Western, Faculty Union Reach 3-Year Tentative Agreement

Western has reached a tentative 3-year collective bargaining agreement with its faculty union, the American Association of University Professors (AAUP).

Bargaining teams for the two parties reached agreement late Sunday afternoon (August 27) with the assistance of Michigan Employment Relations Commission Mediator Howard Case. A motion to reject the multi-year agreement was defeated late Sunday night by the AAUP’s chapter membership; the vote was 273 against the motion and 264 for rejection.

“We are very pleased indeed that both parties were able to reach a multi-year agreement, with the able assistance of MERC mediator Howard Case, and that the faculty voted last night to accept it,” said WMU President John T. Bernhard. “The encouraging aspect of a multi-year agreement is that it enables us to focus our energies on the academic programs and future development of Western Michigan University. I am grateful for the hard work that was done at the bargaining table by both parties for the good of this University.”

The new contract provides for 8 percent compensation in each of the first two years, including a 6.94 percent across-the-board salary adjustment in the first year, plus an economic reopener in the third year. Other provisions include: a merit pay pool of $100,000 each year to be distributed in bonuses of not less than $300 to approximately 25 percent of the AAUP members; $100,000 for the Faculty Research Fund in the first year and $140,000 in each of the second and third years; annual promotion increments; fringe benefit improvements; and an improved early retirement option.

Across-the-board salary adjustments for academic year faculty in the first year are as follows: professor, $1,535; associate professor, $1,355; assistant professor, $1,150; and instructor, $975. Those levels are each $50 above the 1977-78 contract adjustments. The 1978-80 increases are each $50 above the 1977-78 levels.

If the faculty union and the University’s Board of Trustees both ratify the proposed agreement by September 16, the new salary rates will be reflected in the faculty paycheck on September 26; retroactive pay will be paid on October 10, explained Robert B. Wetnight, WMU vice president for finance.

A salary minimum schedule, included in the agreement, provides for a minimum academic year starting salary of $18,500 for professors, $14,500 for associate professors, $11,500 for assistant professors and $10,000 for instructors.

The duration article of the agreement stipulates, “Article XXX (Economic Compensation) shall remain in full force and effect until June 30, 1980, with bargaining on these matters to commence no later than May 1, 1980, provided written notice is served by one (1) party upon the other no later than March 15, 1980. Should the parties commence bargaining no later than May 1, 1980, no less than five (5) percent and no more than eight (8) percent of the 1978-80 incremenable faculty base shall be available for bargaining purposes. If the consumer’s price index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics for the Detroit area from January 1, 1979 through December 31, 1979, exceeds nine (9) percent, the Chapter may serve written notice upon Western no later than March 15, 1980, that the Chapter wishes to commence bargaining no later than May 1, 1980, on the entire contract or whichever Articles the Chapter selectively wishes to reopen for bargaining.”

Ratification Vote Thursday

Members of Western’s faculty union, the American Association of University Professors (AAUP), will vote on ratification of a proposed 3-year agreement with the University from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 7, in the Martin Luther King Room of the University Student Center.

The AAUP campus chapter will provide two copies of the tentative agreement to its departmental representatives and multiple copies will be available in Waldo Library, the Educational Resources Center in Sangren Hall and the Business Library in North Hall at least 72 hours before the ratification vote is taken, explained Arnold Johnston, the faculty union’s chief negotiator.

Western’s Board of Trustees is expected to vote on ratification of the proposed multi-year contract at its regular meeting on Friday, Sept. 15.

Faculty Senate Meets Sept. 7

The first fall semester meeting of the WMU Faculty Senate will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 7, in Room 1006, Adrian Trimpe Distributive Education Building.

Proposed agenda items are: the Senate budget; Council election; reconsideration of the structure of the Educational Policies Council; report of the ad hoc Committee on Academic Standards and Grading; and discussion of the report of the ad hoc Committee on Liberal Education.

Senators are asked to bring their copies of the above two ad hoc committee reports.

WERE YOU THERE?—Above was the scene last Saturday when 4,072 students participated in the final day of registration at Read Fieldhouse, where work on the installation of a new indoor running was temporarily suspended. Tuesday is the last day for class drops and adds. Registrar Dennis Doyle estimates that the final registration head count will exceed 20,300.

