Off-campus total up by 13.6 percent

Enrollment for the fall semester in the Division of Continuing Education reached 2,255, up 13.6 percent over last fall’s total of 1,968.

This number brings Western’s total fall enrollment to 21,747, up 3.7 percent over last fall’s total of 20,963, and the largest enrollment at Western in five years.

“These numbers reflect great confidence in the educational environment of the broader spectrum of people,” said Susan B. Harmon, assistant vice president for academic affairs.

She and Dean Richard T. Burke, commuting education, attribute the healthy increase in off-campus enrollment to renewed interest in education and Western’s ability to respond to it.

“This fall in West Michigan, WMU is delivering 215 courses offered by 40 academic units in 17 communities through six regional centers,” Burke said. “Few institutions can match that.

“Many of our students work full-time, making Western’s the second largest extension service in the state.”

Western has regional centers in Battle Creek, Benton Harbor-St. Joseph, Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, and Traverse City, Michigan.

Eighty percent of Western’s off-campus courses are offered by the college’s 13 undergraduate units and faculty members. The remainder are taught by qualified part-time and adjunct faculty members.

La Quinta establishes $10,000 scholarship fund

La Quinta Motor Inns Inc. of San Antonio, Texas, has established a $10,000 endowed scholarship fund at Western and announced a plan to assist the University in supporting it.

David B. Davis, executive vice president and chief operating officer of La Quinta, presented an initial contribution of $2,500 to President Haenicke Sept. 25.

In addition to the $2,500, Davis said La Quinta will contribute 10 percent of the gross revenue from any hotel or group meeting at any but a few of La Quinta’s 200 inns across the country on University-related travel.

The exceptions are 10 franchised inns.

To generate the contribution, persons must identify their Western affiliation when checking in at the Kalamazoo inn.

When staying elsewhere, employees generate the contribution by providing a La Quinta receipt upon returning through the University’s travel-voucher procedure.

The scholarship will be administered through the WMU Foundation’s Office of Student Financial Aid and Scholarships.

Only the earnings from the endowment will be used for the scholarship.

Western will award the first scholarship when the fund reaches $5,000.

The stipulations of the scholarship will be made by the University Scholarship Committee and are expected to be based on academic ability.

Each scholarship will be awarded for one year and rotated among Western’s college of education.

The amount of each scholarship will vary according to the amount of money in the fund, but it is expected that scholarships will be in the range of $200 to $500 each.

help with reading close at hand in college on campus

Learning how to read—or how to read better—is just a phone call away. But that isn’t the only help available to people who are illiterate, says Joseph R. Chapell, director of Western’s Reading Center and Clinic.

Chapel says society has attached a stigma to persons who are unable to read and they are often viewed as being stupid or inferior. As a result, Chapel says many of these people suffer from low self-esteem.

“Over and over again we hear from people who have tried a number of things to get up to enough courage to call the clinic and come for our services,” says Chapel, who directs the training laboratory offered through the clinic.

No one is really certain just how many Americans are illiterate, partly because some studies base their figures on written surveys, rather than oral. However, Chapel estimates between 18 and 25 million Americans—or 3 percent of the population—have to do with a 1980 study by the University of Haenicke to address CTO

President Haenicke will speak at the next meeting for therapists.

Chapel has also directed the training Laboratory at the University; he is the Regional Coordinator at 11:45 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 27, at the Red Room of the Bernhard Student Center.

He will speak on: “The Role of the University’s Support Staff.”

At Western, the first three of the University are invited to attend the meeting, which will be held from 12:45 p.m.

“Law Day” is Oct. 8

Pre-Law student sponsors will meet from 2 to 2:30 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 8, in the South Ballroom of the Bernhard Student Center.

Attorneys are being recruited for the Western district of Michigan, will speak from 2 to 3:30 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 8, in the South Ballroom of the Bernhard Student Center.

Attorneys are being recruited for the Western district of Michigan, will speak from 2 to 3:30 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 8, in the South Ballroom of the Bernhard Student Center.

