Fall enrollment up 2.3 percent

Program in computer science accredited

The computer science-theory and analysis minor of the Bachelor of Computer Science has been accredited by the Computing Sciences Accreditation Board, Inc., CSAB.

The program is among 22 in the nation to receive this designation from the organization, and is the only one in Michigan and its neighboring states. This accreditation constitutes national recognition of the high quality of this program, "in the eyes of the public, John Clarke, arts and sciences. "All of the fine faculty members in the computer science department will take credit for this achievement. Certainly one of the many powerful indicators of the program's success is the assurance that graduates of the program will be highly sought after by employers.

This action is part of CSAB's first series of program evaluations since the board was established in 1984 by the Association for Computing Machinery and the Computer Society of the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers, the two largest professional organizations in computing and computer-related areas.

The CSAB grants accreditation to computer science programs that meet the program minimum criteria for curriculum, laboratories, and computer resources, faculty, students and institutional support.

The degree, the College of Arts and Sciences, computing and high school programs and our department is delighted that the work and commitment have been recognized by the CSAB accreditation of the theory and analysis major, "said Donald Nelson, chairperson of the department.

The program offers a degree in computer science and computer engineering.

Board of Trustees to meet in Grand Rapids

For the first time ever, the Board of Trustees will conduct its regular monthly meeting in Grand Rapids. The Board will convene at 10 a.m. Friday, Sept. 19, at Marriott Inn, 5000 28th St. S.E.

Grand Rapids is the site of our largest regional center and our Board has decided to periodically meet off-campus in communities where we program.

The Board of Trustees will participate in joint meeting with Grand Valley State College's Board of Control.

Grand Valley will share plans for its new Grand Rapids center, and the boards will discuss ways in which the two institutions can collaborate on opportunities for continuing education students in West Michigan. The meeting will begin at 9:15 a.m. Thursday, Sept. 18, at the Perinton Tournament Center in Ottawa N.W. that facilities, registration and dinner.

At Western's regular Board meeting on Friday, Dean Richard T. Burke, continuing education, will report on WMU academic programs in Grand Rapids.

The WMU Board also will conduct committee meetings on Friday and the Marriott. The Budget and Finance Committee will meet at 8:15 a.m. and the Academic and Student Affairs Committee will meet at 9:15 a.m.

Two students will make presentations at the Academic and Student Affairs Committee meeting. Sibyll Allen Kirchgeesser, a junior from Ada; will report on the 1986 summer orientation program for new students. Jane Renberg, a senior from Ada, will report on the 1986 summer orientation program for new students. Jane Renberg, a senior from Ada, will report on the 1986 summer orientation program for new students.

Field instructors here

The School of Social Work will conduct an orientation and luncheon for field instructors from 12:15 to 2:30 p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 24, in the West Ballroom of the Bernhard Student Center. The luncheon serves to thank field instructors for their service to the school.

Six faculty members named to provost search committee

President Haenicke has appointed six faculty members, including himself, to an advisory committee in the search for a provost to replace Philip Denefeld, who will retire in January, Haenicke told the Faculty Senate.

The other five are Maryanne V. Bunda, educational leadership; H. Byran Eberth, religion; Anthony Elliott, music; Dean James B. Matthews, engineering and applied sciences; and Dean R. Tyn dall, occupational therapy. Haenicke will chair the committee, which is to convene soon.

About 130 applications and nominations have been received for the position, which has been advertised nationally, Haenicke said. Of them, about 20 have already been eliminated. "At least 20 of these people are very, very good," he said. It will be difficult for the committee to narrow the field to a manageable level.

