimed to target the campus media, specifically the Western Herald.

Press Release - Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes Informational Sessions (see Appendix D)

This press release will share the mission of Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes as well as details about the informational sessions for students and campus organizations. This tactic will assist with the second strategy in regards to connecting WMU students with opportunities to get involved at Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes. This press release will be sent to the student newspaper, the Western Herald, in an effort to reach a wide range of students.

Poster - Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes WMU Student Day of Service (see Appendix E)

The event poster will be used to support both strategies. This tactic will help advertise the Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes Bronco Day of Service Event. The poster will be designed with WMU students in mind. The Bronco logo will be featured in the center of the poster alongside the KLF logo. The poster will display the date, time, and location of the event. Registration information will also be included on the poster. Additionally, the mission statement with contact and social media information for KLF will be incorporated. This poster will be displayed in print form and on television screens on Western Michigan University’s campus.
Poster - Informational Sessions (see Appendix F)

This poster is designed to promote the KLF Informational Sessions and will be aimed at grabbing the attentions of students on campus. Therefore, this tactic supports both strategies. The poster will be a visual aid to convey the Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes Informational Session details. The poster will be displayed in print form and on television screens on campus to target Western Michigan University students. The design of this poster will include the Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes logo along with key messages. Additionally, there will be the logistical details of the on-campus informational sessions. The poster will adhere to KLF brand guidelines. Also included on the poster will be the contact and social media information for KLF.

Social Media (see Appendix G)

This campaign will utilize social media to connect with students at Western Michigan University. The three platforms that will be used are: Twitter, Facebook, and Instagram. These social media platforms were chosen because they are frequently used among college age students. Additionally, these platforms can best share information about the mission of Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes and information about how students can get involved. Although Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes uses Facebook and Twitter, tailoring posts to WMU students and adding Instagram will help establish a link between students and KLF. This digital connection is one of the most important tactics in effectively connecting with millennials in college. A sample of social media posts that align with the campaign events is located in the appendix.

Media Advisory (see Appendix H)

The media advisory will consist of the logistical information in regards to the Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes Bronco Day of Service event. The majority of this piece will be the who, what, where, and when information. Additionally, there will be the Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes contact information in the case there are questions from the media or the Western Michigan University community. The media advisory will allow media outlets and students to have access to the information they need in order to attend the event. This tactic includes both key messages and promotion of opportunities for involvement, thus supporting both strategies.

Fact Sheet (see Appendix I)

The fact sheet will feature Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes’ mission, values, team, programs, and impact. This print media tactic will allow media outlets and WMU students to be able to learn more about Kalamazoo loaves & Fishes and how this nonprofit contributes to the Kalamazoo community. The fact sheet will go along with the media advisory when it is sent out, thus primarily supporting both strategies.

Newsletter – WMU Student Section (see Appendix J)

Although Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes publishes a monthly newsletter, there is no area reserved for targeting Western Michigan University students. In an effort to increase engagement with students, a section of the newsletter will be reserved for connecting with students. This section would include a Student Spotlight as well a Student Organization Shout Out. These sections will highlight the contributions by students at WMU. Additionally, any upcoming events pertaining to students, such as the Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes Bronco Day of Service, will be featured. This tactic will help convey the key messages as well as will help connect students to the organization opportunities, therefore will advance both strategies.

Informational Session Presentation for WMU Students (see Appendix K)

The informational session presentation will include information about the mission and impact of Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes. It will also feature ways for Western Michigan University students to get involved with KLF. Specifically, the presentation will highlight opportunities for individual volunteering, group volunteering, internships, and food drives. A PowerPoint presentation will accompany the oral presentation. The presentation will last fifteen to twenty-five minutes to allow time for questions. This tactic will educate students on the mission of KLF, highlight key messages, and will feature opportunities to get involved. In conclusion, this tactic contributes to both strategies.

WMU Bronco Day of Service Invitation (see Appendix L)

This invitation will be a semi-formal invite to the Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes Bronco Day of Service. The invitation will contain logistical information about the event and a deadline for R.S.V.P. The event will be on November 4, 2016 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The KLF Bronco Day of Service will be an all-day volunteer event at Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes. There will be two-hour timeslots where students can go on a tour of KLF to learn about the organization and then participate in hands on volunteer work in the warehouse. The purpose of this event is to engage Broncos with Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes in a way that will create buy-in for future engagement. The invitations will be simple in style and straightforward in content. The invitations will be mailed or emailed to individual students and organization presidents at Western Michigan University. This invitation includes key messages and shares information about the upcoming volunteer event. In summary, this tactic supports both strategies.

Bronco Bash (see Appendix M)

Bronco Bash is one of the largest annual events on Western Michigan University’s campus. The presence of Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes at this event is important for establishing personal connection with WMU students. At this event KLF will have a booth run by staff or volunteers. The booth will have a poster board highlighting Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes’ mission, values, and impact. On the table there will be flyers targeted to WMU students with information on how to get involved with Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes. This event supports the direct outreach on campus promotion and presents opportunities to get involved. Therefore, hosting a booth at Bronco bash supports both strategies.