Help with reading close at hand in college on campus

Learning how to read—or how to read better—is just a phone call away. But that isn’t the only help available to people who are illiterate, says Joseph R. Chapell, director of Western’s Reading Center and Clinic.

Chapel says society has attached a stigma to persons who are unable to read and they are often viewed as being stupid or inferior. As a result, Chapel says many of these people suffer from low self-esteem.

“Over and over again we hear from people who have tried a number of things to get up to enough courage to call the clinic and come for our services,” says Chapel, who directs the training laboratory offered through the clinic.

No one is really certain just how many Americans are illiterate, partly because some studies base their figures on written surveys, rather than oral. However, Chapel estimates between 18 and 25 million Americans—or 3 percent of the population—have to do with a 1980 study by the University of Haenicke to address CTO

President Haenicke will speak at the next meeting for therapists.

Chapel has also directed the training Laboratory at the University; he is the Regional Coordinator at 11:45 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 27, at the Red Room of the Bernhard Student Center.

He will speak on: “The Role of the University’s Support Staff.”

At Western, the first three of the University are invited to attend the meeting, which will be held from 12:45 p.m.

“Law Day” is Oct. 8

Pre-Law student sponsors will meet from 2 to 2:30 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 8, in the South Ballroom of the Bernhard Student Center.

Attorneys are being recruited for the Western district of Michigan, will speak from 2 to 3:30 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 8, in the South Ballroom of the Bernhard Student Center.

Help with reading close at hand in college on campus

Learning how to read—or how to read better—is just a phone call away. But that isn’t the only help available to people who are illiterate, says Joseph R. Chapell, director of Western’s Reading Center and Clinic.

Chapel says society has attached a stigma to persons who are unable to read and they are often viewed as being stupid or inferior. As a result, Chapel says many of these people suffer from low self-esteem.

“Over and over again we hear from people who have tried a number of things to get up to enough courage to call the clinic and come for our services,” says Chapel, who directs the training laboratory offered through the clinic.

No one is really certain just how many Americans are illiterate, partly because some studies base their figures on written surveys, rather than oral. However, Chapel estimates between 18 and 25 million Americans—or 3 percent of the population—have to do with a 1980 study by the University of Haenicke to address CTO

President Haenicke will speak at the next meeting for therapists.

Chapel has also directed the training Laboratory at the University; he is the Regional Coordinator at 11:45 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 27, at the Red Room of the Bernhard Student Center.

He will speak on: “The Role of the University’s Support Staff.”

At Western, the first three of the University are invited to attend the meeting, which will be held from 12:45 p.m.

“Law Day” is Oct. 8

Pre-Law student sponsors will meet from 2 to 2:30 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 8, in the South Ballroom of the Bernhard Student Center.

Attorneys are being recruited for the Western district of Michigan, will speak from 2 to 3:30 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 8, in the South Ballroom of the Bernhard Student Center.

Help with reading close at hand in college on campus

Learning how to read—or how to read better—is just a phone call away. But that isn’t the only help available to people who are illiterate, says Joseph R. Chapell, director of Western’s Reading Center and Clinic.

Chapel says society has attached a stigma to persons who are unable to read and they are often viewed as being stupid or inferior. As a result, Chapel says many of these people suffer from low self-esteem.

“Over and over again we hear from people who have tried a number of things to get up to enough courage to call the clinic and come for our services,” says Chapel, who directs the training laboratory offered through the clinic.

No one is really certain just how many Americans are illiterate, partly because some studies base their figures on written surveys, rather than oral. However, Chapel estimates between 18 and 25 million Americans—or 3 percent of the population—have to do with a 1980 study by the University of Haenicke to address CTO

President Haenicke will speak at the next meeting for therapists.

Chapel has also directed the training Laboratory at the University; he is the Regional Coordinator at 11:45 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 27, at the Red Room of the Bernhard Student Center.

He will speak on: “The Role of the University’s Support Staff.”

At Western, the first three of the University are invited to attend the meeting, which will be held from 12:45 p.m.