Bronco Buses on Duty

The Bronco Transit bus system here at Western, which last year averaged about 15,000 fares a week, begins Labor Day holiday, from 4:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 5, and will continue Monday-Friday service until December 15, except when classes are dismissed.

Fare rates are $1.25 each a semester and offer the best savings to persons who ride the bus 10 times or more weekly. In addition, a bonus ride ticket for 10 rides costs 15 cents each. single cash fares paid on a bus are 15 cents each.

All buses provide free transfers between east/west campus and Goldsworth Valley routes up to one-half hour after issue, with transfers acceptable between campus Bronco Transit and Kalamazoo City Metro Transit buses which serve the WMU community along West Michigan Avenue and Oakland Drive, going to downtown Kalamazoo.

Because Bronco Transit bus drivers do not carry change, exact fares must be paid. However, a token good toward a bon used ride ticket is given to those presenting 25 cents or more.

Class dismissal periods, when Bronco Transit buses will not run are: Labor Day holiday, from 4:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 5, to 7:29 a.m. Monday, Sept. 12; single cash fares paid on a bus is 15 cents each.

Paper Students Return

Eleven students who completed the 1977 chemistry and engineering program for high school juniors, conducted by the WMU paper science and engineering department, have enrolled as freshmen this fall semester here at Western.

Seibert Fund Provides Undergraduate Assistantships

The Russell H. Seibert Fund will continue to support undergraduate students in teaching and research assistantships, independent research and other kinds of scholarly and intellectual activity during 1978-79. Application deadlines during fall semester are Tuesday, Sept. 12, and Tuesday, Nov. 28. Applications are available at the Honors College, Hillside West.
Oscar Winner Gives Film Talk

American filmmaker, animator and producer Gene Deitch will present a free lecture at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 6, in 759 Knauss Hall.

The Oscar winner and five-time Oscar nominee will discuss three topics: The Art of Visual Communication; Why We Make Films Out of Children's Books; and How Films Can Channel Children Back to Books. Zdenka Deitch, studio production manager, will accompany her husband and participate in the program.

Gene Deitch, a resident of Prague, Czechoslovakia, has authored many TV commercials and films, including "Munro," "Where the Wild Things Are" and "The Picture Book Animated," all of which are available at Western's Audiovisual Center, Waldo Library.

His campus visit will be sponsored by WMU's Division of Instructional Communications, College of Education, communication arts and sciences and English departments, and the School of Librarianship. Wanda Herman, WMU assistant professor of instructional communications, is program coordinator.

While here, Deitch will conduct a special workshop for WMU faculty and staff members directly involved in communications.

Course Covers 'Roots' Rerun

Alex Haley's award-winning book and television series, "Roots," will be used in WMU Black Americana Studies course this fall, according to an announcement from the WMU Division of Continuing Education.

Those who enroll in the independent study course will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 5, in 2460 Dunbar Hall for an introductory lecture by the instructor, Dr. Benjamin C. Wilson, assistant professor of Black Americana Studies. From 9-11 p.m., they will view a showing of Haley's story, tracing his ancestry back to The Gambia in Africa around the 1750's.

The television program will be presented on WUBQ, Battle Creek and WZZM, Grand Rapids. The series continues from 9-11 a.m. Sept. 6, 8-11 p.m. on Sept. 7, and concludes from 9-11 p.m. Sept. 10.

TV sets will be available at all the above times in 2460 Dunbar Hall, or enrollees may watch the series in their homes if they prefer. However, they are required to meet from 8-10 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 12, and Thursday, Oct. 12, in Dunbar Hall.

Registration fee is $9. The course offers two hours of undergraduate credit. For registration forms and additional information, contact the Division of Continuing Education, phone 383-1860.

NEW STEAM LINE installation between McCracken Hall and the Seibert Administration Building is expected to be completed in about two weeks. Work is being done by a private contractor, Associated Mechanical Services.

Career Contracting Workshop Planned

"Contracting for a Career," a five-week workshop to help those who want to change careers or return to school, will be held from 5-7 p.m. Mondays, starting Sept. 11 in the Center for Women's Services (CWS) Conference Room, third floor of Ellsworth Hall.

The course in career awareness, home and job management, resume writing and interviewing skills will be taught by Rita Balkin, CWS program coordinator and career counselor. She will assist class members in matching personal and professional skills with potential careers.

