Life—
life is an awakening of the mind and spirit to awareness of responsibility in a troubled world.
life is an unfaltering step, boldly taken, in the direction of humanity.
life is the dream of a better tomorrow, and a wisdom in its formulation.
and who of you can say that he has life...

Richard P. Eisele
“I waited. God, I waited. I sweated and worked and drove myself until finally I’ve got that diploma in my hand—I’m a civilian again!”

“Sure, you’re out now, but what have you got to show for it really? A diploma? A few grades on an audit—What else?”

“I’m graduated. I join the ranks of the educated, hope enlightened hope of America.”

“I mean besides what they told you in the welcoming speech when you came here. What do you have? What will you remember?”

“People, mostly. People in classes, walking in the Union, on the sidewalks and dodging Bronco Transit buses. The beautiful people I met at all those parties, swilling their drinks and smoking while laughing at and with each other—being gross, but enjoying themselves.

And classes. How I’d like to have strangled that fossil who taught General Studies and bored us to tears with his tales of ‘when I was an undergraduate . . .’ and his dirt about the men they named the dorms after.”

“OK, so you didn’t like some of your classes. What else?”

“Well, there’ll always be a memory of all those wasted hours I had to take to graduate—irrelevant eyewash—while Columbia and San Francisco rioted and Chicago became a battleground. Through it all, there I was, watching TV lectures on absurdities, moving my lips to class discussions.”

“Your favorite class?”

“Was living at Western. Seeing new directions by realizing other people have something to offer—that my old self-assurance was a lie—that bigotry and indifference were suicide.”

“You sound like a soc lecture. What about all those hours you earned?”

“Those were what the university wanted, but in spite of them, I managed to find a little of what I wanted.”
We live in a world of extremes they tell us;
And that micro-world, W.M.U.,
Showed all the extremes of personality,
appearance and expression.

I wonder, now, if I should have been different—
Cut my hair differently,
Dressed in a different style—
It's too late now to know.
When I look back
I see faces—
Moods of concern and indifference.
Some faces were strange to me—
not in appearance,
but emotion.
I was a digit there.
They all said how impersonal college would be.
I don't know.
Maybe to some it was, but to me, for four years,
it was my personal world.
What can be impersonal about four years of my life—my experiences, work and enjoyment?
Over 18,000 of us there,
and Western showed its size in every classroom and hall—
A multiuniversity.
A lot of what was will change, and in a few years the 'old school' I'll return to won't look the same.
"They said in the newspaper, "Cindy's Laughin' on the Outside, Cryin' on the Inside." I guess I was. If you asked me today to describe what happened at the coronation, I wouldn't be able to. I just walked through it. I didn't see the smile on Dr. Miller's face or hear all the applause or feel the roses in my arms and the crown in my hair. I only know I was happy."
They put us up to it. It wasn't my idea to try to be Queen of the Broncos. It wasn't my idea to have my GPA and measurements published for everyone to see. Nobody asked me if I wanted to open myself to defeat in front of thousands of students, giving out interviews and answering all those questions.

But, then, I made the finals. I gave the right numbers, smiled all over the place and gave the answers the judges expected—I guess.

So here I am, a member of Western's Homecoming Court. I didn't make it to the top, but not everybody wants to wear that crown and that robe. I mean—really!
Dear Mom,

Homecoming is in two weeks. Of course, you know what that means—fun, gaiety, laughter, parties, dancing, music, football and parades . . . . . .
Child of mine,

Homecoming is in two weeks. Of course, I know what that means—drinking, late hours, no studying, ridiculous parades, screaming yourself hoarse at an anti-climatic bonfire, outrageous activities and a fat check from me.
If students' parents refused to visit Western's campus and there were no brothers and sisters, there would be some empty weekends here. Every year students have a family show-and-tell, when they introduce their parents and siblings to friends and roommates. That father who froze that vital checking account and the little brother and sister you despise suddenly became the model patron provider and beloved “sis” and “bro.”
If the West Ballroom froze over and the coke dispenser spat ice water, life as we knew it in student days would come to an end. Without grease-laden broncos and the taste of paper cups, the union rats would desert the center for higher ground—the vending machine rooms in residence halls. This is what visiting relatives and friends see—the real "table down at Louie's." Bah, Bah, Bah.
Richly rewarding . . . admirably played . . .
utterly engaging . . . a triumph . . . powerfully wrought . . . wholly convincing . . . eminently satisfactory . . . supremely eloquent . . .
The critics: evil borne, untimely ripped from Hecate's nursery and suckled on the blood of young talent.

When a critic sits down at his typewriter, the world waits for the latest oracle and deadly decree. In a word, a performer is hallowed or damned, exalted or relegated to obscurity.
Contrived . . . pictorially ineffective . . .
incompetent . . . bungling . . . lacking . . . ambiguous . . .
anticlimactic . . . woefully sophomoric . . .
A critic's tongue is a blade—a double-edged ax of honor and sacrifice. It can wound a lesser artist and immortalize a greater one in a single paragraph.
A review is a guide for the artist—encouragement or a crucifixion. It tells the audience that what is offered is of value or worthless and whether they happen to agree with a man with the presumption to write with authority on as individual a commodity as taste.
A lot of work and millions went into cultural activities at WMU, and the lone critic knows his task and begs indulgence as a man who tries to interpret for others—a single man who only hopes to exalt an art he loves enough to criticize.
Girls, women, ladies—sometimes too much of one, little of another and less of the last. Girls come to Western to learn as women. Some of them are in every way ladies. They are educated to participate as few of their sex have before them.

To marry some of the Western boys, men and gentlemen; to teach in our schools; and become, each of them, holders of the experience and learning available at a school once dominated by them.
Some come to prepare for teaching, a field for which women have made Western famous. Others come to prepare for other professions or that "Mrs." degree. Phone 'em, fete 'em, flirt 'em, follow 'em, these mini-skirted coeds are what made '69 at Western.
Mayor Daley made a real hit last year. His street war in Chicago almost made us forget about casualties in Vietnam. It was Chicago for Saigon, blood for blood. The mace and smoke has cleared, but nothing has been resolved or cured for us. Dissatisfied with the small role assigned us in politics, protests have only magnified our failure to ... communicate.
Pig . . . Red . . . Chink . . .

If you liked HITLER . . .
You'll love WALLACE.
They came and went. We listened and watched. We often doubted, laughed at or ignored those speakers for countless causes and issues. Through it all, sometimes—how rarely—we believed what we heard.

In America, words come easily from all sides. Through all the rantings and cajoling, there is no substitute, no cover for the truth and action.
Weed...Pot...Grass...Marijuana...Aluminum foil...A pipe...A joint. Tripped...Spaced...Toked...Flown.

"Your Honor, I have only one thing to say, not so much in my own defense as in defense of my right as an individual to decide whether or not to risk having to appear in this court. Yes, I have smoked marijuana. There's no attempt or desire on my part to cover it up. After all, the narc agent who arrested me seems to have presented more than enough evidence to justify my crucifixion. But, Your Honor, I think my inevitable conviction earns me the right to say as my friends have already learned—that pot is not a moral question, it's a question of who has the right to decide what's right and wrong. You have given the decision, so I am forced to stand as an example."

Dream...Sense...Illusion...Crash—Busted!
I’ll bet John Greenleaf Whittier spent his winters in Florida. No one with an I.Q. above 17 could write a glowing ode to a Kalamazoo winter. Anyone who has shuffled through knee-deep snow to an 8 o’clock or been splashed with chloride-saturated slush from a chuckhole in one of Kalamazoo’s ox cart roads couldn’t utter a kind thing about this Winter Wonderland.
“Ladies and gentleman, it gives us great pleasure to present, in person, in the flesh, real live, the Pair Extraordinaire, the Strawberry Alarm Clock and that comedian who rides in no back seat of anybody's bus—Flip Wilson.”

The sounds of the announcer rang through Read Field House like a stone falling in a dry well. The microphones and sound equipment filled the buttressed cove, with music, laughter and cheers as one more Snow Festival jazz concert came and went—to the parties that lasted through the night.
But snow has its lighter side. It's beautiful as it drifts down through the smog and forms lovely drifts as it clogs the streets and sidewalks and buries cars so maintenance crews can plow them up in a neat tangle of metal at the end of the parking lot.