Finalists for the position will be brought to the campus for interviews, Haenicke said, adding that he hoped a choice can be made "by the end of the year." He said he may ask Denefeld to stay on, "under certain conditions," in the event a successor cannot be on campus in January.
Cowan to be first speaker in Visiting Scholars series

Ruth Schwartz Cowan, specialist in the history of science and leader in the field of women's studies, will be the first speaker in the 1986-87 Visiting Scholars Program Monday, Sept. 22. She will present a public lecture titled "More Work for Mother: Technology and Housework in the USA" at 8 p.m. in 3790 Knapp Hall. The lecture will trace the interchange of technology, biology, and women and technology. Her book, "More Biology, Technology, and the Interaction of Women and Technology," was published in 1985 by the University of Chicago Press and was among many of them historians and mathematicians.

"Anybody is welcome to come down and use the material," she says. However, nothing can leave the area.

Attitude change needed to resolve drug problem

President Reagan is on the right track with his new anti-drug program. But in increase in federal spending isn’t going to solve America’s drug problem, according to a WMU administrator.

"Throwing money at a problem won’t resolve it. We have had a change in attitude in America about the use and abuse of drugs," says John M. Davis, a visiting professor in WMU’s College of Criminal Justice.

The president has been encouraged by comments made by the president and Mrs. Reagan during their recent trip to South America. However, he believes the drug problem is so widespread that the government’s ability to cutural drug abuse and trafficking is limited.

Part of Reagan’s plan for combating drug use includes providing $500 million in additional funding for law enforcement and drug education agencies and earmarking $100 million for anti-drug programs in schools and drug abuse treatment centers.

"I don’t think Reagan was off-track overall, but I do think he was overly optimistic with the abilities of our law enforcement agencies to greatly inhibit or reduce the supply of drugs," says Simpson.

"You have to realize that the sale of illicit drugs in this country is a multi-billion dollar type of endeavor. The second largest cash crop in Michigan is marijuana. And it’s just the tip of the ice burg," says Simpson.

"I think Reagan is very much ‘on target’ with the fact that the key to doing this is to develop and fund programs," says Simpson. "And hopefully, those programs will work." However, Simpson says additional funding is not the sole answer to the drug problem. He believes there must be a turn-around in the way society views drugs and their abuse.

"We have to have a full societal value change toward drugs and alcohol abuse," explains Simpson. "And I don’t think the overall views of drug use have been radically altered. It’s as if we have been made to believe that but they must be consistently crossed out across our society.

Simpson believes society’s attitude toward drugs can be changed by having positive role models in teenagers’ peer groups, their immediate generational group, another group, and parental group.

"Number one is society—the image of drug dealers who have big cars and money and they are able to impact the inner-city youth very young," says Simpson. "Then it’s as long as we have parents who say, ‘Don’t use drugs,’ but who sit there and pump the酹icide and alcohol—that’s a very poor role model.”

Simpson says while the ultimate responsibility for combating drug abuse may rest with the family and educators, the federal government must have a continuous effort in battling the drug problem.

"I think in order to provide that education, there has to be a federal thrust," says Simpson. "And obviously, for a federal policy, it will involve funding and programming beyond the election year." Forum to feature two former governors

Former Michigan governor G. Mennen Williams and George Romney will be featured in a "Governor's Forum" Tuesday, Sept. 30, at the Fetzer Center. Williams, who is currently chief justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, is scheduled to speak at 1 p.m. on "Reflections on the Office of the Michigan Governor, Yesterday and Today.

They will address the audience on "Women and the Michigan Political System—at First A Governor, Recollects," at 2 p.m. on "Women in Power and Politics: Challenges for Today." The forum will be chaired by Suzanne Shub, public affairs director for WMU.

She will introduce a videotape titled "We Just Want to Get Away," which depicts a typical situation of sexual assault by an acquaintance. The tape, which was made at the Center for Women's Services, will allow a discussion on how sexual assault causes victims to become more assertive and become more assertive rather than aggrasive.

According to a publication by the Center for Women's Services, date rape is often underestimated by the victim on a personal level. The victim is willing to accept the abuse to avoid facing the social setting. "It is date rape is part of acquaintance rape—any circumstance in which one person uses verbal or physical means to force that person to perform a sexual act. Date rape accounts for an estimated 60 percent of all rapes, and the victim uses verbal or physical means to force that person to perform a sexual act.