“Law Day” is Oct. 8

Pre-Law student sponsors will meet from 2 to 2:30 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 8, in the South Ballroom of the Bernhard Student Center.

Attorneys are being recruited for the Western district of Michigan, will speak from 2 to 3:30 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 8, in the South Ballroom of the Bernhard Student Center.

Help with reading close at hand in college on campus

Learning how to read—or how to read better—is just a phone call away. But that isn’t the only help available to people who are illiterate, says Joseph R. Chapell, director of Western’s Reading Center and Clinic.

Chapel says society has attached a stigma to persons who are unable to read and they are often viewed as being stupid or inferior. As a result, Chapel says many of these people suffer from low self-esteem.

“Over and over again we hear from people who have tried a number of things to get up to enough courage to call the clinic and come for our services,” says Chapel, who directs the training laboratory offered through the clinic.

No one is really certain just how many Americans are illiterate, partly because some studies base their figures on written surveys, rather than oral. However, Chapel estimates between 18 and 25 million Americans—or 3 percent of the population—have to do with a 1980 study by the University of Haenicke to address CTO

President Haenicke will speak at the next meeting for therapists.

Chapel has also directed the training Laboratory at the University; he is the Regional Coordinator at 11:45 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 27, at the Red Room of the Bernhard Student Center.

He will speak on: “The Role of the University’s Support Staff.”

At Western, the first three of the University are invited to attend the meeting, which will be held from 12:45 p.m.

“Law Day” is Oct. 8

Pre-Law student sponsors will meet from 2 to 2:30 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 8, in the South Ballroom of the Bernhard Student Center.

Attorneys are being recruited for the Western district of Michigan, will speak from 2 to 3:30 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 8, in the South Ballroom of the Bernhard Student Center.
Two October 2, 1986 Western News

SCHOLARS RECOGNIZED—This year's Medallion Scholars were honored at a reception Sept. 25 in the Fetzer Center. Here, Amy L. Dysktra, seated center, and her family meet her scholarship donors, Trustee Charles H. Ludlow of Kalamazoo, seated right, and his wife, Marion L. Ludlow, seated left. The Ludlows, both graduates of Western, funded a scholarship to recognize academic excellence and leadership in the field of education. Dysktra, a freshman from Hudsonville, is majoring in secondary education. She is surrounded by her family, standing from left, grandparents Eugene and Lorraine McCluskey of Jenison and parents Karen and Jim Dysktra of Hudsonville. Beside this year's scholar, all 13 of the Medallion winners from 1984 and 1985 were present at the event, as well as other parents, donors, members of the Medallion Scholarship Committee and faculty and staff members. President Hanshaw and E. Thomas Lawson, chairman of religion and of the scholarship committee, spoke at the event. Each Medallion Scholarship is valued at $20,000 for four years without regard to need. Funds come from private donors, in whose name the scholarship is awarded.

Board approves retirements of 23 faculty, staff

The Board of Trustees approved the retirements of 18 faculty members and the recognized the retirements of five staff members at its meeting Sept. 19.

Faculty members granted retirement with emeritus status, along with their years of service and effective dates of retirement, were: Paul C. Cuczyna, speech pathology and audiology, 19 year, effective Dec. 23; retirements of faculty member and of service and effective date of retirement, with emeritus tag, along with their year member at meeting Sept. 19.

Board approves retirements of 23 faculty, staff were: Paul Czuchna, pathology and technology, 22 year, effective Dec. 31.

Rayl Jr., industrial engineering, 21 year, effective Apr. 25; Wallace Fillingham, computer technology, 31 year, effective Dec. 31.

Murray to speak Oct. 9 on medical ethics

"Conflicts Between Parents and Fetus" will be the subject of a free lecture by Thomas H. Murray at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 9, in the Fetzer Center.

Murray is an associate professor in the Institute for the Medical Humanities at the University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston. He will discuss a number of issues including forced cesarians, institutional fetal protection policies and health behavior considerations such as smoking, drinking and nutrition, as well as their relation to law, medicine, ethics and public policy.