The annual Snow Festival suggests that students find fun things to do with the white stuff. Pile it up in great freezing mounds and shape them into melting ice flows. Then comes judging for the mud and ice wonders, made less wonderful by the annual thaw during the Snow Festival.
You know, if I had to put what my years were like at Western into one word, I'd probably say something that'd burn the ears off a brass bronco. Oh, I could agree with the commencement speakers through the years and say that the search for an education has been . . . let's face it, there's no way hardly I'm gonna go along with all that bull. My years at Western were like none else's, and I'm glad of it. No one else saw what I saw, did what I did or thinks the way I do about it all. No commencement speaker can sum up what happened to me and what I carry with me outside this campus. I'm an oddity.
I've seen a lot, but not enough.
I've learned a lot, but not enough.
I know a lot, but not enough.
I understand a lot, but not enough.
And that's the way it will always be.
“Alright, flamer, you’ve looked back long enough. How about getting both feet back on the turf and look ahead to what you can do with your fresh new degree.”

“Well, there are a lot of possibilities, of course. I could teach or go into industry or business for myself. I could be a consultant in my field . . .”

“Oh, sure. That scrap of sheepskin is an ends to a means—right?”

“No, it’s only a way to get into the door when I start my way up.”

“And you think you’re ready?”

“As much as anybody else in my graduating class—except maybe the Honors College crowd.”

“Listen, I’ve got news for you.”

“What?”

“Nobody is as ready for anything as the next guy. You’ve got to make it on your own, and there’s nobody to tell you your failures can be erased with a ‘W’ on a grade report or a snow job on some prof. Your employer cares naught for that degree of yours, and he won’t be impressed by how dewey-eyed and innocent you look surrounded by your own blunders.”

“What makes you so damned sure I’m gonna make so many mistakes?”

“Have you every heard of an inevitability factor?”

“Well, that’s what you’re up against. It’s an unwritten law of status-seeking that you’re going to stumble a few times, and no amount of coaxing, no barrage of good wishes from old pros can help you from falling flat on your duff. Unless . . .

“Oh?”

“Unless what?”

“Unless you’re ready for it.”

“Family troubles—you can’t get away from ’em.”

“Oh, yeah?”

“Yeah. My Uncle Sam just sent me a greeting card, and . . .”
the end we have worked for has come...
moving on, but a look back briefly before leaving, a look to...
...years marked by quiet contemplation...
...away from campus life, its temptations rivalled...
...the challenge of an education...
...while smiles echoed the times we will remember always.
we have seen ourselves in yesterday's shadows...
...we will look ahead to see ourselves in hopeful tomorrows.
challenge: to put a few short years'
to the greater test of the future.
in the area of human endeavors, the victor has always claimed the glory and honor that is his due.

But what of the conquered? Where is his honor? Where shall he seek his glory? The brilliance of his pride is lowered, yet, its flame is not extinguished and cannot be. for he knows that there will be another time, another place, and the honor and glory that was his, shall be restored.

"Western has won the toss and elected to receive. Dropping into the deep spot for the Broncos is Sam Antonazzo as we are about to begin play. And here's the kickoff and we're underway . . .

LEFT: Exuberance, hope, spirit, effort, flash off Coach Doolittle's neon face. Ken Woodside gazes for that all important block.

The Broncos opened the season with Arkansas State with vengeance bitter on their tongues. The victorious attack was led by premiering sophomores Mark Bordeaux at quarterback and Al Bellile at end. Bordeaux lofted 22 passes completing 13 for 145 yards. Senior co-captain Tim Marjerle displayed his rugged form, pounding out 2 TDs. Next on the Brown and Gold’s march to victory was a highly tauted Brigham Young team. BYU jumped to a 17-0 lead at halftime. Western punched back and outplayed BYU in total yardage 252-166, but the scoreboard told the tale. The mighty Doolittle machine, after 15 straight wins at home had not punched hard enough. On the road to Miami, the Broncos fell into the same old rut, as the Redskins rolled up their 10th straight home victory over Western. The Miami offense shot holes through Western’s defense, and the only effective contraction was the performance of Dave Hudson and Tim Marjerle.

A caged 'bird.'

Bowling Green jumped off to an early lead but Western wasn’t about to say ‘die.’ The Broncos plugged back, and were driving for a TD with 4:38 remaining. The foolproof Bordeaux to Bellile combination failed and BG intercepted to squash their winning drive.

The offense finally registered against Kent State and Ken Woodside piled up 135 yards to prove he was the spark while Kent State barely managed 129 yards total offense. The defense remained a mighty stalwart in denying the mighty Toledo Rockets a TD in the first half. But the offensive fire was rained out as Western only completed 4 out of 17 passes to fall prey to the Rockets second half surge.

The Brown and Gold rolled into victory over Marshall. Sam Antonazzo proved to be the hero of the day with a 43 yard opening kickoff return and four interceptions.

By far the finest game of the season for Western was against the sure-to-win Ohio University. The Broncos offense and defense finally clicked to throw a block into the Ohio U. plan. The Brown and Gold outgained them in total yards (443-354) and chopped out twice as many first downs but again, the scoreboard spelled Western's defeat. Against the speedy West Texas team, the Broncos clung to a 24-17 lead at the half. Unable to hold the lid on the powerful and fast Texas team, which was lead by 'Gale Sayers' caliber half-back, Western's drive died at the end of the third quarter to fade out the season.
Western Broncos bid farewell to many graduating seniors. The performances of the following seniors will be missed in the coming year Steven Allison (39), Sam Antonazzo (21), Richard Barnhart (29), Jerry Collins (87), Dennis Evans (70), Jack Foster (25), Dave Hudson (34), Donald Lewis (63), Tim Marjerle (37), Earl Mueller (50), Mike Rowe (54), James Rutledge (77), Roger Shively (55), David Smith (68), Donald Stump (57), Rich Ward (28), Ken Woodside (23) and Pete Wysocki (59).
After a slow start and two close losses, the Bronco harriers without Mike Hazilla began to make their presence felt. As a young squad with only three out of the 23 distance men leaving, Western shocked the conference by capturing the Middle American Conference Championship. The following week WMU finished fourth at the Central Collegiates’ and proved their ability regardless of their running experience. In the National Collegiate Athletic Association Championships, Western was breezing along in fourth when disaster befell our harriers. John Bennett and Paul Olmstead sprained their ankles and dropped from their leading positions into the mass. Along with their ankles went the teams hopes for the national championship.

BASKETBALL

Western’s roundballers ignited a fire of hope within the fickle fans as the squad dropped its opening performance to a great U of D team and their star Spencer Haywood, 106-99 in overtime. The following weekend our cagers evacuated Kalamazoo and traveled to the dustbowl at Jenison Field House, where they were handed another close defeat by a good MSU squad. Voyaging into unknown territory proved to be quite a disaster to our home court squad as they managed to drop a hotly contested battle to U of M in the final two minutes. WMU’s roundballers covered up that forboding zero in the victory column with two straight victories at home. As 1968 faded into oblivion, our Bronco’s faced the same predicament as they failed in their last three attempts away from the friendly faces of Kalamazoo.

This way men.

Gene Ford reaches for the sky and drops two.

Opening the new year in Chicago proved as disastrous as the Democratic Convention with the cagers suffering their worst loss at the hands of Loyola. In their first conference game WMU's cagers appeared well on their way to victory as they manhandled Toledo throughout the first 33 minutes of play, but lost the decision 67-60. They returned to the not-to friendly home court with a 2-8 record to face Marshall. Western defeated Marshall at home and Central Michigan away for their first road triumph. Kent State mangled Western's 1-3-1 zone and crushed the Bronco's on Kent's home court. In order to remain in the MAC race Western caged Miami's Redskins 71-66 for another home win. With a 4-1 home court record Western awaited their rematch with Toledo in friendly Read Field House. The Bronco's were scorched by the Rocket exhaust as they lost 84-64. Western has failed to show consistency as they play hot and cold basketball.