Date rape accounts for an estimated 60 percent of all rapes, and the victim uses verbal or physical means to force that person to perform a sexual act. Date rape accounts for an estimated 60 percent of all rapes, and the victim uses verbal or physical means to force that person to perform a sexual act.

"We want men to be aware of the question of date rape," says Allene W. Dierichs, Center for Women's Services.

"If there’s not an understanding of what it means, they could be surprised by being arrested and charged with the crime.

She added that rape victims do not have to prove they screamed or physically resisted in order to prosecute.

"We have to have a full societal value change toward drugs and alcohol abuse," explains Simpson. "And I don’t think the overall views of drug use have been radically altered. It’s as if we have been made to believe that but they must be consistently crossed out across our society.

Simpson believes society’s attitude toward drugs can be changed by having positive role models in teenagers’ peer groups, their immediate generational group, another group, and parental group.

"Number one is society—the image of drug dealers who have Big cars and money and they are able to impact the inner-city youth very young," says Simpson. "Then it’s as long as we have parents who say, ‘Don’t use drugs,’ but who sit there and pump the reminisce and alcohol—that’s a very poor role model.”

Simpson says while the ultimate responsibility for combating drug abuse may rest with the family and educators, the federal government must have a continuous effort in battling the drug problem.

"I think in order to provide that education, there has to be a federal thrust," says Simpson. "And obviously, for a federal policy, it will involve funding and programming beyond the election year." Forum to feature two former governors

Former Michigan governor G. Mennen Williams and George Romney will be featured in a "Governor's Forum" Tuesday, Sept. 30, at the Fetzer Center. Williams, who is currently chief justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, is scheduled to speak at 1 p.m. on "Reflections on the Office of the Michigan Governor, Yesterday and Today.

They will address the audience on "Women and the Michigan Political System—at First A Governor, Recollects," at 2 p.m. on "Women in Power and Politics: Challenges for Today." The forum will be chaired by Suzanne Shub, public affairs director for WMU.

She will introduce a videotape titled "We Just Want to Get Away," which depicts a typical situation of sexual assault by an acquaintance. The tape, which was made at the Center for Women's Services, will allow a discussion on how sexual assault causes victims to become more assertive and become more assertive rather than aggrasive.

According to a publication by the Center for Women's Services, date rape is often underestimated by the victim on a personal level. The victim is willing to accept the abuse to avoid facing the social setting. "It is date rape is part of acquaintance rape—any circumstance in which one person uses verbal or physical means to force that person to perform a sexual act. Date rape accounts for an estimated 60 percent of all rapes, and the victim uses verbal or physical means to force that person to perform a sexual act.

"We want men to be aware of the question of date rape," says Allene W. Dierichs, Center for Women's Services.

"If there’s not an understanding of what it means, they could be surprised by being arrested and charged with the crime.

She added that rape victims do not have to prove they screamed or physically resisted in order to prosecute.

"We have to have a full societal value change toward drugs and alcohol abuse," explains Simpson. "And I don’t think the overall views of drug use have been radically altered. It’s as if we have been made to believe that but they must be consistently crossed out across our society.

Simpson believes society’s attitude toward drugs can be changed by having positive role models in teenagers’ peer groups, their immediate generational group, another group, and parental group.

"Number one is society—the image of drug dealers who have Big cars and money and they are able to impact the inner-city youth very young," says Simpson. "Then it’s as long as we have parents who say, ‘Don’t use drugs,’ but who sit there and pump the reminisce and alcohol—that’s a very poor role model.”

Simpson says while the ultimate responsibility for combating drug abuse may rest with the family and educators, the federal government must have a continuous effort in battling the drug problem.

"I think in order to provide that education, there has to be a federal thrust," says Simpson. "And obviously, for a federal policy, it will involve funding and programming beyond the election year." Forum to feature two former governors

Former Michigan governor G. Mennen Williams and George Romney will be featured in a "Governor's Forum" Tuesday, Sept. 30, at the Fetzer Center. Williams, who is currently chief justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, is scheduled to speak at 1 p.m. on "Reflections on the Office of the Michigan Governor, Yesterday and Today.

