New committees formed, meetings scheduled

The establishment of the two standing committees of the Board of Trustees and the setting of their first meeting times have been announced. The Hartwell Adams of Grosse Pointe, chairman of the Board.

Minutes of the Academic and Student Affairs Committee were: Trustee Genevra J. Williams, chairperson; Trustee Dr. Winifred D. Fraser of Northville; Trustee Carol A. Wasikiewicz of Kalamazoo; and Assistant Treasurer David A. Hatz of the Board.

Members of the Budget and Finance Committee are: Trustee Charles H. Ladlow of Kalamazoo, chairperson; Trustee Alfred I. Edwards of Ann Arbor; Trustee Barry L. Howard of West Bloomfield; and Trustee Maury E. Partlet of Kalamazoo.

The Budget and Finance Committee will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 19, in the Board Room of the Bernhard Student Center. The Academic and Student Affairs Committee will meet at 8 a.m. Friday, Sept. 20, in the Martin Luther King Jr. Room of the Bernhard Student Center. Both meetings are open to the public.

Board to meet Friday

The next regular meeting of the Board of Trustees will be at 9:30 a.m. Friday, Sept. 20, in the Board Room of the Bernhard Student Center.

Items on the tentative agenda include adoption of monthly gift-and-grant reports, the monthly gift-and-grant report, a recommendation regarding approval of an annual budget for the 1985-86 and a recommendation regarding the University’s 1985-86 General Fund budget.

Reception for Haenicke scheduled for Sept. 20

Fred W. Adams, chairman of the Board of Trustees, extends a cordial invitation to all faculty, emeriti faculty and staff members to attend a reception welcoming President and Mrs. Haenicke to the University from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. Sept. 20, in the South Ballroom of the Bernhard Student Center.

Newly tenured, promoted faculty to be honored

Philip Denfeld, vice president for academic affairs, will host a luncheon to honor newly tenured and promoted faculty members from noon to 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 1, in the President’s Dining Room of the Bernhard Student Center.

Enrollment up for the first time since 1980

For the first time in five years, fall enrollment at Western has increased from the same period of prior years. The fall enrollment of 18,713, up 476 students or 2.4 percent over last year.

The last time WMU’s fall enrollment showed an increase was in 1980, when enrollment rose to 20,698 from 20,689 in 1979.

“Students are very pleased with this increase,” said Susan B. Hannah, assistant director of Admissions.

“Career counselors are working closely with the admissions office to help meet the needs of a more competitive student pool,” Hannah said.

“Most of our new students are very young; many are first-generation college students; plus, many are minority students,” Hannah said.

“Many students are having difficulty with the high cost of education; however, with the higher enrollment rate, we will be able to offer more scholarships and other financial aid options,” Hannah said.

Elmer computer node installed at GR Regional Center

Local access to Merit, a network that links computing at five Michigan universities, is in Grand Rapids through the WMU Grand Rapids Regional Center. Access also is provided to Western’s own stand-alone computing network, WUNET.

Equipment has been installed that provides local access to all WMU constituents in Grand Rapids, including students enrolled in WMU courses through the regional center. Access can be achieved by authorized users who have a computer and a modem by a local telephone call or by visiting the center. Hereafter, anyone requires a long-distance telephone call.

In addition, Grand Rapids colleges as well as local business and industry now can conveniently gain access to computer resources that have not previously been readily available locally, but which may be available at WMU and the other Merit institutions.

“This represents a significant expansion of services by Western in Grand Rapids,” said Dean Richard T. Burke, continuing education. “It also represents new opportunities for cooperation between different and other institutions of higher education in Grand Rapids.”

The establishment of a Merit “node” at the WMU Grand Rapids Regional Center, located at the corner of Fountain and Division streets, will allow the division to add a local service to the already established Merit nodes in the other institutions of higher education in Grand Rapids.

I’ll do the best job I know how to

President assures committee of commitment to cooperation

Telling his colleagues, “I’ll do the best job I know how to,” President Haenicke declared last week at a meeting of the Faculty Senate, “All of us must engage in a very active recruitment, as students, faculty and staff, to work together as a unit in this University.”

It was Haenicke’s first opportunity to address the Senate, and he used it to affirm his commitment to cooperation. “We can’t have divisiveness brought about by things that should not divide us and must not divide us in the future.