The Bronco's would like to forget their cage record but not the performances of Gene Ford, Ellis Hull, Earl Jenkins and Ray Schlaff. Gene Ford has led the Mid-American scoring race all season. He is presently fourth on Western's all time scoring list and could easily finish second. Ellis Hull has been nick-named the Super Sub. He comes off the bench full of fire, with hot hands and a desire to win. He ignites a spark inside the players as well as the fans with his dynamic determination. As a sophomore, Earl Jenkins started off slowly, but he is respected wherever he appears, because of his tremendous improvements. Ray Schlaff opened the season as a sub, working his way up to a first class, first stringer who never loses sight of the ball. As a guard he grabs as many rebounds as the forwards and scores on many close in, tip-ins, fighting off the jolly green giants of the league.
The Bronco Bathers haven’t had a losing season since 1962 and appear headed toward another victory surplus campaign. Again this season junior Dave Pohlonski continues to break records in the 500 and 1000 Yard Freestyle. Larry Toth keeps the 100 yard record sinking while Mike Murray is also stroking barriers into oblivion. The 200 Yard Backstroke belongs to Dave Petersen, Ron Marcikic washed away school records in the 200 Yard Breaststroke. In the 400 Yard Medley Relay, Dave Petersen, Ron Marcikic, Tony O’Dell and Larry Toth have combined in an eclipsing effort to erase the previous school record as did Ron Cole, Tom Smith, Larry Toth, and Dave Pohlonski in the 400 Yard Freestyle Relay. More records have been rewritten this season than in any session before.

Last year's MAC Champion, Gary Hetherington has paced the Bronco grapplers through a winning season. Gary is undefeated so far this season and appears bound to another honor. With only three returning lettermen, this year's gymnasts find it tough going. Art DeMulder, Jim Wyrick, both seniors and Ed Bankowski, a junior, are the Bronco's experienced three. Five sophomores contribute to a youthful team around which Coach Orlofsky plans increased depth. Still a young sport at Western, Gymnastics has gained followers since its birth in 1966. John Newton, an English specialist on the trampoline assists Coach Orlofsky with the nine Bronco gymnasts. Chuck Beatty and Bob Barrow, both sophomores, are top all around men giving the team its depth for future years.

HOCKEY

Coach Ed Edwards packsters have drawn phenomenal crowds this season to watch their new brand of hockey, defensive. The Hockey Club has provided its fans with close, well played performances. Led by Bob Grimm the first line, with Bill Neal and Matt Manko netted more than their share of counters. The defense has solidified the team effort, backed up by Harold Michaelis and reinforced by Terry Jobbitt, Denny McCosky and Craig Schmidt. The squad has given up fewer goals than any other Bronco team in its ten year history. The team looks to next year as most of the skaters are returning for more punishment and excitement.
Supporting the Bronco athletes throughout the season with their spirited shouts and omnipresence, away and at home are Kathy Clare, Debbie Miller, Carla Cifelli, Dorothy Pallas, Sharon Duffy, Martha Carlson, Pat Brehm, Wayne Huber, Bob Barrow, Greg Velett, John Dunsmoor, Howard Lindsey, Chuck Beatty, Tom DeMaagd, and Lee Tenney who toted the Charger around during the football season.

Western's thinclads got off to a fast start this season as they cleaned up at the Michigan and WMU Relays. In their third encounter the squad had a let down and finished worse than was expected. Tom Randolph has led the Bronco's through their first three outings in the 300 Yard Dash as well as a great part in the University One Mile Relay. Tom has several records to his name and has held the world record in the 300 Yard Dash at different times throughout his first tremendous year and a half. Mike Hazilla has returned to the Bronco aid in the distance events. Mike is an exceptional two miler and is expected to make a lot of noise throughout the college circuit. Wayne Lambert is a mainstay at the pole vault clearing often 16 feet and winning in nearly every confrontation. Rod Mack appears to have filled the hole left in the Bronco hurdling squad left by the graduating All-Americans of last season. As a sophomore he is expected to head up the Bronco hurdling unit, which is young, but great.

For their excellent time, the 440 team of Don Castronovo, Horace Coleman, Tom Randolph and Steve Strauch was named to the All-American team. INTRAMURAL SPORTS

The Intramural Department has drawn more participants this season than ever before. As director of the IM Department, Art Jevert continues expanding the IM program by attracting more students each year with his smoothly run scheduling and officiating of all the activities. During the school year a new event was added to the already vast number of events sponsored by the department. The powerlift was the better idea invented by the IM Office. Even though the department has such limited facilities, they continue to amuse thousands of students each year, and this year was no exception.

The puck is dropped and it shoots over to Western's McCosky. He passes to top assist man Bob Grimm. Grimm handles it down the ice and across the blue line.

Time is running out here in the second period. It's across to Captain Bill Neal, Neal to Manko in front of the net! He shoots! Oh! A great save! Western takes the rebound over to Neal all alone! He shoots! He scores! and Western takes . . .

its sixth first of the annual WMU indoor Relays here in Read today. The top man all day for Bronco Coach George Dales has been All-American Tom Randolph and the little speedster has really done a whale of a job: anchoring the winning mile relay team with a 48-second leg, plus his thrilling victory over Notre Dame's Bill Hurd in the 300. The most exciting thing, though, may have been Rod Mack's record breaking run in the hurdles. The next event will be . . .

the 100-yard dash. The runners get set in the blocks; and there's the gun! Western's Randolph shoots out, this is going to be very, very close, here they come across the tape at Waldo and it's Randolph, Steve Strauch and Don Castronovo—all three—in virtually a dead heat for first; we'll have to wait and see. All of these boys will be making a lot of noise, though, in the NCAA Out-door Championships later this year which will be the wind-up . . .

and the pitch. Barski swings and lines one deep to left-center. It's between the fielders and it'll be extra bases to Marty, and in to score comes Bratherton, the pitcher who got on with a walk. The leftfielder's got it now and here comes the ball . . .

over the net. A beautiful serve. Germain returns. And back to partner Sartore. He'll have to lunge—he's got it, a real nice return. Back it come to Germain. He backhands it into the corner. It could be, it . . .

just misses the cup! And by a few inches. A real nice try on that 25-foot putt by Western's Timo Kipelainen. He taps it in for his par 4 here on the eighteenth. And that wraps it up for Western. Tune in next . . ."
where there exists the fire of hate, we shall extinguish it with the waters of love.
where there exists the barren fields of despair, we shall plant hope and reap the harvest for humanity’s sake.
and herein lies our challenge.

“Graduating Seniors . . .”

“Well I hope I graduate. It sure will be a waste of time if I sit through commencement and then they find out at final audit that I haven’t taken some required course.”

“. . . faculty, friends, and parents. It is a great honor for me to be here today and to address this fine group of men and women on one of the most important days of their lives . . .”

“Important day he says. It’s more like the most tragic day of my life. Now I have to go out and get a job, and I’m not looking forward to that at all.”

“Your four years spent in college have been vital . . .

“I wish all of those places I owe money to for my college education saw it that way.”

“And at times exciting . . .”

“You can say that again. That’s one thing that I’ll never forget the parties, the dances, card games, football games, the jokes, rush and especially the drinking and the girls.”

“At times sentimental . . .”

“I can’t think of any of those times, but then maybe I’m different from the majority of the students.”

“. . . and above all, worth while and educational . . .”

“Educational, maybe. Worthwhile? That’s another matter. I can’t see much worthwhile about staying up all night to study for a test or writing a paper which the prof didn’t even bother to read. And there wasn’t much worth in standing in registration lines for hours to get classes which I couldn’t get in anyway.”

“Your college years have been the most important in your life.”

“True, but only because my parents are still supporting me, while being away from home gives me freedom to do anything that I want, from drinking to demonstrating.”
If you have not wondered how many stars in the sky or how green leaves turn shades of gold and red or why bees buzz and moths can walk upside down across ceilings—if you have not stood in motionless awe at your eye's sight, skin's touch or your tongue's taste—if you have not rejoiced in the speed of your legs, the beating of your heart or the craving of your spirit . . .
If history has not made you marvel man's mind, if you have not grown eager with man's failures, exasperated with his mediocrity or exultant with his step forward—if your foundations of distortion have not been shaken by truth crashing upon the shores of your mind—if not, then you are forever doomed to the fetid darkness of your mind!
Dante, Keynes, Marx, Aristotle, Ricardo, Huxley, Kant, Hume, Sartre, Locke, Rousseau, Hegel—all once strangers to me, all part of our heritage of knowledge.