They will address the audience on "Women and the Michigan Political System—at First A Governor, Recollects," at 2 p.m. on "Women in Power and Politics: Challenges for Today." The forum will be chaired by Suzanne Shub, public affairs director for WMU.

She will introduce a videotape titled "We Just Want to Get Away," which depicts a typical situation of sexual assault by an acquaintance. The tape, which was made at the Center for Women's Services, will allow a discussion on how sexual assault causes victims to become more assertive and become more assertive rather than aggrasive.

According to a publication by the Center for Women's Services, date rape is often underestimated by the victim on a personal level. The victim is willing to accept the abuse to avoid facing the social setting. "It is date rape is part of acquaintance rape—any circumstance in which one person uses verbal or physical means to force that person to perform a sexual act. Date rape accounts for an estimated 60 percent of all rapes, and the victim uses verbal or physical means to force that person to perform a sexual act.

"We want men to be aware of the question of date rape," says Allene W. Dierichs, Center for Women's Services.

"If there’s not an understanding of what it means, they could be surprised by being arrested and charged with the crime.

She added that rape victims do not have to prove they screamed or physically resisted in order to prosecute.

"We have to have a full societal value change toward drugs and alcohol abuse," explains Simpson. "And I don’t think the overall views of drug use have been radically altered. It’s as if we have been made to believe that but they must be consistently crossed out across our society.

Simpson believes society’s attitude toward drugs can be changed by having positive role models in teenagers’ peer groups, their immediate generational group, another group, and parental group.

"Number one is society—the image of drug dealers who have Big cars and money and they are able to impact the inner-city youth very young," says Simpson. "Then it’s as long as we have parents who say, ‘Don’t use drugs,’ but who sit there and pump the reminisce and alcohol—that’s a very poor role model.”

Simpson says while the ultimate responsibility for combating drug abuse may rest with the family and educators, the federal government must have a continuous effort in battling the drug problem.

"I think in order to provide that education, there has to be a federal thrust," says Simpson. "And obviously, for a federal policy, it will involve funding and programming beyond the election year."
Faculty, staff invited to Medallion reception

Faculty and staff members are invited to attend this year's Medallion Scholars reception at 4 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 25, in the Fetzer Center. Persons are requested to re-point by calling 3-4972 if they plan to at-end.

The event, sponsored by the Medallion Scholarship Committee, will include remarks by E. Thomas Lawson, religion, chairperson of the committees, and President Haenssle. This year's seven Medallion Scholars, their parents, representatives of their donors and committee members also have been invited to attend.

Each of this year's Medallion Scholars has been asked to speak, as have representative scholars of each of the previous

Medallion Scholarship is valued at $20,000 for four years without regard to need. Funds come from private donors, in whose name the scholarship is awarded.
The first Medallion Scholarships were awarded in 1984.

Polish scholar to speak

"East-West Tensions and the Third World" will be the topic of a lecture by Sławomir Magala, a visiting speaker from Poland, at 3:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 25, in the Honors College lounge in Hillside West.

Activities sponsored by faculty development

The Office of Faculty Development has organized three activities for next week.

The Antgon Group will meet from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 25, in the first floor lounge of Sprat Tower. The group will to discuss and Demis-Synch signal tapes. Organization and planning for the coming year also are on the agenda.
New members are invited.

Also on Sept. 25, the first in a series of orientation seminars for new faculty members will be from 3 to 5 p.m. in Red Rooms A and B of the Berghard Student Center. The seminars will provide participants with information about the audience participation and the following

Panel discussion to feature Soviet physicians

A panel presentation featuring four physicians from the Soviet Union is scheduled for 3:30-5:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept.
25, in 105-106 Bernhard Student Center.

A surgeon, biochemist, hematologist and the director of a public health institute will make up the panel. All are members of the International Physicians for Nuclear Disarmament.