Evaluation Plan
After the campaign is over on November 12, 2016, another survey will be distributed to students at Western Michigan University. This survey will have similar questions to the initial survey that was sent out during the research portion of the campaign. This survey will be used to see if the goal and objectives have been met for. I will measure the campaign’s effectiveness by comparing the results from the second survey to the results from the initial survey. Additionally, I will add questions that will ask how the student heard about the opportunities for involvement at Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes. The options will consist of the various tactics used in this campaign. This will help to identify the tactics that were most successful and least successful.

Tactics will be evaluated individually to determine their level of success. The KLF Bronco Day of Service will be evaluated based on the number of attendees. The attendance goal for the service event is 50 students. The goals for social media are divided by each platform. The goal for Twitter is to have 10 interactions (favorites or re-tweets) per tweet targeted at students. The goal for Instagram is to have 15 interactions (likes or comments) per post targeted at students. Another goal for Instagram is to have 100 followers. The goal for Facebook is to have 10 interactions (likes, comments, or shares) per post targeted at students. The goal for the newsletter with student focus is to have 100 subscribers that are WMU students. The media advisory and fact sheet will be send out to local media including, News3, Mlive, the Western Herald, and WKFR. The goal is to have these media outlets run a story about Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes at least once during the campaign. The invitations will be sent by mail to 100 students and by email to 300 students, to ensure that the service event reaches the attendance goal. The campus presentation will be designed to boost awareness of opportunities for involvement at Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes among the student population. There will be a total of four presentations about Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes. The success of these presentations will be evaluated on post-presentation surveys. These surveys will be very short and will primarily address awareness of opportunities before and after the presentation. Finally, the goal for Bronco Bash is to give away all flyers and promotional pens to WMU students during the event. If the specified awareness goals are met the campaign will be considered successful.
Conclusion
After conducting research, I concluded that there is currently not a high number of Western Michigan University students involved in Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes. This public relations campaign was created to build a positive partnership between KLF and the students. The campaign will last from September 9, 2016 to November 11, 2016. The primary goal for this campaign is to increase mission awareness and awareness of existing involvement opportunities among Western Michigan University students.

Some major strengths of this campaign would be that it is a relatively low budget campaign that focuses of direct ways to reach students. This campaign selects tactics that students will likely best respond to and explains how each could be put into practice. A potential weakness of this campaign is that the main event is off-campus and transportation is not provided. This may turn some students off from participating depending on their transportation situation. In conclusion, the “Campus, Community, Connection” campaign was designed to increase awareness, and if executed correctly this campaign could have a positive impact on Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes.

About KLF: Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes was organized in 1982 by several downtown churches concerned about increasing requests from people for food assistance. The congregations joined together to share resources and create an organized response to local hunger and formed Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes. Over the years, the number of congregations increased and the food distribution sites expanded also and although the Grocery Pantry Program is still the largest of our programs, KLF works with others to provide prepared meals support, senior commodity programs, agency food support, food packs for kids, and other community food programs. KLF is the largest charitable food distribution system in Kalamazoo County.

Student Spotlight

Meet Austin Johnson, student at Western Michigan University. Johnson loves to volunteer in the warehouse. He brings his enthusiasm to Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes on a weekly basis. Johnson, 21, is a senior studying Journalism. He started volunteering at Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes after going on a service trip with his service learning class.

When he's not giving his time, Johnson enjoys running marathons, traveling and watching football. Johnson believes that the services that Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes provides are what set it apart from other organizations.

"My favorite part of volunteering at Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes is seeing the impact that this organization has on the community," said Johnson.

Student Organization Shout Out

This month we are giving a shout out to the Western Student Association! WSA is the student government at Western Michigan University. These students hold weekly meetings to discuss problems on campus and work towards solutions to bettering the community. Each month they volunteer their time to an organization and for the month of September, they chose us! During their visit these students enjoyed a tour of our facility and then spent the remainder of the day making food packs for the Weekend Food Pack Program. Thank you, WSA!

The Facts

1 in 6 people and 1 in 5 children in Kalamazoo County struggle with hunger on a daily basis.

Vulnerable populations, including thousands of local children and seniors, are faced with hunger on a daily basis. In Kalamazoo County, 41% of people are unable to keep up with the cost of living due to unemployment or underemployment.

Our largest program, the Grocery Pantry Program, serves approximately 700 individuals every day, up to 1000 individuals on very busy days. Forty percent of the people served by our Grocery Pantry Program are under the age of 18.

Impact

"Things aren’t always easy, but having an organization like Kalamazoo Loaves & Fishes here for us is just amazing and takes away a lot of the anxiety of everyday life. Knowing you will have food on the table - I don’t know how to describe that relief."

"Some of my coworkers found out I was going to Loaves & Fishes for food. When management found out, I was given a raise so I could afford to purchase me own food."

"I felt like I was constantly under a microscope. I felt trapped. That feeling of failure, of feeling responsible for that failure, is horrible. The volunteers at KLF were so kind and so helpful. It was a relief to have that resource when and if I needed it."