To some of us, these men are more than dead intellectuals. They live in our minds. They will in some way affect our thinking and attitudes long after we forget where we first heard of them and the names of the works we read. That, after all, separates knowledge from rote.
ACADEMICS

ADMINISTRATION

Dr. Russell Seibert, Vice President for Academic Affairs,
Dr. Paul L. Griffeth, Vice President for Student Services.
The School of Business at Western Michigan University trains students at the undergraduate and graduate level for careers in industrial, business and governmental enterprises. Students receive a broad background in the tools, skills and knowledge that all business career orientated individuals need to be effective contributors to their profession. The School of Business provides an opportunity to major in several. These include accounting, insurance, finance, industrial management and administrative services.
ACADEMICS

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

The School of Education is the largest school in the University, enrolling one-half of all on-campus students. Students in this school may major in any one of 35 fields, ranging from American studies and Anthropology, to Special Education and Vocational-Technical Education. The quality of Western's programs for the preparation of teachers and school service personnel is recognized far and wide. Western is the only university in the nation to have won two Distinguished Achievement Education Awards. One of these was for the outstanding Educational Resources Center located in Sangren Hall. The second award was given to the University for its program for teachers of disadvantaged children.

Physical Education for the classroom teacher and Art for the classroom teacher are only a few requirements for the School of Education.

Dr. James Griggs, Dean; Dr. Morvin Wirtz, Asst. Dean; Dr. Donald Weaver, Asst. Dean.
Much goes into the training of teachers, much of which many students believe to be a waste of their time. But when the classes and the seminars are over the student, to his horror, becomes a teacher. He will probably doubt his preparedness. Below a student familiarizes himself with audio-visual equipment and two girls “share” their findings in a mammalian anatomy class.
The School of General Studies is the program that Western has established in order to give students the knowledge and desire to live a reflective and productive life. A person who wants a degree should have some basic understandings in the areas of communication, the social sciences, the natural sciences and humanities. These are broad and general fields for study. Western's General Studies program does not claim to give specialized training, but rather to introduce and present ideas in these areas. Our world is in constant flux and revolution. A stable, educated and responsible citizen must know how to cope with his changing environment. This is the goal sought by the School of General Studies.
Dr. Kim as he introduces us to the non-Western world.
ACADEMICS

SCHOOL OF GRADUATE STUDIES

The School of Graduate Studies offers work leading to a Master's degree in 54 areas of studies. These include a M.B.A. degree, 29 curricula in education and teaching, four programs leading to the Master of Science degree, a Master of Music degree, and a Master of Occupational Therapy degree. The Specialist in Education degree is offered in nine areas, and there are six programs leading to the Education Specialist degree. Western also offers a doctoral degree in Chemistry, Sociology and Science Education.
ACADEMICS

SCHOOL OF APPLIED ARTS AND SCIENCES

The School of Applied Arts and Sciences provides occupationally oriented programs in the areas of agriculture, automotive technology, aviation, electronics, home economics, industrial engineering, mechanical technology, metallurgy, paper technology, printing management, petroleum distribution and occupational therapy. Western Michigan University is known nationally for several of the areas represented in the School. Particularly outstanding is WMU’s Occupational Therapy Department, which is the oldest and largest in the United States. Western has one of six undergraduate paper technology programs in the nation. Our food and petroleum distribution programs are recognized as being unique among colleges and universities throughout the country.

Dr. George E. Kohrman, Dean
Students in occupational therapy offer a helping hand.
Dr. James H. Powell, Associate Dean; Dr. Cornelius Loew, Dean; Dr. Philip S. Denenfeld, Associate Dean
SCHOOL OF LIBERAL ARTS AND SCIENCES

The School of Liberal Arts and Sciences, with 20 departments and a faculty of 450, offers students a broad selection of courses. It offers Bachelor's and Master's degrees in many areas and the Doctor of Philosophy degree in Sociology, a doctoral degree in Chemistry—and in conjunction with the School of Education, a doctoral degree in Science Education. Its offerings serve not only the special student of the sciences and humanities but also provide a background of liberal education for students in all the other schools and for those in the pre-professional courses. Pre-professional areas served are Christian Ministry, Dentistry, Engineering, Forestry, Journalism, Law, Librarianship, Medicine, Mortuary Science, Nursing and Pharmacy.

SENIORS

SENIOR CLASS

The Class of '69 worked to maintain contact not only with their graduating members but with members of the seniors' families in Little Brothers' Weekend and freshman students in Help Week. A new addition to Senior Class activities was the Alumni Student Services Board, headed by class president, Bill Griffin. The Board is an attempt to maintain contact with class members who have left the university at graduation and promote a lasting link with their classmates and Alma Mater.

Honors students enjoy close contact with Dr. Clark. Meetings are held in the lounge at "headquarters," Hillside Apartments.

The Honors College provides a variety of services to more than three hundred students at W.M.U. For bright entering freshmen students there is the General Education Honors Program. For other students there are undergraduate assistantships, the Honors College Curriculum, foreign study seminars, specially arranged programs of study, field study trips, seminar courses, occasional lectures and many other activities.

All able students at the University are eligible to enter the Honors College. The College exists to provide unusual services to interested and excellent students—services requiring individual attention, special programs and often modification of rules.

The large university is often accused of impersonal treatment of students. The Honors College develops a student's individual ambitions and talents within a framework of high expectation and encouragement.
"You are now prepared to take your place in society."
That's what he thinks. By taking the courses that I have, about the only thing I am prepared to do is go on to grad school, or go into the service, which I'll probably have to do anyway. I knew I should have gone to that counselor.

"I know you are all anxious for this address to end . . ." "I sure am. That beer party planned at the apartment ought to be something. Five kegs!"
... but there are a few things I want to remind you of . . ."
"That figures."

"First, you are a citizen of the greatest nation in the world today . . ."
"Right. Next he is going to tell me that I am graduating from one of the finest universities in the country."

"... and you are a graduate of one of the finest universities in the country, making your responsibility great."

"I don't have a responsibility to anyone. Christ, if I keep this attitude up, I'll never get anywhere. I suppose I can't complain about the years I have spent here at Western. There have been a lot of fun times, but a lot of work was put into those four years. Four years! Four years which I will never see again. Only the results."

"Many people have contributed to the education you have received at this university."
"At least he's right there. I have had some really great profs. I've met a lot of people who have contributed to a well-rounded insight about human nature. If only I could do it over again. Boy, could I reap the benefits!"

"Your responsibility is not only to the university as a whole, but also to yourself."

"Why didn't I realize that earlier. I'm attending Commencement. It's all over. Life is going to be a hell of a lot different without the security of college."

"And I want to wish you all the best of luck."
"That I am going to need. And lots of it. Well, I'm on my own. I hope I can make it."
what therefore man has given unto others, he has given unto himself—there exists none other on earth like man, for he alone possesses a quality of development unequaled, he alone, of all creation, is capable of grasping and nourishing the understanding and friendship of his fellows.

It is the friendly fearless Greek,
And he stoppeth one of three.
"By thy surly jacket and sparkling pin,
Now whyfore stoppest thou me?"

"The Greek house door is open wide,
And you are next of kin,
The guests are met, the feast is set;
May'st hear the merry din."

The rushee sat as if a stone,
He could not choose but hear;
The Greek put forth his tale alone,
The rushee for to win.

"T'was freshman year, of will so free,
I entered Greek homeland.
And there I learned just for what things
The pledge I took did stand."

"I saw the friendships burning bright:
I saw 'fraternity.'
And many a thankful Fridays,
I spent at wild TG's."

"But soon I heard the hammers sound;
And heard the watchers cheer,
As house displays and handsome floats
Took prizes for the year."

"And then there came both mud and snow,
And it grew wonderous cold;
Sculptures then, full houses high,
Adorned Greek yards of old."

"And I saw parties; wild they were,
With painting on the wall.
We danced and sang and lived it up
And frolicked all around."
“It is great to be a Greek!”—ask any Alpha Chi Omega. The opportunities for involvement in college activities are endless—Pan-hel, cheering, the Student Senate. There is a concern for the growth of the campus as well as sorority ideals. Greek life means action. The sorority provides sisterhood—that wonderful feeling of warmth that is always present and that represents an ever-lasting bond of friendship. Alpha Chi Omega . . . Involvement . . . Action . . . Sisterhood.

Our group has 25% fewer . . . !

Each day the new Alpha Chi house in fraternity Village is slowly becoming a reality.
DELTA CHI

ALPHA KAPPA ALPHA

The sisters of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority are proud and active members of the Greek system on Western's campus. Since the establishment of Delta Chi chapter on December 3, 1965, the sorority has grown from a membership of eleven active founders to thirty active members.

As a member of the Panhellenic Council, Delta Chi has been active in rush, Junior Panhellenic Council, Greek Week, Sorority Sing and various philanthropic projects.