After the panel, two Western faculty members will respond. They are Larry D. Opitz, physics, and Ronald C.
Kramer, sociology.

Topics to be discussed include: a Soviet physician's perspective on the prevention of nuclear war; the prevention of nuclear war as a physician's professional duty; the possibility of effective hematological aid after the use of nuclear weapons; and a hygienic evaluation of the consequences of both nuclear war.

The event is being sponsored by the Graduate Board of the Physicians for Social Responsibility in cooperation with Western's College of Health and Human Services.

New Year's Day, Thursday, 1/1/87.
Friday before Easter, Friday, 4/17/87.

Labor Day, Monday, 9/1/86.

Labor Day, Monday, 9/1/86.

New Year's Day, Thursday, 1/1/87.
Friday before Easter, Friday, 4/17/87.

New Year's Day, Thursday, 1/1/87.
Friday before Easter, Friday, 4/17/87.

Winter closure

New Year's Day, Monday, 1/1/87.

New Year's Day, Thursday, 1/1/87.
Friday before Easter, Friday, 4/17/87.

Winter closure

New Year's Day, Monday, 1/1/87.

December 24, 1987, at 3:00 p.m. Thursday,

December 24, 1987, at 3:00 p.m. Thursday,

Saturday, Nov. 28, 1987, at 3:00 p.m. Thursday,

Saturday, Nov. 28, 1987, at 3:00 p.m. Thursday,

Saturday, Nov. 28, 1987, at 3:00 p.m. Thursday,

Saturday, Nov. 28, 1987, at 3:00 p.m. Thursday,

Saturday, Nov. 28, 1987, at 3:00 p.m. Thursday,
Calendar

SEPTEMBER

Thursday/3

(8 a.m. - 6 p.m.) Hispanic Heritage Week: Art exhibit, second floor lobby of Miller Auditorium, 8 a.m. - 6 p.m.; Hispanic Music Fest, Thurs., Sept. 18, in front of Miller Auditorium, 4 - 8 p.m.; keynote speech Fri., Sept. 19, "The News Media and Hispanics," John Quinones, ABC news correspondent based in Miami, Red Room, Bernhard Student Center, 10 a.m.

Friday/4

Staff training seminar, "Courtesy in Business," 204 Bernhard Student Center, 8:30 - 11:30 a.m.

Monday/7

Exhibition of "Handmade Paper," Sally Ross, Central Michigan University, Subway Gallery, Knauss Hall, Mon., 9 a.m. - 4 p.m.

Academic Computer Center workshop, "Introduction to MS-DOS," 2:03 Mayhee Hall, 1 - 2:30 p.m.; prerequisite: "Introduction to the VAXCluster," or equivalent experience.

Meeting, Graduate Studies Council of the Faculty Senate, Conference Room A, Snibert Administration Building, 3 p.m.

Academic Computer Center workshop, "Introduction to SED," 2:03 Mayhee Hall, 3:45 - 5 p.m.; prerequisite: "Introduction to the VAXCluster," DECSystem-10 or equivalent experience.

"Espanol Bowl," auditorium, Brown Hall, 7 p.m.

Student Entertainment Committee sponsors comedian Sid Youngers, Milwaukee, Wis., Hardee's Bernhard Student Center, 8 p.m.

Friday/10

Computer Academic Center workshop, "Introduction to EDT," 2:03 Mayhee Hall, 9:10 - 5:40 a.m.; prerequisite: "Introduction to the VAXCluster," or equivalent experience.

Faculty/craft bowling league, Bernhard Student Center, 4 p.m.

• Volleyball, WMU vs. Miami, Red Fieldhouse, 7:30 p.m.

• Film, "Manhattan," 2:50 and 7:30 Knauss Hall, 7 p.m.

• Film, "The Gods Must Be Crazy," 3:30 and 7:30 Knauss Hall, 8 and 9:30 p.m.

Saturday/11

• Football, WMU vs. California State University at Long Beach, Waldo Stadium, 1 p.m.