Since 1980, Murray has been the recipient of more than $500,000 in grant support for his research. His studies center on ethics and health policy, newborn care, prenatal care, occupational health and genetics.

Faculty, staff can participate in exchange

All bargaining unit faculty members and full-time professional and administrative staff members are invited to participate in exchanges with other institutions through the National Faculty Exchange.

Western is a member of the exchange, a network of 130 colleges and universities that promotes and coordinates faculty and staff exchanges nationwide. The philosophy of the group is that being a visiting professor or administrator is a rewarding experience, both personally and academically. Participants may have the opportunity to teach or attend new courses at the host school, or engage in valuable research in a different type of laboratory or library than their home school offers.

Lunch planned for faculty

Phillip Demenfeld, provost and vice president for academic affairs, will hold a luncheon for all newly tenured and promoted faculty members at noon Tuesday, Oct. 7, in the President's Dining Room of the Bernhard Student Center.

Fellowship prize winner to appear on videotape

The tape features Ken Wilson, Nobel Prize winner, talking about "Gibbs Project: Software Productivity for Scientists and Engineers."

The tape will be shown at 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 8, and at 2 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 9. All showings will be in 4490 Dubuque Hall. The presentations last about 50 minutes.

Murray is the author of numerous articles on topics ranging from who fetal protection policies really protect to state legislation and the handicapped newborn. He has presented lectures and papers across the country.

While in Kalamazoo, Murray will also meet with faculty and students, the Kalamazoo Academy of Medicine, the Kalamazoo Bar Association and the leadership of the Southwest Michigan Health Systems Agency.

His visit is being sponsored by the Center for the Study of Ethics in Society and the College of Health and Human Services; the Kalamazoo Bar Association; the Kalamazoo Academy of Medicine; and the Southwest Michigan Health Systems Agency.
Speakers address alcohol, drug abuse

The national issues of drug and alcohol abuse have prompted local educators and administrators to come together to address the many factors and causes of the problem from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Oct. 6, in the West Ballroom of the Bernhard Student Center.

Speaking will be Robert Grandy, senior therapist at Gateway Villa; Karen Kasenov, program coordinator in the Substance Abuse Division of the Michigan Department of Human Services; and Chris Branch, police coordinator for Treatment Alternatives to Street Crime.

Payne Smith, education and professional development, Career and Counseling. Registration is limited to 20 persons. For more information, persons may call the Office of Faculty Development at 3-1337.

Applications due Oct. 15 for research fund

The deadline for proposals for this year's Faculty Research and Creative Activities Fund is Wednesday, Oct. 15. Proposals are due in Research and Sponsored Programs no later than 4:30 p.m. For off-campus applicants, an Oct. 15 postmark will suffice.

Application forms and guidelines will be mailed to all faculty Sept. 9. Additional forms are available in Research and Sponsored Programs, 211 Ellsworth Hall.

For more information, persons may contact Nancy E. Struck, fund coordinator, at 3-1083 or write to the Faculty Research and Creative Activities Fund at A-221 Ellsworth Hall.

Information, PLEASE—Providing information to callers and people who stop by is part of the job of Juan M. Putman, an operator in the Information Center/Telepone Service. She works on the switchboard, answering the University's main telephone number during the afternoons and evenings. Many of the calls she handles are people asking for student telephone numbers, or others calling for information on events and campus recreational activities. She also works at the Information Center window in Seiber Administration Building. In addition, she helps with sending out the inter-office telephone bills.

"There isn't much I don't like about my job," she says. "It's fun—I get to meet a lot of new people." She also works with TEL-U, a library of 145 tapes on a variety of subjects. "People can buy a tape and request. When not at the office, she enjoys playing piano and the violin. She performs on the latter with the Kamalolz Chamber Orchestra.

Media services

Media services has joined the Health Services, Career and Counseling, and the Student Employment Office to create a Media Sharing Network. The network provides an opportunity to share video and slide programs with colleagues in the health and human services area.