Delta Chi chapter is also proud to be an active member of the NAACP and of participation in their national project, The Cleveland Job Corp for Women.

The women of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority will continue to strive and produce those things that we feel are important and hold dear, remembering that, "You shall know them by their fruits."

Alpha Phi's "Sea Hunt" a great success.

Sigma Chi and Alpha Phi's prove stronger than dirt!
Striving to accomplish a unified sisterhood in which each member can still be an individual is the primary concern of Alpha Phi Sorority. With a wide range of aspirations, they achieve their goal through creative and zealous effort while still applying a consistent and high code of ethics.

Choosing cardiac aid as their philanthropic project for this year, they have asserted themselves as a pivot point in the Greek system.
Alpha Sigma Alpha sings out for Rush.

ASA's donate "touch toys" for the blind children at Kennedy Center.
True feelings of sisterhood can be discovered in each sister of Alpha Sigma Alpha Sorority. She strives for physical, social, spiritual and intellectual development.

Beta Psi Chapter, now in its sixteenth year on Western’s campus, has enjoyed working together on Homecoming, Greek Week, Derby Day and the Snow Carnival. Satisfaction is now being felt as the sisters experience true friendship and genuine understanding in their new sorority house in Fraternity Village.
The Brothers of Beta Sigma Psi participate actively in campus fraternal and social activities.

Membership is steadily increasing since their admittance to Western's I.F.C. in January, 1967.

Throughout high scholastic achievement and enthusiastic athletic participation they have excelled. Their house which is located at 1025 W. Kalamazoo Ave. is the center of their activities and holds many traditions for the brothers.

Beta Sigs are a rushee's best friend.
"Womanly always, discouraged never" — a befitting guideline for Western's Chi Omega women.

Their active participation in campus activities displays their endless enthusiasm. This year, the Chi O's captured a first place in Homecoming float competition and the AWS Swim Meet. Representing the only women's entry in the Sailing Club Canoe Race, they are also proud of a well-deserved second place award.

In addition to maintaining their good name on campus, the Chi O's are active in the community through their work with the Migrant Day Care Center.

With its Western representatives, it's easy to see why, nationally, Chi Omega is rated Number One.
D Chi's take pride in their little sisters.

DELTA CHI

“Believing that great advantages are to be derived from the brotherhood of college and university men.”

Since 1955, the Delta Chi chapter at Western has exemplified true brotherhood. Their goals are high and so is their will to attain them. Participation in social and athletic programs typifies their co-operative and highly competitive spirit. The brothers take pride in their fraternity and their campus.
Brotherhood begins with “Rush.”

Delt Sigs reward pledges with a work session.
Since its foundation as the first national fraternity on this campus, Delta Sigma Phi has stressed playing an active role in the activities of Western. The men of the Beta Tau Chapter of 1968 continued the tradition. As well as participating in Greek Week, Derby Week, Freshman Carnival, Homecoming, Snow Carnival and the intramural sports, the brothers also sponsor Greek Ski Night and a Christmas party for underprivileged children in the area as well as many other fraternity functions. An old fraternity, joined by two excellent pledge classes; Delta Sigma Phi eyes the future with much anticipation.

DU ingenuity proves first rate again.
The brothers of Delta Upsilon have another outstanding year!

Not only have the brothers excelled in campus athletics and homecoming, but also hold many of the leadership positions both on the campus and within the Greek System. "DIKAIA UPOTHEKE," Justice our Foundation, seems a fitting motto for Western's largest and only non-secret fraternity.

The brothers, realizing that they cannot remain stagnant, continue to excel as a fraternity.
Candlelighting!

Twenty-one reasons why the flame of the DZ lantern is eternal.
The “lamp” of Delta Zeta has always shone brightly, and this year is no exception.

The sisters are proud of their accomplishments in campus activities—Homecoming Queen, M.A.C. Queen, Dad’s Day and Mom’s Weekend activities, and the Delta Zeta mixer.

Off-campus participation included working with the Chamber of Commerce on Men’s and Women’s Night in Kalamazoo, fund-raising for philanthropies, a fashion show in cooperation with Jacobson’s, and attending educational lectures as a group. The DZ’s also captured awards at State Day.

Diligence and a winning smile has produced an important asset to Western’s campus—the sisters of Delta Zeta sorority.

Adding to joys, giving of faith, sharing in the laughter from fun and the tension of study, the sisters of Gamma Phi Beta find a growing bond of sisterhood by sharing in all of each others endeavors.

By striving for academic excellence and by taking an active part in all of Western's activities; Homecoming, Greek Week, Derby Day, Sorority Sing and Dad's Day, the Gamma Phi's have had another successful year at Western.

Through an awareness of the needs of others, the benefits through study, Gamma Phi's hope to add growth and success to Western's Greek system.

Serenading fraternities is one of many exciting activities for Gamma Phi's.
Nothing is too great a task for the men of Kappa Alpha Psi.

Their achievement of superiority in the area of brotherhood, scholarship, and social athletic ability has placed Kappa Alpha Psi high on the list of nationally recognized fraternities.

In addition to many campus and civic activities, including their annual Sweetheart’s Ball, the brothers are active in the Guide Right Program, a national service program designed for the career orientation of the youth.
Pan-Hellenic Council, the governing body for Western's twelve social sororities, is composed of the President and two representatives from each sorority. The council offers the opportunity to work together in common philanthropic projects and to socialize together in the all-greek pan-hellenic spirit.

Sorority life offers enriched college education, friendship, leadership training and the opportunity to give service to others. In the service area, Pan-Hel philanthropic projects this year included such activities as Halloween Trick-or-Treating for the March of Dimes and Christmas bell-ringing for the Salvation Army.

Each year the Council sponsors such activities as Pan-Hel Open House, Sorority Sing, Pan-Hellenic Ball and Senior Recognition Dessert.

The Inter-Fraternity Council is the governing body for the twenty social fraternities on campus. The purpose of the IFC is to coordinate the efforts of these autonomous groups so that their scholastic, athletic, philanthropic, and social aims might be better fulfilled.

IFC is made up of the fraternity presidents, one representative from each fraternity, the executive board and the sponsors.

The goal of Western's fraternity system is to develop a truly well-rounded and responsive individual, with emphasis on character and leadership. Our fraternity system has established a close relationship with the community around them by extending the hand of brotherhood beyond their own fraternities to all men.

"Dug out of a fine tradition," the Lambda Chi Alpha chapter at Western has given many observers cause to believe that this is one of the finest and fastest rising fraternities on campus. In two years of phenomenal growth, this group of individuals has shown that you need not be a conformist to be a part of a well rounded, unified brotherhood. Made up of athletes, scholars and just plain "good guys", the Lambda Chi's are noted for their participation and success in campus-wide events.

Yes, two years isn't a very long time to be on campus, but the Lambda Chi's at Western have made it look like ten, and that is why they say, "Look out! The Lambchops are ready to take over the field!"

The men of Phi Kappa Tau take pride in the maintenance of a high standard of scholarship. Striving for a spirit of brotherhood is shown through their participation and support of the Student Senate, Young Democrats and inter-collegiate athletics. Other on-campus activities include Freshman Carnival, Greek Week and Homecoming, in which their float “Mutiny on the Bounty” took first place in ’67, and their “War Wagon” placed second in ’68.

Phi Sigs prove to be regular Playboys.

The brothers of Phi Sigma Epsilon are proud of their fraternity and support it enthusiastically in all its activities. This past year they participated in all intramural events, and several brothers are involved in varsity sports on Western's campus.

The entire fraternity turned out en-masse and fired with enthusiasm made the rush program the best ever. The result was a pledge class that they are proud to call theirs and a fraternity with which they are proud to affiliate. Their fervent participation did not stop here but was applied whole-hearted, as always, to the homecoming float, "The Wizard of Oz" which took third place. Fraternity Sing found those Phi Sig voices ringing in the East ballroom to harmonize their way to second place. A high point of participation in campus activities was the presentation of Western's new mascot, Charger, to the University.

The year was not only filled with the satisfaction of participation but with the enjoyment of many good times beginning in September and filling the weekends of our social calendar. The feeling of friendship they display as participants in University activities is bought out ten-fold at all of the social functions.

Phi Sigma Kappa offers the opportunity to promote brotherhood, stimulate scholarship and develop character. Phi Sigma Kappa offers the opportunity for leadership, development and training—the opportunity to create a living atmosphere which provides the epitome of cultured surroundings. Each member assumes responsibility for his own affairs as well as the responsibility to the group.