• Film, "The Gods Must Be Crazy," 3:30 and 7:30 Knauss Hall, 7 p.m.

• Volleyball, WMU vs. Ball State, Red Fieldhouse, 7:30 p.m.

• Film, "Manhattan," 3:30 and 7:30 Knauss Hall, 8 and 9:30 p.m.

Monday/13

(2 p.m.) Applications due for acceptance to business administration curriculum (10 a.m. - 4 p.m.) North Hall lobby.

• Project EXCITE workshops, "Introduction to Desktop Publishing," Callit Manuscript Hall, 8 - 10 a.m.; prerequisite: "Introduction to Macintosh," or equivalent knowledge of Macintosh computer graphics, word processing and electronic printing.

• Academic Computer Center part one of three-part workshop, "Introduction to SPSS," 2:03 Mayhee Hall, 2:30 - 5:30 p.m.; prerequisite: attendance at an editor such as EDT, SED or SOS, and some experience using the VAXCluster or DECSystem-10.

• Academic Computer Center workshop, "Introduction to EDT," 2:03 Mayhee Hall, 3:45 - 5:45 p.m.; prerequisite: "Introduction to the VAXCluster," or equivalent experience.

Tuesday/14

(10 a.m.) Computer EXCITE workshops, "Introduction to Apple Microcomputers," 109 Mayhee Hall, 9 - 11 a.m.

(3 p.m.) Exhibition, "The Spirituality of Color Series of Drawings," Ttranfilios D. Argyroupolos, art, Gallery II, Sangen Hall, 3:30 - 7:30 p.m., reception, Sept. 23, 5 - 7 p.m.

• Academic Computer Center, part two of two-part workshop, "Introduction to WordPerfect," 2:03 Mayhee Hall, 1 - 2:30 p.m.; prerequisite: prior experience using microcomputers.

• Project EXCITE workshops, "Introduction to Apple Macintosh Computers," 102 Mayhee Hall, 1 - 3 p.m.

• Orientation for new faculty members, Red Rooms A and B, Bernhard Student Center, 3:30 - 5 p.m.

• Anast Group Colloquium, "Hemi-Synch Signal Tapes," 12th floor lounge, Sprague Tower, 3:30 - 5:30 p.m.

Demonstration, "Printmaking," Steve Murakishi, Cranbrook, 1506 Sangen Hall, 1 - 4 p.m.

LEGISLATIVE STAFF VISIT—Staff members of the Michigan Legislature visited campus on Sept. 15 at the invitation of the Office of Governmental Relations and Communications. Here, Gregory B. Loomis, left, Computer Aided Engineering Center, demonstrates the laboratory in Kohrman Hall for the BRAVO project, a cooperative computer-aided design and manufacturing system between the College of Business, College of Engineering, and sciences and industry. The visitors are, from left: Ellis Jeffries, chief analyst, education and economic development unit, Senate Fiscal Agency; Stephen Smith, legislative analyst, Senate Fiscal Agency; and legislative staff: Frank Bernardo, research staff; and Steven Webster, associate director and fiscal analyst, House Fiscal Agency. The visit concluded with a discussion with Hauretik and a tour of the campus, including the Dalton Center and McCracken Hall.

Panel presentation by members of the International Physicians for Prevention of Nuclear War from the Soviet Union, 109 - 106 Bernhard Student Center, 2:30 - 4:30 p.m.

Workshop, "College Dating and Expectations," Suzanne Shaub, public safety, Red Rooms A and B, Bernhard Student Center, 7:30 p.m.

Wednesday/24

Videoconference, "In-Process Control for Manufacturing," Petzer Center Auditorium, 11 a.m. - 4 p.m.

School of Social Work orientation and luncheon for field instructors, Wini Ballroom, Bernhard Student Center, 12:15 - 2:30 p.m.

School of Music convocation series, trumpet and organ recital, James Krech, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and Jay Peterson, MacMurray College, Jacksonville, Ill., assisted by Stephen Jones, music, Dalton Center Reception Hall, 2 p.m.