“We work for one common purpose,” he continued. “We want to provide in this University a fine, stimulating intellectual atmosphere—an atmosphere that is conducive to good teaching, research, and learning. It’s an atmosphere that is conducive to the work that we, as professors, do and that we, as students, pursue.”

“I will work very hard and tirelessly to build a good relationship with all faculty and colleagues in this University,” he said. “I am absolutely confident that my colleagues in the University will do the same. And if we form the typical, the normal alliances that we should have—namely, an alliance built on the goal of working for the betterment of our University and an alliance built on mutual trust, on confidence—we cannot fail.

“We have a good future, if we work at it and if we know, if we really know, and agree upon what we want.”

James A. Jaksa, communications arts and sciences and president of the Senate, told the Senate, “You share (those goals) as strongly as I do, and feel them as strongly as I do—that there is a sense of hope and optimism at Western this year, that we really are dedicated to trying to pull together and work effectively with the President and with the rest of the administration, and that we do want a sense of collegiality throughout the University.”

Haenicke said he has been impressed “with the many good initiatives that the University has taken to attract itself and to help itself,” including the report of the Blue Ribbon Task Force on the Nature of the University: “I’m giving that report very careful and interested attention, and hope that much of what is contained in it will help us build a better, safer, more stable future for our University.”

In action later in the meeting, the senate voted to forward to the President a series of recommendations it has approved as a result of the task force’s work for his “consideration and action.”

CHester B. Rogers, political science, summarized the report for

The Senate as part of the meeting. He said, “We are proud of what he described as ‘concerns.’” He started by saying, “We began this fiscal year with a deficit budget. That, balanced as it is, the budget is very, very lean—as a budget as it has been in many respects.

The state allocation, which shows on the books as a several million-dollar increase, is essentially spent.

Concerning recommendations of the Governor’s Commission on the Future of Higher Education, Haenicke said, “More than anything else, I am alarmed—not frightened, but alarmed—that such institutions as Michigan State, Michigan and Wayne State see (those recommendations) in a very different light than we do.

There is a much broader mood outside our institution favoring the centralization of graduate programs in just a handful, namely three and possibly four, institutions.” He said, “That, of course, means that our University might be classified differently from what we think it should be. Therefore, suggestions coming out of the Senate with regard to planning for the future are most timely. In fact, they are urgent, and we must get to that business very quickly.”

He added that discussion of that issue would have to occur on “several levels, including the level of argumentation and justification of our role,” on the “intellectual level” and “last, but certainly not least, on a political level.”

He also expressed concern over the effects of deferred maintenance on the campus.

NEWS CONFERENCE—Dean Richard T. Burke, left, continuing education, and Thomas C. Gabriele, director of the Academic Computer Center, conducted a news conference Monday in Grand Rapids to announce the installation of a Merit computer network node at the WMU Grand Rapids Regional Center. The news conference was attended by representatives of the Grand Rapids Press as well as local radio and television stations.
Unique career center established in CWU

A unique career center to serve men and women in West Michigan has opened in the Center for Women's Services (CWS) on the third floor of Ewell Hall.

Titled "Careers Plus," the center is a unique concept because it offers not only career information but also personalized assistance by qualified staff persons at all times. "Looking for a job can be frustrating and discouraging," says Ann Libby, career counselor at the center which opened recently. "Careers Plus offers more than going into a library and attempting to seek out job search information on your own. At Careers Plus, job-hunters will have personal support along each step in the process."

Reception Wednesday for Medallion Scholars

A reception honoring the recipients of both 1984 and 1985 Medallion Scholarships has been scheduled for 4 to 6 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 25, in the Fearer Center. Faculty and staff members are invited to attend. President Haencke will make remarks.

Each Medallion Scholar receives $20,000 from a private donor over a four-year period to attend Western without regard to need. The program was established in 1983 under the leadership of Trustee Emeritus J. Michael Kemp of Kalamazoo, a former chairperson of the Board of Trustees.

Members of the Board of Trustees, faculty, staff members of the parents of Medallion Scholars are expected to attend the reception, which will be hosted by the Office of Alumni Affairs and Development. The Medallion Scholarship program is continuing at present for such pro-

The Board of Trustees July 9 approved the appointments of three faculty members as department chairpersons.

R. Claire Callan, chairperson of occupational therapy, was effective July 1. She succeeded Lois Campbell, chairperson of finance and law, which was effective July 1; and Werner Sicllo, chairperson of social sciences, which was effective Aug. 12.