The Brothers of Pi Kappa Alpha take an active part in campus and fraternity life. Last year the Pikes took two trophies in the Red Cross Blood Drive, and also captured the intramural crown for volleyball for the third straight year. Besides participating in all intramural and campus activities, Pikes also take an active part in many community service projects throughout the year, one of which is their annual food drive. Such a wide range of activities serves to strengthen the bond of Pike Brotherhood.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon has been ranked as one of the best national fraternities for over the past thirty years. Since its founding on Western’s campus in 1961, the Michigan Delta chapter has done its part to maintain this high rating. The promotion of high scholarship, true brotherhood, and better inter-fraternity relations are the primary goals of each brother.

Sigma Chi, an international fraternity numbering 148 active and 170 alumni chapters, was founded in 1855 at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. As an original member of the famous Miami Triad, Sigma Chi is one of the best known and most respected of college fraternities, and the second largest in the nation.

At Western, you will find Sigma Chi’s active in all areas of campus life. In Student Government, M.U.B., U.S.C.B., varsity and intramural athletics and various University committees, there are Sigs serving their campus.

Up, up, and away has been the theme of Sigma Kappa this year as the sisters continue to work hard and have fun, reaching old goals and setting new ones. With a pledge class of 29 this fall, there are many new faces filling old places in the sorority. The Sigma Kappa's can still remember the glow of pride that accompanied their second place trophy in winter's Sorority Sing, and the excitement of having the second place sorority float in the Homecoming parade. At their national convention in San Diego last June, they received the Michigan Scholarship award and the national first place pledge training program award. They hope to display these new trophies soon in a new sorority house which they are helping to finance by having continuous projects, not the least of which is their annual Brown Book sale.
A leader in Western's Greek System.

The brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon have earned this reputation through their continued efforts in campus and community activities.

In addition to their campus contributions, the brothers continually strive for the goals of brotherhood instilled in them during their pledge period. They realize the importance of belonging to a fraternity that promotes leadership, understanding of their fellow man, and the knowledge that after graduation, they can return to 305 Stuart Street to re-live memories of their contributions to Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Sigma Pi is unity, fellowship and a kindred of minds bonded together by brotherhood. It strives for scholarship and attains an air of chivalry.

Sigma Pi can be a T.G. on Friday afternoon, a talent show, a championship football team or a pledge formal and Orchid Ball. Sigma Pi is Wally Schirra and Appollo 7. It is Founder's Day and October 21, 1967.

Sigma Pi is friends when you want them and an understanding when you don't. It is retreat weekend, pledge meetings, blackbooks and "grief." Sigma Pi is hard work and fun, it is a homecoming float and a snow sculpture. Sigma Pi is little sisters. It is studying for a big test and cheering for soccer and basketball teams. It is history and it is the future.

Sigma Pi is . . .
“Loving, Giving and Sharing” is the creed of all Sigma Sigma sisters. By living these words and those of their open motto, “Faithful Unto Death,” they share the real meaning of sisterhood.

As a bond of sisters they participate in every campus activity. Some of them include Homecoming, Dad’s Day, Mom’s Weekend, Greek Week and Sorority Sing. The annual Sigma Cutie Contest and mixer is also sponsored by Tri-Sigs to earn money for the Robbie Page Project.

This year Sigma sisters are proud and excited to have the first house in Fraternity Village, but are also anxious to be joined by their Greek sisters and brothers.
Tri Sigs yell their way to first place.
Sigma Tau Gamma has offered brotherhood and social class to men of Western since 1913. Chi Chapter was the first social organization, first local fraternity and first national fraternity on Western’s campus. With experience only age can endow, Sig Tau’s are leaders among fraternities today.

The principles of Sigma Tau Gamma, Leadership, Excellence, Value, Learning, Benefit and Integrity, are promoted through involvement in many campus activities, a varied and complete social calendar, sports and most important of all, academic improvement. Sigma Tau Gamma will continue to build men, create well-rounded individuals, and help build responsible leaders in society.

Teke's "Dr. Doolittle," another first.
TAU KAPPA EPSILON

Tau Kappa Epsilon, the largest international fraternity in the world strives towards excellence in all of her endeavors. TKE is the fraternity for life, her influence does not end when a member is graduated from a university. For many it just begins at this time, opening doors to future successes. And Tekes are successful. We at Western are proud to wear the shirt or jacket emblazoned with TKE as we cross the finish line time after time. We are always ready to remind anyone—it's a great life, if you can TEKE it!
Unique in structure of organization, pragmatic in theory of operations, and exciting in capacities of presentation of activities to the eyes of Western, Theta Xi ranks high in the upper echelons of the University's fraternity life.

With the moral, mental and physical development of each and every brother, they strive for the traditional Greek ideal, thereby throwing out the misconstrued conceptions that social orientation is their only end.

ZETA BETA TAU

ZBT believe that the most important phase of any fraternity man's life is academics: fraternity activities cannot be allowed to infringe on one's studies. Zeta Beta Tau's awareness of this is shown by its fine academic record. As far as they are able to contribute to this effort, they will. The ZBT Foundation annually provides thousands of dollars for scholarships, which are awarded to the brothers.

ZBT looks for those who can add to the existing brotherhood, widening the scope of the whole and yet maintain the unity of the fraternal bond. They seek intelligent, perceptive, sensitive people who will be capable of both intellectual and social development during their years at college.

The men of Alpha Phi Alpha continue to take positive steps forward toward the concept of the “college of friendship.” On campus, the Alpha’s have participated in and precipitated many affairs in which the entire student body could share. They have also strove to create a tighter bond between the black students here and the black community of Kalamazoo. Their efforts have been purposeful and rewarding.
Omega Psi Phi is one of the youngest fraternities at Western, and yet the fraternity has a membership of approximately twenty-three brothers (composed of athletes, scholars and musicians) and an inter-squad basketball trophy.

Dear Coeds:
The discipline committee of your dormitory requires that you appear at 8 P.M., February 1, to face charges invoked against you for your actions on January 7 when you placed approximately 150 empty Coca-Cola cans in the trash incinerator.
You should be prepared to provide an explanation for your actions. Failure to appear before the committee at the scheduled time will result in an immediate classification of social probation.
Secretary of the Dormitory Discipline Committee

“It looks like they finally got around to doing something about that little escapade. I was hoping the staff wouldn’t have turned in our names.”
“Little chance of that. But at least they caught us for putting all of the cans in the trash instead of some of the other stunts we’ve pulled. Imagine the trouble we would have been in when we put the empty Gin bottle in the director’s mailbox.”
“Or how about the time we were all sitting around the room drinking warm beer and playing bridge when I got slightly drunk . . .”
“Slightly? That was the same night that you had to stumble down to the staff’s room and pin up the Playmate of the Month foldout on the door . . . and she is such a prude anyway.”
“From the lecture we got at the next corridor meeting I would say that she wasn’t too happy with us. But she would have been even less happy if she had known about all the times that we stayed out all night rather than take the late minutes.”
“Or how about the time freshman year when we called up the pizza place and had three large pizzas sent to the director. I would love to have seen her face when they called her room and told her that her pizzas had arrived.”
Within the boundaries of Western's tradition-filled East Campus lies an ivy-covered “home away from home” called Spindler Hall. Although many of its residents are freshmen, upperclassmen return year after year to enjoy the warm atmosphere to be found there.

Being away from the mainstream of the campus does not stop the women from being active. As a group, they participate in Homecoming, Snow Carnival, the campus blood drive and various other activities. Individually, Spindler girls are involved in a wide range of organizations and projects.

Activity plus a home-like atmosphere combine in making Spindler more than just a residence hall. It is a way of life.
Even wash-day can be happy time at Spindler.

When Spindler girls are pressed for time, study dates are popular.

Colleges create messy floors at Spindler.
Vandercook Hall has always held an important place in campus life at Western. 'Hungry Hall', as it is called because of it having no food service, is always fired up for Homecoming, Snow Carnival, all athletics and a wide variety of other activities.

The men have a reputation for being friendly, cooperative and for making Vandercook Hall what it is—a great place to visit, and a great place to live.
Trimming the tree is exhausting work.

EAST CAMPUS

WALWOOD

Walwood Hall began an active year with winning third place for its Homecoming display—"Billy Doo's Falcon Stew." This honor encouraged the men to pursue other fields such as athletics and education.