Balkin, who has a master of arts degree in counseling and is certified in Transactional Analysis, noted that the course will aid people who want to decide on careers and show them how to go about job hunting. She will make use of films, discussions, self-inventories and small group sessions.

The fee for "Contracting for a Career" is $5 for all enrolled WMU students, $10 for non-students. Registration deadline is Wednesday, Sept. 6, at the CWS office. For additional information, call 383-6097.

Chamber Music Series Resumes

The department of music will resume its Friday Night Chamber Music series on September 8.

These free, public recitals are held at 8 p.m. in Oakland Recital Hall on selected Fridays during the academic year. This year's first program will feature three faculty ensembles in an "Evening of Old Music."

Former Chairman Martinson Dies

The former chairman of the WMU counseling and personnel department, Dr. William D. Martinson, died suddenly Tuesday (Aug. 29) in Kalamazoo’s Bronson Hospital at the age of 54.

He served as head of the department from July 1, 1970, to Jan. 1, 1977, at which time he resigned to return to classroom teaching.

Survivors include his wife, Lois Jean, a daughter, Julie Marie Pike and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Martinson, Fndley, Mip.

Arrangements are being handled by the Langeland Downtown Memorial Chapel. A memorial service will be held at 3 p.m. Friday, Sept. 8, in Kanley Chapel. In lieu of flowers, the family asks that contributions be sent to the W. D. Martinson Memorial Fund, % Dr. Robert Betz, 2010 W. Grand Ave., Kalamazoo 49007.

New Safety Rules Here

New University safety rules go into effect Friday, Sept. 11, according to Robert B. Wetnight, vice president for finance.

Members of the Safety Division have completed the training and orientation sessions for deans, directors, department heads, chairpersons and supervisors on the newly-adapted rules. But it is the responsibility of all WMU employees, students and guests to read, understand and abide by them, he noted.

Any employees who have not received a copy of the new safety rules should contact their department head.

Copies for students are available at the Safety Division Office in the department of Public Safety Building.

CWS Leadership Training Offered

A leadership training workshop for people active in small groups, such as church, club, civic and other service organizations, will be held at Western one morning per week for five weeks starting Monday, Sept. 11, sponsored by the Center for Women’s Services (CWS).

Workshops will be held from 9:30 a.m.-noon in the Kiva Room, Faunce Student Services Building. Participants will learn to lead small groups, be techniques in listening, responding, feedback, handling conflicts, problem-solving and making decisions.

Merry Pattison, a WMU graduate student in Counseling and Personnel, will conduct the workshop. She will show how small groups can create a productive environment within a group that has mapped certain goals for itself.

Trained committee leaders will learn to help such groups become more effective in the use of their resources and their problem-solving efforts.

The fee is $55, which includes a book and all other materials. A deposit of at least half the fee must be paid by the registration deadline, Wednesday, Sept. 6, to insure a place in the workshop.

For additional information and to register, call CWS, 383-6007.

Photo Exhibition

In Sangren Hall

The department of art is sponsoring a public exhibition of photographs by Carl W. Christiansen (1872-1949) in Gallery II of Sangren Hall from September 5-27 through the cooperation of the Kalamazoo Art Center.

This large collection has been in the Kalamazoo Art Center’s permanent collection since 1962, but the bulk of the work has never been exhibited before. Thomas Ruckstaetter, Art Center exhibit designer, has assembled the necessary research on Christiansen and his work.

Martin Mull "America 2Night"

Martin Mull, sometimes known as “Barth Gimble,” host of the recent TV series “America 2Night,” will be presented by Western’s Student Entertainment Committee at 8 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 16, in Miller Auditorium.

Mull has been a mainstay on ABC-TV as a featured artist on several off-the-wall series, including “Mr. Belvedere,” and the series “America 2Night” created and written by Norman Lear, including first the role of Garth Gimble, and then twin brother Barth Gimble on “Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman” in continuing the role of Garth Gimble on “Forever Fernwood.” “Fernwood 2Night” and until just recently “America 2Night.” On “Fernwood 2Night” and “American 2Night” Mull has been featured as the silky smooth talk show host.

Tickets are priced at $7.50, $6.50 and $5.00.