Thus far, media services has provided the network with two videotapes: "It's Never Too Early: Health Promotion and Disease Prevention in Infancy" and "Multicide 75: Psychological Disorders." These were produced by media services in cooperation with the College of Health and Human Services.

The catalog for the media sharing network and the first program are expected to arrive in October. For more information, persons may call media services at 3-4972.

On Campus

Career and Life Planning Workshops offered

The Office of Faculty Development will sponsor a series of Career and Life Planning Workshops for faculty and staff members and their spouses during October.

The workshops will focus on lifestyle workstyle and future planning.

Three workshops are scheduled for October:

Session I—Wednesday, Oct. 7, in Faculty Senate, Oct. 7, in the Faculty Lounge of the Bernhard Student Center. All will be from 5 to 8 p.m.

The workshop leaders will be Carol Conley and the Career Planning Consultant.

Reception planned for graduate students

New graduate students, graduate advisers and administrators are invited to attend a wine and cheese reception from 3 to 5 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 9, in the Radisson in the Radisson area of the Bernhard Student Center.

This event will be open to the public free of charge.

Media

Elder C. Quandt, chairperson of geography, highlighted some of the autumn tourist attractions and events around Michigan, on "Focus," a five-minute radio program produced by the Office of Public Information Services.

The program is scheduled to air Sunday, Oct. 4, at 6:30 a.m. and from 1 to 6 p.m., and from 6 to 12:25 p.m. on WZOE-AM (900).

Media services

Media services has joined the Health Services, Career and Counseling, and the Student Employment Office to create a Media Sharing Network. The network provides an opportunity to share video and slide programs with colleagues in the health and human services area.

Thus far, media services has provided the network with two videotapes: "It's Never Too Early: Health Promotion and Disease Prevention in Infancy" and "Multicide 75: Psychological Disorders." These were produced by media services in cooperation with the College of Health and Human Services.

The catalog for the media sharing network and the first program are expected to arrive in October. For more information, persons may call media services at 3-4972.

Jobs

The listing below is currently being posted by the University employment office. Interested regular full-time or part-time employees should submit a job opportunities application during the posting period.

Applications due in Research and Sponsored Programs, 211 Ellsworth Hall.

Senate

The Research Policies Council of the Faculty Senate will meet at 3 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 9, in Conference Room A of the Seiber Administration Building.

Agenda items include a discussion of administrative policies for the Faculty Research and Creative Activities Fund and of setting goals for 1987-88.

Seniors

What is non-impact aerobics? Non-impact aerobics, a distinct form of aerobic exercise, impact, soft or rhythmic aerobics, has evolved in an attempt to eliminate repetitive impact and decrease stress on the joints. During non-impact aerobics, one foot makes contact with the floor only at certain times, while high impact commonly involves continuous contact with the floor. While both feet are off the floor simultaneously.

Who is it for? Anyone interested in currently exercising in aerobics. The key is involving the upper body and using arm movements to keep the heart rate high to help elevate the heart rate and enable you to work within your target heart rate range.

Non-impact aerobics also appeals to those who have avoided traditional high impact aerobics, such as pregnant and elderly persons.

Does it reduce injury? It is too early to know for sure. But numerous instructors and students attest to decreased incidence of injuries, especially those involving the foot, ankle, shin and lower back. No matter which non-impact aerobics is practiced, the most important aspect is that there is a basic form of aerobics.

The knees should be slightly bent, hips tucked under, abdominal muscle contracted and the spine aligned correctly with the body. Avoid hyperflexing and hyperextending any joints especially the knees and lower back.

Identification in banking administration from the Institute of Financial Education in Chicago. She replaces Victoria Y. Blackmon, who has accepted a position in the employment office of the Stroh Brewing Co. in Detroit.