Callan has been a full-time Western faculty member since 1982, and in 1983, she took an additional year of study in occupational therapy since 1979, replaces Barbara A. Rider, who has returned to teaching in the department.

An associate professor of occupational therapy, Callan has coordinated student fieldwork in the department since 1979.

Anton Group to discuss a new paradigm

The Office of Faculty Development has announced that the first meeting of the Anton Group will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 25, in the Anton Group office. All faculty and staff are invited to attend.

June S. Cottrell, communication arts and languages, speaker: "Meaning: Confirming the Need for a New Paradigm" She will introduce a cognitive style instrument which seems to identify those who approach learning in a holistic fashion.

The Anton Group, a colloquium which was organized last winter, conducts meetings to explore the cross-disciplinary interest. According to Callan, the purpose of the Anton Group is to "commit to maintaining an environment in which we promote critical thinking and intellectual risk.s."

To receive notices of the group's meetings, persons may call Mrs. Jean Ramsey, faculty development, at 3-1357.

Free counseling available

Free counseling is being offered to the community by Western's Counseling and Psychological Services (CPS).

CPS functions as a training arm for the Michigan Department of Counseling and Personnel. The staff is comprised of advanced graduate students in counseling and counseling psychology, as well as one of the group's organizers, the group is "committed to maintaining an environment in which we promote critical thinking and intellectual risk.s."

Three honored by CIP

Three Western employees recently were honored at the national conference of the Council of International Programs (CIP) in Cincinnati.

The awards were given in recognition of "outstanding contributions to international education and understanding." The awards are presented to two outstanding educators or administrators, two outstanding service personnel and two outstanding non-print contributors.

Shirley A. Ray, WUMK, and Harold L. Ray, health, physical education and recreation, were honored for being a host family to those visitors for 14 years.

Schlag elected

Lawrence B. Schlach, educational leadership, has been elected president of the Michigan Association of Professors of Educational Administration for 1985-86. The organization includes faculty members from Western, Michigan State University, the University of Michigan, Wayne State University, the University of Detroit, Central Michigan University, Eastern Michigan University, and Oakland University.

R OLL OF/EM—Booking everything from "Winemakers in France" to "Conscience of a Child" to "This is Marshall McLuhan" is all in a day's work for Ellee R. Dely, an educational director at the Radio/Television Center in Wally Library. She helps people across campus reserve films for classes and other activities from Western's library of more than 2,200 movies.

According to Dely, most are educational films, along with some foreign academic year and campus groups who wish to order films off campus. "I've always loved films, and working in the A-V Center gives me the opportunity to learn more about them," she says. "I also love having so many people in the Western University."

Dely has worked at Western for three years and in the Audiovisual Center for the last year. Previously, she was a temporary traffic coordinator and announcer at WKZT. Dely's work is one-hand with the bachelor's degree program she currently is pursuing through Western's student planned curriculum—her emphasis are in communication arts and sciences, public relations and audiovisual.

Faculty, staff retirements recognized by Board
The retirements of two faculty members were approved and the retirements of three staff members were recognized by the Board of Trustees at its meeting July 19.
A faculty member approved for retirement with full retainer status were: G. G. Dadlani, social work; effective June 30; and William F. Morrison, chairperson of finance and commercial law, which was effective June 30.
Staff members recognized, along with their years of service and effective dates of retirement were: Robert L. Brinker, grounds, 14 years, was effective July 6, 1988; Samuel Kahnd, residence hall custodial, 14 years, was effective June 28; and George Palmer, residence hall custodial, 12 years, was effective July 12.
Dadlani has been a faculty member at Western since 1969. From 1972-82, he directed an internship program for social workers from abroad sponsored by the Council of International Programs (CIP) and the School of Social Work. He has served on the CIP's program committee and as chairperson of its task force on program goals.
Morrison served as director of admissions and scholarships for the School of Social Work in 1975-78. Before coming to Western, he was a faculty member and dean at the University of Barbara in India and has been an active member of the Western faculty since 1965. He has been president of the WMU Faculty Senate, has been an advisor to pre-law students and has been responsible for coordinating law-related student internships. He was the first recipient of the WMU Alumni Association's Teaching Excellence Award in 1966. Although officially retiring, Morrison will continue to teach at Western. His ap­pointment as an adjunct professor, effective July 1, 1985, and terminating July 1, 1988, was approved by the Board at its meeting.