Intramurally, Walwood participated in almost all sports. Driven by enthusiasm and a desire to win, the men were undefeated in soccer.

The Educational Program Committee presented a series of speakers and movies. Two of the more prominent speakers were Frank Forest and President Miller.

The men completed fall semester with Christmas activities and were especially proud of their tree which was hand-chopped and over twelve feet high.

Presents under the beautiful tree are delights to Scott and Debbie.

Building a fire adds to the lounge's Christmas atmosphere.
The highlight of the year for the women of Smith Burnham was receiving a first place award for their float, "The Wonderful World of Walt Disney." They found that by instilling Homecoming spirit in the dorm, and by spending many hours working, they could bring recognition to the dormitory.

Although Smith is one of the dorms farthest from the center of campus activities, it was active in all campus projects and festivities. The residents always find time and desire to donate to the campus blood drive, participate in Kalamazoo Tutorial, and in other worthwhile projects.

The women of Smith pride themselves with the friendliness and spirit evident in the dorm, and the students, as a whole, are recognizing Smith Burnham as the hall "where the action is."
The girls of Ernest-Burnham are well-known on Western's campus for their great spirit in many activities: Homecoming floats and house-displays, blood drives, an annual Christmas party for underprivileged children and Dad's Day. Ernest-Burnham also has a reputation for being a very friendly dorm. The girls enjoy many in-the-dorm activities such as Halloween and Christmas parties, and special dinners honoring brides, graduates and honor students.

The lounge of Ernest-Burnham offers a moment of peace and quiet.

French welcomes the little brothers and sisters of its women. French Hall has an atmosphere of friendship and fun among its girls. Many activities enliven the school year, including such things as parties for St. Patrick's Day, and Thanksgiving and Christmas.

In the realm of campus-wide activities, the girls participate in Homecoming, Snow Carnival, the campus blood drive and Kalamazoo Tutorial. In addition to these, the women plan, and actively participate in programs for Dad's Day, Mom's Day, and Little Brother and Sister Weekend.

Active is the best term of description for Zimmerman Hall. The women are concerned with developing a rounded college life, and so, participate in cultural and service activities as well as campus activities.

Culturally, the hall sponsors speakers and various activities. This year, the Fireside Chat featuring President Miller produced a large turnout and a very interesting evening.

In the realm of service, the girls sponsored a class of children in Appalachia, contributed to the Fort Custer Home, held a Christmas party for underprivileged children and made toys for the needy.

Campus-wide activities included participation in Homecoming, the Freshman Carnival and an intramural basketball team.

Davis

The “Man of LaMancha,” an entry in the Homecoming parade, was one of the many projects which the women of Davis Hall undertook. The success of the float helped the girls to build up spirit for the year ahead.

Davis Hall holds residents who love to work for the betterment of the campus and the community, as well as provide enjoyment for themselves.
Learning new dances is a very pleasant way to spend leisure time.

ABOVE: Tearing down the house display proves good vent for hostilities. LEFT: Good news in the Herald causes smiles on the steps.
The women of Siedschlag Hall have participated in many campus activities. This past year, they took first place for women's dorms in the campus blood drive. In the fall, the women took part in a secret brother-secret sister program with the men of Ellsworth Hall, which was organized to increase friendships, and to provide help for the Homecoming house display.
Upon the arrival of the first freshman, the women of Draper Hall were assured that once again, Draper would reign as the "friendliest dorm on campus."

Homecoming events took top priority the opening weeks of school. A "Fire-Up-Freshmen" party kicked off a round of teas, brunches, and float activities. Our queen candidate, Gail Yarrington, gave all of the girls a special pride, as she was one of the finalists.

Along with these activities, however, Draper also has its eyes focused on the more serious aspects of college life. In conjunction with President Miller's educational program, Draper has invited many speakers to its 11:00 p.m. "Fire-side Chats." It is through these that the women of Draper become aware of the opinions and viewpoints of the leaders on this campus and in the rest of society.
Ideally located in the heart of the West Campus within walking distance of Sprau Tower, Shaw Theater, the University Auditorium, Waldo Library, and the Union, Moore has proven itself to be the proverbial shelter from the storm for the 300 girls who call it “home.” Due to a conflict caused by preparation for Homecoming, Moore was unable to continue with its plans for a Secret Brother-Sister exchange with Hoejke Hall, but preparations for Little Brother-Little Sister Weekend, Mom’s Weekend, Dad’s Day, the Christmas party, guest speakers, and the monthly movies kept the ever-active girls of Moore Hall on the go. In addition, Moore Hall became the new home for its new houseparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan and their year-old daughter, Julie.

Quiet hours, corridor meetings, busy phones, and late minutes became part of the everyday routine for the girls of Moore Hall in their “home away from home.”
"Do you believe it? Ruth Buzzi!!"

The age-old question of male superiority is put to the test.

Composed mainly of freshman residents, Ellsworth Hall started the year with an apathetic spirit. As the year progressed, however, spirit grew in the men. Philanthropically, Ellsworth donated 500 dollars to the Big Brothers Organization, and maintained first place honors in the campus blood drive. The men also participated in coed football games with French Hall, and in all other main events on campus.

At anytime at all, Ellsworth men will be playing cards.
The goal of Hoekje Hall is the initiation of campus-wide enthusiasm in all activities, highlighted by taking an active part in many varsity athletics. Hoekje is also very interested in promoting educational programs within the dorm to stimulate varied student interests beyond regular academic activities.

Although the men of the hall take great pride and interest in all they do, Homecoming is always the biggest event of the year. This year, the men had outstanding gimmacks, and a very distinctive float, “the Blue Max.”

As in past years, Hoekje Hall succeeded in retaining its position of leadership on the campus of Western Michigan.

Diversions mean nothing when residents have to study.

Dancing in the lounge relaxes one resident.
Bigelow Hall prides itself with the diversity of its residents. The men are represented in all aspects of campus life—athletics, academics, politics, and many campus organizations.

Although the men's differences are great, they all have one common goal — to keep Bigelow on the map. They are always a threat in intramural sports, and they go all out for displays at Snow Carnival and Homecoming. This year, Bigelow's house display took first place in the men's dormitory division.

Year after year, Bigelow's residents continue to contribute their spirit and ability to Western. They have always been one of the mainstays of the campus, and will continue to be so.

BIGELOW

The women of Henry Hall are quite proud of having the distinction of being the first women’s residence hall to institute a “no-hours” policy, an experiment which has become a reality for all women’s dorms this year.

Henry actively participates in all campus activities. Homecoming found the girls constructing a house display and trying to fire-up all of the residents to make “Lights! Camera! Action!” one of the best Homecomings ever. Also, many of the women contribute to the campus blood drive and other philanthropic projects, such as the Kalamazoo Tutorial Project.

In conjunction with Western’s Dad’s Day, Mom’s Day, and Little Brother’s and Sister’s Weekend, Henry held teas, pajama parties, and other programs, to make the families of its residents more a part of campus life, and to better familiarize them with the school.

As in the past, Henry Hall is striving to make itself the “warmest of all dorms.”

Britton-Hadley

Fire drills provide the girls with a chance for a "refreshing night-time stroll."

The university community tested the students' maturity this year with the installation of private phones and the liberalization of women's hours. The residents of Britton-Hadley met the challenge, displaying their maturity in all aspects of student life.

The annual fashion show, "Fall Fashion A La Mode," set the pace early in the semester, with the residents modeling clothes that fit into the coed's budget and style of life.

Britton-Hadley's commitment to the Homecoming spirit paid off, as the house display snatched first place, and the gimmicks second place.

The most important project of the year was the establishment of a tuition scholarship for one girl who had given the most time and energy for the betterment of the dorm.

The dorm was active also in campus activities, having the A.W.S. president and the Homecoming general chairman as residents.
From "Camelot," to commencement, this has been another busy and successful year for the men of Ackley-Shilling.

The 530 residents which compose this "most progressive dorm on campus" have been constantly engaged in one project or another. Interests are wide and varied, ranging from sponsoring an open house every Sunday afternoon, to active educational program. The men of Ackley-Shilling look forward to the first run movies shown regularly in the cafeteria and the occasional mixers shared with their sister dorm, Britton-Hadley.
Amid chaos and confusion emerges an orderly system of taking messages.
Caramel apple sales are always a big item with the girls.