Also new to WMU's employment office is Janey E. Brown, employment representative, who transferred in August from the Specialty Program in Alcohol and Drug Abuse (SPADA). In that office, she served as an administrative assistant with fiscal and other responsibilities for the grant from Michigan Consortium on Substance Abuse Education, one of the programs directed by SPADA. Brown received her bachelor's degree in American studies from Western, and is currently working on a master's degree here in industrial psychology.

You need what?

To help you know which office to call for what information, we will again report in detail in forthcoming issues the services provided by each of the six offices of the University personnel department. Concluded on the following pages:

Employment office, 3-0475, administers the University's employment policies. Qualified persons are recruited to supply WMU's workforce by posting job vacancies, receiving internal and external applications, recruiting for Affirmative Action hiring efforts and conducting preliminary pre-employment interviews and tests. The employment office also conducts exit interviews for employees departing the WMU workforce.

Compensation, 3-1650, administers the University Classification and Compensation System for all non-bargaining unit staff; this includes job audits and evaluations, position descriptions, performance reviews, pay schedules and pay raises. This office also determines student pay rates and prorates, and processes employee status change forms and unemployment compensation applications.

Staff benefits, 3-0459, handles WMU fringe benefits such as insurance, retirement plans, leaves of absence and Workers' Compensation.

Records, 3-0515, retains all employee files and data banks, and provides employer identification and employee tuition and dependent remission discounts.

Staff training, 3-1650, plans and implements employee seminars and training programs, and apprenticeship training.

Employee relations, 3-1650, interprets and publishes University personnel policies and procedures, counsels employees and negotiators in contract negotiations and complaints and grievances and administers union contracts.
Calendar

OCTOBER 2

- Thurs 2
  - (thru Oct. 3) Exhibition, “The Spirituality of Color Series of Drawings,” Trinidad D. Acvevopoulos, art, Gallery II, Sangren Hall, 10 a.m.-5 p.m.
  - (and 7 and 9) Project EXCITE workshops, “Introduction to Apple IIe Microcomputers,” 109 Maybe Hall, 9-11 a.m.
  - 34th annual Career Day, sponsored by Alpha Kappa Psi, ballroom, Bernhard Student Center, 10 a.m.-4 p.m.
  - Pre-registered panel sessions, “WLU Retirement Benefits,” Richard Schaper, staff benefits, and Michael Weber, payroll, 204 Bernhard Student Center, 1-3 p.m. (This session reserved for faculty and F/V/A staff members and their spouses)
  - Academic Computer Center workshop, “STATGRAPHICS Primer,” 203 Maybe Hall, 2-5 p.m.
  - Project EXCITE workshop, “Introduction to On-Line Data Base Searching,” 109 Maybe Hall, 3-5 p.m.
  - Meeting, Research Policies Council of the Faculty Senate, Conference Room A, Seiber Administration Building, 3 p.m.
  - Lecture, “What are the Scientific Implications of Some Basic Discoveries,” Herbert Hannan, emeritus, mathematics and statistics, Mathematics Commons Room, Everett Tower, 4:10 p.m. (refreshments, 3:45 p.m.)
  - Film, “The Green Knaves,” 2950 Knau Hall, 4:15 p.m. and 8 p.m.

- (Thursdays thru Oct. 30) Conference “Alive and Aware,” Lindsay Sout, Center for Women’s Services, CWs conference room, third floor, Ellworth Hall, 7-9 p.m.

Friday 3

- Doctoral oral examination, “Development and Evaluation of an Infant-Care Training Program with First-Time Fathers,” Ronald S. Dachman, psychology, 283 Wood Hall, 10 a.m.
- Recital, Michiana Cello Society with guest artist Fritz Magg, Indiana University, Dalton Center Recital Hall, 8 p.m.

- Saturday 4
  - *1986 Tax Act Seminar, Fetzer Center, 9:15 a.m.-3:30 p.m.
  - Master class, Fritz Magg, cellist, Rehearsal Room C, Dalton Center, 1:30 p.m.

- Sunday 5
  - Concert, cello orchestra, Dalton Center Recital Hall, 3 p.m.
  - Discussions, “Students, Creativity and Crack: Myths and Facts,” St. Aidan’s (see the health center), 7 p.m.