• Academic Computer Center part two of three-part workshop, "Introduction to SPSS," 2:03 Mayhee Hall, 2:30 - 5:30 p.m.; prerequisite: knowledge of a text editor such as EDT, SED or SOS, and some experience using the VAXCluster or DECSystem-10.

• Retirement open house for Carl H. Schleewebe, University libraries, the Oaksland, 2 - 4 p.m.

Thursday/25

Academic Computer Center, part one of two-part workshop, "Introduction to WordPerfect," 2:03 Mayhee Hall, 9:15-10:40 a.m.; prerequisite: prior experience using microcomputers.

• Lecture, "Early Civilization: The Western and the Third World," Slawomir Magala, Polish Academy of Science, Honors College lounge, Hillside West, 3:30 - 5:30 p.m.

• Doctoral oral examination, "Experiencing Scale Discrimination Between More and Less Prevalent Psychosocial Symptoms," Drs. Davis L. Hager, counselor education and counseling psychology, Merz Tate Conference Room, 10-11 a.m.

• Receptions in honor of Medallion Scholars, William H. Halkin, "Introduction to Music," 2:03 Mayhee Hall, 10 a.m. - 11 a.m.

• Film, "Modern Times," 2750 Knauss Hall, 4:15 p.m. and 8 p.m.

[Thursday thru Oct. 30] Conference "Alive and Aware," Linda Sloss, Concord College, co-chair Women's Services, 7 a.m. - 9 a.m.

• Volleyball, WMU vs. Illinois, Red Fieldhouse, 7:30 p.m.

• Cornellian Life Lecture in Medieval Studies, "Sorbonne Cathedral and Its Architectural Origins," Ann Prache, Sorbonne University, 1010 Fetzer Center, 8 p.m.

Amendment charged.

Fifth annual Espanol Bowl set for today

The fifth annual "Espanol Bowl" for high school Spanish students from Southwest Michigan will be conducted at 7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 18, in the auditorium of Brown Hall.

Organized by Western's Department of Languages and Linguistics, the tournament runs along the same lines as the College Bowl Quiz Show, but "with one significant difference," according to Robert J. Giffin, a professor in the department and master of ceremonies for the event. "This contest is singularly free of competitiveness since neither students nor schools compete against each other," he says. "Teachers keep track of the number of correct responses by each participant who has been pledged support in varying amounts by a variety of sponsors. The money earned will be used to defray the expense of a trip to a Spanish-speaking country this year. At root, there is a great spirit of camaraderie among the contestants, with everyone rooting for everyone else."

Participating will be second and third level Spanish students from seven area schools: Allegan, Battle Creek Lakeside, Comstock, Galion-Burghaj, Gull Lake, Portage and Vicksburg.

"The event has had very positive results both for the high schools and this University here," says Griffin. "Teachers have found that the Espanol Bowl gives both direction and incentive to the vital review of grammar and vocabulary necessary at the beginning of the second and third years of language study."

First Low Lecture set

Ann Prache, a faculty member at the Sorbonne University in Paris, will deliver the first Cornellian Low Lecture in Medieval Studies at 8 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 23, in 1010 Fetzer Center. Her lecture, titled "Sorbonne Cathedral and Its Architectural Origins," will be accompanied by slides.

Prache is a member of the archaeology and art history faculty at the Sorbonne and has published widely in the field of 12th-13th century French architecture, sculpture and stained glass.

The lecture series has been established by the Department of Languages and Linguistics to honor the memory of John Low, a former professor and chairman of the Department of Languages and Linguistics, who died in 1958. The series is sponsored by the Honors College Institute of Medieval Studies, the Institute of Medieval Studies and the Institute of Cisterian Studies.

The lectures will be delivered by scholars from Europe and North America to supplement the offerings of the departments that contribute to the academic program coordinated by the Medieval Institute.

The lecture will be followed by a reception for Prache and Low.