Coming back to a freshly redecorated dormitory was only the beginning for the women of Eicher-LeFevre. They kept adding more as the year went on. New additions to the dorm were a pool table, patio furniture and other items to make school life a little more pleasant.

The women had “that special way of feeling” as Homecoming festivities arrived, bringing a first place in gimpicks and an Eicher-LeFevre girl on the queen’s court.

With their brother dorm, Garneau-Harvey, a series of study-breaker mixers was enjoyed throughout the year, and a Christmas party was held for under-privileged children.

Eicher-LeFevre also showed their usual interest in its adopted orphan, as well as donating to the blood drive.

Even though not always recognized, the women of Valley #2 enjoy friendships, exchange ideals and ideas, create enthusiasm, and establish leadership and responsibility in uniting the campus.

Garneau-Harvey began the mainstream of its activities for the year by participating in the 1968 Homecoming, "Lights! Camera! Action!" The biggest contribution that the men made was a marathon run, in which they ran from Bowling Green University to Waldo Stadium, passing the game football. They also entered a float in the parade which was titled "To Kill a Mockingbird," and participated in many of the other Homecoming activities.

Throughout the rest of the year, the men took part in intramural sports, the blood drive, Snow Carnival, and various other dormitory and campus-wide activities.

Once again, the men of Garneau-Harvey Hall succeeded in stirring up enthusiasm, and placing the dorm in a prominent position at W.M.U.
Garneau-Harvey expresses its hopes to finish off the B.G. Falcons in "To Kill a Mockingbird."

Prior to the marathon, the men map out their course.

Santa Claus and Christmas Carol add fun to the Christmas party.
An added attraction at dinner—a folk-singing team.

The presence or absence of mail can make or break a coed’s day.

Harrison-Stinson Halls, though in the farthest removed complex in the Valley, are centers of friendliness, spirit and activity. The women find time out of their studies to participate in all realms of campus life—honoraries, service organizations, K-zoo Tutorial, sororities and many other activities.

Homecoming, always an exciting event, brought on the creation of gimmicks and a third place in the women’s float division for “Jungle Book.”

With their brother dorms, Eldridge-Fox, Harrison-Stinson sponsored movies, speakers and other cultural events. Also, there were parties and special dinners throughout the year.

Showing community concern, the girls donated to the blood drive, Goodwill Industries, and held a Christmas party for needy children.

All-in-all, the women of Valley #3 once again proved to be a vital part of Western’s Campus.
Forging to the front in educational development and intramural sports, the men of Eldridge-Fox are establishing a tradition unmatched by any other residence hall. Through the mens' desire to be an integral part of campus life have come such honors as the all sports trophy. Community betterment also fits into the plans of Eldridge-Fox and is exemplified in their annual Christmas festivities for local children. A heritage that will make our campus more complete and our community better developed is being nurtured in Eldridge-Fox.

OFF-CAMPUS HOUSING

Whether it is approved off-campus housing, new apartments, houses, or family dwellings, 7,109 Western students call it “home.” Many students feel that off-campus life offers more freedom and convenience. For some, it is a refuge from the noise and restrictions of dormitory life. Others find it an exciting atmosphere of parties and total independence. Whatever the reasons, the number of off-campus students continues to grow, along with hopes of many Western students that soon all juniors and seniors, regardless of age, will be allowed to live in unapproved housing.

Unique walls create an atmosphere conducive to discussion.
Marriage is a time to enjoy the fine things in life.

MARRIED HOUSING

For those students who chose to continue their education though married, Western supplies apartments in close proximity to the campus. This year, with the opening of the new Stadium Apartments, living facilities for married students were increased.

It is in Elmwood, Goldsworth Valley and Stadium Drive apartments that common goals are sought, dreams shared and family lives begun in the educational context of a large university.
“Wasn’t it our sophomore year when we were making popcorn in our room — illegally of course — and the grease caught fire.”

“Yes, and you finally got it out and then sprayed about three bottles of perfume all over the place to try to keep the staff from smelling it.”

“Well, it worked, didn’t it? She never found out.”

“Yes, but our room smelled so bad for the next week that we couldn’t even get near it.”

“You should talk. It seems like I can remember one time when we had a surprise bed check and you had been drinking. We got you to drink about two bottles of mouthwash and get into bed but then you almost ruined the whole thing when you tried to sing. The only thing I could think of to tell them was that you had laryngitis.”

“At least we never did anything like that guy over in Hoejke who flushed the lit cherry bomb down the john and it exploded in the sewer pipes. God, was that a mess. It’s a good thing they never found out who did that.”

“We never had any water fights either. I heard that a bunch of guys in one of the dorms had a water fight and by the time the staff got there the water in the hall was over a foot deep.”

“Remember the night when the guys staged the big panty raid and they were so insulting that we were forced to retaliate with a jock raid the next night.”

“That was fun. Say, do you remember that guy over in Valley #1 who came in so drunk that his buddies put him in the shower and turned the water on him to sober him up. Only he passed out and clogged up all the drains on the floors under him. I’m glad they never caught us for anything like that. Getting caught for putting all of those cans in the trash chute was bad enough.”

Dear Applicant:

Please indicate in the space provided any organizations in which you participated or currently list as contributing to your preparation for this position.

“That’s what the application reads as I sit here, chewing my Bic and wishing I could just get a letter in the mail begging me to take an executive position without all this bother. What do they pay those people at the Placement Office for, anyway?

Let’s see, now. I could list... no, that would give the wrong impression entirely. Hm, I wasn’t in any church organization to speak of—wait, yes, I was. I sat in on a folk singing session at St. Thom’s last October. That’ll do for religion.

I could always mention my outstanding work with the Ugly Man Contest and that off-colored number I helped with for DU Variety Night—no, that’s not an organization. Well, there’s always Duplicate Bridge.

Now, if I were an employer, looking for some bright college grad, what would I look for? Leadership qualities would be one for sure. I’d want a person who has a history of being a real leader of men, a giant among his peers. Well, I’d better forget that one. I couldn’t lead a four year old to the bathroom.

If only I could think of an organization I belonged to that would show that I have a sense of organization. I did alright in those committees I got volunteered for—until I found out calling the previous question might mean searching your mind for the question before the question, before the previous question.

Come to think of it, I haven’t been in a club that really means anything. Even my Junior Forest Ranger card is useless.

WESTERN HERALD

The Western Herald, published three times weekly, provides students at this university not only with campus and local news as in the past, but also national and international news, a new feature of this year's paper. After undergoing vast improvements under the editorship of Doug Powell, the Herald has sought to better inform the student population, and keep them abreast of the more important happenings.

In addition, the Herald has taken the important step of changing from a tabloid sized newspaper to a metro, or full sized newspaper. This has allowed for greater and more in-depth coverage, and a wider and more diverse interpretation of news events. Also included in this year's Herald is an expanded editorial page, and a new fine arts section called the Encore, edited by Dave McKay, a regular Wednesday feature.

Consumer est—It is finished. What you hold here are the words, sights and impressions of a year, the flashes and captured glimpses of four years in education. As editor, I sincerely hope what you find here is not only a tangible reminder but a true picture of this graduation year, 1969.

We have taken new directions in the Brown and Gold. It has been our purpose to put down in these few pages, not a chronicle, but an impression of the year. To that end we commend this book with best wishes and the hope that it is to you what we intended. Special thanks must go to Dave McKay, Cher Worstall, Richard Eisele and Chato Hill for their help in capturing the year in words. Special appreciation must also go to Leland Williams, of Benson Printing Co., whose cooperation and kindness made the 1969 B & G a proud reality.

To these people go my personal thanks: Bruce Hummel, associate editor and Jim Rankin, business manager. To my editors, a deeply felt thank you; Barb Greenman, Cindy Merkle, Sue King, Kathy Meyer, Paula Lipford, Vonda Glisan, Delores Barr and Mike Pritchard. They all translated 1969 into these pages. A list of eleven people who have done a great job in providing the sights are Jim Bushouse, C. J. Roth, Jerry Newton, Rick Wilbur, Bill Rose, Eric Ramsey, Ben Feigenson, Pam Gottlieb, Bruce Foerch, John Avots and Larry Somers.

To these hard working people I am grateful, as well as to Carol Studios, Inc., our senior photographers, and Smith Cover Co.

Though we must, of course, recognize the assistance of those within the university administration, this is a student book, written and designed by students. This is, though some may deny it, an honest look at Western Michigan University in 1969—not always pretty and glittering, but what is?