Monday 6

- Applications due for “Who’s Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities,” Office of Student Activities, 2420 Faunce Student Services Building
  - (and 13 and 20) Project EXCITE workshops, “Introduction to Desktop Publishing,” 203 Maybe Hall, 8:30-10:30 a.m.; prerequisite: “Introduction to Macintosh” or equivalent knowledge of Macintosh computer graphics, word processors, dBASE database management software
  - (and 13, 20, 27, Nov. 3, 10) Project EXCITE workshops, “Producing Teaching Aids on the Apple IIe,” 109 Maybe Hall, 9-11 a.m.
  - Academic Computer Center part one of two-part workshop, “Introduction to dBASE III,” 203 Maybe Hall, 9-10:50 a.m.; prerequisite: some experience with microcomputers
  - (and 8, 13, 15, 20, 22) Project EXCITE workshop, “Introduction to Apple Macintosh Computer,” 102 Maybe Hall, 11 a.m.-1 p.m.
  - Academic Computer Center workshop, “STATGRAPHICS Primer,” 203 Maybe Hall, 3:45-5 p.m.
  - Seminar on drug and alcohol abuse, West Ballroom, Bernhard Student Center, 7-9 p.m.
  - *Workshop, “Polishing Your Presentation Skills,” Donna Allgair, Christian Words and Pictures, Red Room A, Bernhard Student Center, 7:30 p.m.
  - (and 8, 13, 15, 20, 22) Project EXCITE workshops, “Macintosh Word Processing,” 102 Maybe Hall, 7-9 p.m.

- Center for Study of Ethics in Society lecture, “The Message of Affirmative Action,” Tom Hill Jr., philosophy, University of North Carolina, 3770 Knau Hall, 8 p.m.

Tuesday 7

- Center for the Study of Ethics in Society lecture, “Kant on Practical Reason,” Tom Hill Jr., philosophy, University of North Carolina, 3770 Knau Hall, 10 a.m.; “Weakness of Will and Character,” 3020 Friedmann Hall, 3 p.m.
  - Luchtenberg is the newest tenure and promotion committee members, President’s Dining Room, Bernhard Student Center, noon-1:30 p.m.
  - (and 14 and 21) Project EXCITE workshops, “Introduction to Apple Macintosh Computer,” 102 Maybe Hall, 1-3 p.m.
  - Career and Life Planning Workshop sponsored by the Office of Faculty Development, Carol Payne Smith, education and professional development, and Becky Director of the South African Council of Churches, Martin Luther King Jr. Room, 4-5 p.m.
  - Physics research lecture, “Ion-Surface Charge Exchange as a Source of Short Wave-Length Light,” Rodney Herman and his student, 4-5 p.m.
  - (Tuesdays thru Nov. 11) Conference, “Assertion Training,” Anne Harrison and Connie Lane, Kiva Room, Faunce Student Services, 7-9 p.m.

- Wednesday 8
  - (and 9) 27th annual meeting, Paper Technology Foundation, Inc., Bernhard Student Center, 10 a.m.-4:30 p.m.
  - (and 15 and 22) Project EXCITE workshops, “Courseware Development,” 102 Maybe Hall, 8:30-10:30 a.m.
  - (and 10) Future Computer Systems Lecture Series, videotape, “Gibbs Project: Software Productivity for Scientists and Engineers,” Ken Wilson, Nobel Prize winner, 4900 Dunbar Hall, 9 a.m. and 1 p.m.; Thursday, Oct. 9, 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.
  - (and 15, 22, 29, Nov. 5, 12) Project EXCITE workshops, “Introduction to Apple IIe Microcomputers,” 109 Maybe Hall, 9-11 a.m. and 1-3 p.m.
  - (and 22) Contemporary Basketry Invitational, Gallery II, Sangren Hall, 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.
  - Meeting, Clerical/Technical Organization, Red Rooms, Bernhard Student Center, 11:45 a.m.-12:45 p.m.
  - Oceanic Herbarium Consultative Lecture Series, “Sea Breeze Convergence over South Florida,” John Hein, University of Arkansas, 338 Wood Hall, noon; “Charcoal Production in the Western Highlands of Guatemala,” 338 Wood Hall, 4 p.m.
  - Commission of the Fine Arts, Planning and Facilities, Student musicale, Dalton Center Recital Hall, 2 p.m.
  - “Low Day,” South Ballroom, Bernhard Student Center; speech by John Smietanka, U.S. attorney for the western district of Michigan, 2-2:30 p.m.; representatives from 17 law schools will be available to meet with interested students, 2-3:30 p.m.
  - Orientation for new faculty members, Red Rooms A and B, Bernhard Student Center, 3-5 p.m.
  - Lecture, “Youth in the South African Literature Struggle,” Jacqueline Williams, sociology, 9-10 p.m.

Thur 12

- “You Can’t Take It With You,” Shaw Theatre, 8 p.m. Oct. 8, first nighter’s reception; Oct. 10, post-performance discussion; Oct. 12, matinee, 2 p.m.

- Wednesday thru Nov. 19 workshop, “Search,” Carolyn Kuenster, Center for Women’s Services, Red Room C, Bernhard Student Center, 7-9 p.m.

Thursday 9

- Dedication of addition to McCracken Hall, outside the building (inside in case of rain), 10:30 a.m.

- Writing workshop, preparation of doctoral dissertations, specialist projects, and master’s theses, Graduate College conference room, Seiber Administration Building, 1 p.m.

- Wine and cheese reception for new graduate students, graduate advisors and administrators, Red Rooms, Bernhard Student Center, 3-5 p.m.

- Film, “On the Waterfront,” 2750 Knau Hall, 4:15 p.m. and 8 p.m.

- (and 16, 23, 30, Nov. 6, 13) Project EXCITE workshops, “Introduction to Desktop Printing,” 102 Maybe Hall, 7-9 p.m.; prerequisite: Introduction to Macintosh class or equivalent knowledge of Macintosh computer graphics, word processor, and electronic publishing software.

- Lecture, “Conflicts Between Parents and Fetus,” Thomas H. Murray, Medical Humanities, University of Texas Medical Branch, Galveston, Fetzer Center, 7:30 p.m.

- (Thursdays thru Oct. 30) Workshop, “Taking the Step: Back to Work,” Jean Halefors Foreen, Red Cross conference room, Center for Women’s Services, Ellsworth Hall, 7-9 p.m.

- *Admission charged.

---

Philosopher to lecture on affirmative action

Tom Hill Jr., professor of philosophy at the University of North Carolina, will deliver three addresses on campus next week.

Hill will speak on “The Message of Affirmative Action” at 8 p.m. Monday, Oct. 6, in 3770 Knau Hall.

Waldo-Sangren deadline is Friday, Oct. 31

Sophomores, juniors and seniors with an at least a 3.2 grade point average are invited to apply for Waldo-Sangren Scholarships. Written proposals are due in the Office of Student Financial Aid and Scholarships by Friday, Oct. 31.

The awards range from $250 to $1,000 for an innovative project proposal sponsored by a faculty member. Projects have been funded in disciplines as varied as art, chemistry, music, physical education, history, nutrition, computer science and creative writing.

On Tuesday, Oct. 7, he will speak at 10 a.m. on “Kant on Practical Reason.” At 3 p.m., he will address “Weakness of Will and Character.” Both talks will be in 3020 Friedmann Hall.

Hill has published widely on ethics in many leading philosophical journals. He is currently working on a book on the moral philosophy of Immanuel Kant.

His visit is sponsored by the Center for the Study of Ethics in Society, the Department of Philosophy, the Herdien Society and the Council for Philosophical Studies.

---

Who’s Who’ due Oct. 8

Students who have been nominated for the “Who’s Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities” are reminded to turn in their completed applications along with a copy of their transcript to the Office of Student Activities by Wednesday, Oct. 8.